Bean-Eating Bleacherites Will Root for Mackmen Against Frazee in Opening Game

NAYLOR OR MOORE TO PITCH

ATRLETICS

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK

Boston, Mass., April 12. - Connie Mack stepped into this city of beans and brown bread at a ridiculously early hour this morning, but his athletes didn't mind that, for they arrived last night, and were slumbering peacefully when their boss dismounted at Back

Bay.
Connie has important business in Connie has important business in Beantown. His A's take on the Red Sox in the opening game of the 1922 season brush, and Mack is anxious to get out of the cellar for a day.

This is the second straight year that the Athletics have been forced to break into the baseball campaign on alien soit, but the maintain here with but they will be received here with but they will be received here with acclaim.

The A's will not have to open against the Red Sox and hostile jeers from the stands. The fans will be with the Mackmen and will make them feel more at home, than they do at Shibe and, where remarks from the bleachers and grandstands are not always complimentary.

Boston Against Frazee

This surprising attitude of Boston fandom is no emblem of affection for Philadelphia. Next Monday, when the Yankees are here, they will root for New York, and so on through the year. Boston is not so much with the Athletics as they are against the Red Sox, and not so much against the Red Sox as they are against Harry Frazee, who sold his stars last winter for more than they are against Harry Frazee, who sold his stars last winter for more than thirty pieces of silver, but the idea behind the deals to fans in this city seems to be the same as the moral in the PENN EIGHTS IN DOUBT

Mack still is undecided concerning his pitcher for the inaugural engagement. The choice appears to be between Rollie Navior and Roy Moore. Naylor has been showing in exceptionally good form this spring. The big rive tonight at 10:26 o'clock. A squad right-hander should be one of the best pitchers in the league by this time. He as a world of stuff and should produce. but season after season he fails to show Pennsylvania eights, will greet Coach

Naylor or Moore
Naylor pitched great ball against the Phillies in the exhibition game last Saturday and gave promise of having a good year. It was no mean feat to turn back the hard-hitting Wilhelm athletes.
Moore also has been going well. The southpaw artist seems to be able to control his stuff and if he can put the ball where he wants it this season he will be a valuable man for Mack.
Whitey Witt was left behind in Philadelman and to use him again. The outfielder is on the market and Mack doesn't intend to use him again. The outfield here will be taken care of by Tilly Walker, Frank Welch and Bing Miller. with Frank McGowan in reserve.
