

SEEK FLYING FIELD FOR ATLANTIC CITY

Commissioners to Take Advantage of Ninety-Day Option on Proposed Site

SECOND SET OF TWINS BORN

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger Atlantic City, April 7.—The first set of twins born here yesterday was taken here yesterday. At their weekly meeting the commissioners decided to take advantage of an offer for a ninety-day option on the big tract at the Albany avenue entrance to the city. The ground offered is about a mile square and is bounded on two sides by water, giving access to seaplanes.

The tract, which is about a mile square, is the largest plot of ground remaining here, and is offered for $370,000. The action of the commissioners has the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanas and Rotary Clubs and other organizations.

Atlantic City's tax rate for the year will be $3.08 the $100, a reduction of twenty-six cents from last year, according to official announcement made yesterday by the city rulers.

Dr. Charles B. Kaign, buy at his office at 905 Pacific avenue Wednesday night received a telephone call he had been expecting for some hours because the stork was hovering over his home at 3402 Winchester avenue. With the ring he was quick to take down the stork.

"Well, was it a boy?" he inquired. "No," came back from the nurse at the other end of the wire. "Just two of the loveliest little girls."

"Two girls. I'll say the stork is generous," he replied, harking back to four years ago, when the stork on his visit had left twins, both girls.

Simon Faber, who has tried to reform politics and politicians on the average of once a year here for the last decade, is peeved because he says the ministers of the city do not give him support. Several months ago he circulated petitions seeking the recall of Mayor Edward L. Butler and William A. Cuthbert, Safety Director, alleging they had failed to take action against gambling places he enumerated.

"I blame the Ministerial Union. You can't tell where they stand," he declared yesterday in announcing he was through with reform waves.

More than 200 merchants are subjects of warrants issued yesterday by Lewis Martin, tax collector, acting under instructions from the City Commissioners for failure to meet levies on personal taxes. The stocks will be seized and sold in public auction to satisfy the assessments unless the merchants meet the levies.

TESTIFY MRS. FRADY HELD REVOLVER WHEN KILLED

Husband Cites Wound on Index Finger to Support Claim

Miami, Fla., April 7.—(By A. P.)—Testimony to show that Mrs. Dorothy Frady, prior to receiving the bullet wounds which caused her death, firmly held a revolver in her right hand, was submitted at the hearing yesterday afternoon on the petition for a writ of habeas corpus to release Edgar C. Frady of Chicago, held on a charge of murdering his wife, from jail on bond.

Frady, who is charged with following his wife here from Chicago and shooting her after a twelve-hour struggle in his suite in a local hotel, recently, did not appear during the hearing.

His attorneys presented a physician's certificate to show that his condition was such that he could not be moved and they introduced other testimony to prove that his present condition resulted from injuries received during the fatal clash with his wife.

Defense attorneys based their contention that Mrs. Frady held a revolver in her hand on a small wound on her right index finger, which they declared was caused by the trigger when Frady attempted to wrest the weapon from her.

DR. ANDERS IN ROCHESTER

Philadelphia Warns There Are Too Many Specialists

Rochester, Minn., April 7.—A plea that the medical profession pay greater attention to the development of the general practitioner was made at the meeting of the American Congress of Internal Medicine yesterday by Dr. James Anders, of Philadelphia.

He declared that specialization has been carried somewhat too far in that it is attracting the best of the younger men and leaving a dearth of general practitioners, especially in rural districts. In his opinion, the best specialists are those who have at least ten years' general practice and urged that general practice be regarded by the profession as a pre-requisite to specialization.

GIRLS ROB GALLI-CURCI OF $45,000 IN JEWELS

Flee With Case Left by Singer's Maid in Cafe Rest Room San Juan Capistrano, Calif., April 7.—Madame Galli-Curci, opera singer, was robbed here yesterday of jewels and valuables which she said were worth $45,000, when two girls fled with a jewel case which had been left by the singer's maid in a cafe rest room. The singer and her party had stopped here for the night.

The singer, her husband, Homer Samuels, and the maid departed at once for Los Angeles to aid in the search for the girls.

According to Mr. Samuels, he, Madame Galli-Curci and the latter's maid, Mrs. Mae Hendrickson, were traveling by motor between Los Angeles and San Diego and stopped here for lunch. The jewels were entrusted to the maid. She stepped into a restroom in a cafe here, he said, laid the jewel case down for a moment and then, realizing what she had done, returned to get it. It was gone.

The jewels included one seventeen-carat diamond on a platinum cushion-cut ring, one emerald necklace with gold chain, two small diamond rings, one pair of emerald earrings to match, one very large carved single emerald in gold mounting, a number of small pieces.

San Diego, Calif., April 7.—(By A. P.)—Madame Amelita Galli-Curci, who arrived here yesterday for a concert, declined to discuss the theft of her jewels at San Juan Capistrano. Homer Samuels, her husband, said he could tell little more of the affair than already was known.

Samuels declared that Mrs. Mae Hendrickson, his wife's maid, had been with her for five years and that her honesty was not to be questioned. "The jewels were simply lost," he said.

San Diego, Calif., April 7.—(By A. P.)—Prof. Clement Onelli, director of the Buenos Aires Zoo, who organized the expedition which left for Patagonia March 23 in search of the reported plesiosaurian monster, was disturbed yesterday by dispatches from Trelew, the principal town of the Province of Chubut, saying Governor Franzoni of the province had given orders forbidding the capture of the beast.

The dispatches said the Governor acted on instructions received from the Minister of the Interior in Buenos Aires, who had decided to prohibit the hunt at the behest of Dr. Albaracrin, president of the Argentine Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Nothing has been heard from the expedition since it plunged into the wilderness after arriving at Bariloche, Paes, in the edge of the Andes Mountains. Yesterday's dispatches said Governor Franzoni had given instructions to protest against the order "in the name of science."

Prof. Onelli called upon Minister of the Interior Gomez yesterday afternoon to protest against the order "in the name of science."

A note, evidently printed with the utmost care, lay beside the chair in which he was found. It read: "When I am dead notify Harnleys, Akron, O., Melville M. Wilson, I want no funeral services. The church will please keep its hands off."

Wilson for twenty-five or thirty years had been a cello player in various restaurant orchestras in New York. He lost his job when he refused to play jazz. Wednesday night he played his last music—alone in his room.

JAZZ FATAL TO MUSICIAN

Veteran Cellist Commits Suicide After "Swan Song"

New York, April 7.—Follow lodgers said yesterday jazz was responsible for the death of Melville M. Wilson, seventy-two, a musician, who committed suicide Wednesday night. Wilson shot himself with a pistol. Finding that he had not inflicted a mortal wound, he hid the weapon down and inhaled gas through a tube fastened to a jet in his room.

FINEGAN ANSWERS CRITICS

School Head Says He Would Welcome Investigation

Bloomington, Pa., April 7.—Thomas E. Finegan, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, speaking before the Columbia County Directors' Association yesterday, stated that if the public had started ten years ago to make the "noise" over the delay in securing its school appropriations from the State it is making today, it would have secured results long ago.

Dr. Finegan answered critics of the department on his expenditures, saying he would welcome an investigation.
