CLERGYMEN GAIN SUCCESS IN TRADE

One Runs Tea Store, Another Is Financial Adjuster, While Occupying Pulpits

CHURCH PAY NOW HIGHER

Filling a pulpit on Sundays and going to business every weekday is usually looked upon as work for two men, yet there are several elergymen in Philadelphia who have successfully governed congregations for years while actively engaged in commercial pursuits.

Their success was pointed to today as proof that the taients of the average clergyman would give him more substantial rewards in almost any other ne of endeavor and as proof also that the average clergyman is in the ministry in response to an inward call.

The Philadelphia ministers who have won success in business made their start years ago, because their carnings so small that it was necessary for them to find some gainful pursuit for the sake of their growing families.

Conditions have changed since that day, and clergymen, being better paid, as a rule, are no longer goaded by necessity to turn to business. For this reason, fewer have been disposed to take time from their clerical duties during the last few years.

Manages Department Store One of the successful clergymen-business men is the Rev. Dr. Purdy B. Moyer, who is now one of the important men in the management of a departnent store here.

Twelve years ago, when he was pastor of the Moyer Memorial Church, Roxhorough, the depleted condition of the JUDGE LEWIS TO BE HEARD burch funds and the needs of his family caused him to seek employment at the store. He was given a position as tracer. It was a small beginning, but Dr. Moyer advanced steadily and is now one of the high salaried men, being in charge of the adjusting department and having other important duties.

For years, he gave his salary as pastor to the church building fund, living on what he earned at the store. The church was built in bonor of his father and mother, Allen G, and Mary A.

Salaries Are Higher

Clergymen in Philadelphia are under ess financial stress at present than at chimed with what Mrs. Griebel said almost any other time in the past. almost any other time in the past. Salaries were increased by congregations whatever hat forms they thought best suited them. Presbyterian clergymen get at least $1500 a year and a house. Without the manse the minimum salary is $1800. Methodist ministers who are married get a minimum salary of $1300 and a Unmarried clergymen get a minimum of $1000.

Baptist clergymen receive about 30 per cent higher salaries than those of five years ago, but there is no stated minimum. Each congregation decides what shall be the pastor's salary. But
