METROPOLITAN COMPANY GIVES WAGNER'S 'PARSIFAL'

Sembach, Claussen and Whitehill Excellent in the Leading Roles Parsifal," the last of Wagner's sie dramas, was given at the Acadof Music last evening before a neity house by the Metropolitan pera Company. It is a tribute to music as well as to the performace that the vast majority of the ence was there promptly at 7 dock; practically all of them reained until the last note of the long The company made an innovaon is not letting late comers into the ditorium until after the Vorspeil nd, although many suffered for a very ight lateness, for the Metropolitan gins its Philadelphia performances to te minute, still it is a good rule.

The performance as a whole, was a ood one, although there was the omison of the transformation scene and veral other effects which are included n the uncut version. Still, Mr. Bod-nsky has made the necessary cuts if ne opera is to be given at a single tting, with considerable discretion. It not an easy matter to shorten a

There was little applause, argely to the fact that a goodly numperhaps an exaggerated idea of the alled 'religious appeal' of the i, of which there is in reality very ttle, discouraged it by hissing for lence when there was a tendency ong the proletariat to recognize the
