THE MOVIE FAN'S LETTERBOX

By HENRY M. NEELY

"Malinda writes: "Tonight I read and comparatively easily as it does to the names of some of the crushes you these movie stars. Human nature simthe names of some of the crushes you have in your column. I was mighty glad to find that I have a crush on four of these you mentioned, namely, Alice Terry, Betty Compson, Jack Holt and Dick Barthelmess. I think Alice Terry and Betty Compson are two of the most beautiful actresses on the screen, I also like Lila Lee and Norma Tal-madge, but I think the latter has been playing in poor pictures lately. I am a great admirer of his. I know very few people who profess to like him and yet, wherever he plays there is a full house and the very people who say be makes them tired are the ones to laugh the loudest." The second seco

I have the greatest administion for him—so much so, in fact, that it really hurts me to see him in a custard pie stunt.
You bet I like Lon Chaney. Who that has seen the "Miracle Man." and "Penalty" does not? His other recent pletures are "The Night Rase."

will be pretty hard for Estelle to fill, don't you think? "Perhaps 'Jane Eyre' did not appeal to Carol Pemberton because Mabel Bal-lin did not wear gowns of Miss Swanin did not wear gowns of Aliss Swah-son's bizarre type in the early parts, or because she acted her part to a tee. I think 'Jane Eyre' was wonderful as to story, direction, acting, photography, interiors and exteriors; therefore a 100

Our house is a Valentino faction and any time they get at me on the subject I just hand them the April 4 issue of the PUBLIC LEDGER and tell them to read what a men that knows any on "Four Horse."

LEDGER and tell them to read what a man that knows says on 'Four Horse-men,' as I am on your side. "In conclusion, let me ask you this question: Don't you think the produc-ers are overdoing various subjects? Take "The Sheik.' for instance. There's now "The Sheik.' for instance.' has don "The Sheik.' all coming. What's your opinion?"

(My opinion is that the moving pleture producers seem to have lost all touch with the trend of public taste. I don't think they are showing the in-telligence I would expect from an office hoy. They are continuing to pile on boy. They are continuing to pile on the hokum in great gobs in spite of the very obvious fact that the public is rapidly becoming very critical of pie-tures and is getting harder and harder to fool every day. This applies, of course, to most, but not all. Like all assertions about any class, there are ex-contions which give hope of hetter ceptions which give hope of better things. But the downward trend is noticeable in so many cases that many fans are getting disgusted with the whole moving picture proposition. It's unfortunate, too, for we are getting some mighty fine pictures these days.

I'm glad you pointed out Tyrone Power's work in "Footfalls." It was masterly; nothing less. But I'm not going to agree with you about Estelle Taylor. I think she is very charming and pronfising.)
