DOWER, speed, form. These were the qualities which enabled the University of Pennsylvania grews to make a sweep of the regatta with Yale on the Schuylkill.

It marked the first time in seven pears that Red and Blue crews have then the measure of Eli oarsmen, and it was probably the most brilliant victory of their fifteen meetings.

Penn is going to have a busy season en the water this spring and its opening performance augurs well for future

The distance of the three races was the same in each contest—one mile and fre-sixteenths. Coach Joe Wright's five-sixteenths. Coach Joe Wright's apt pupils won the varsity race by two and a half lengths in 6 minutes 53 seconds; the junior varsity finished one and a half lengths ahead of Yale in 7:02 2-5 and the 150-pound crew beat the Elis by three lengths in 6:45.

Speaking of his varsity crew after the race Coach Wright said: "I doubted if my boys could get as high as 43½, but Jim Rice, the Columbia coach, and several others checked up with me and they insisted we were actually doing 44 for a short stretch." 150-Pounders Brilliant became manifest, and the Red and Blue bont soon drew up on even terms with Yale, forged to the front, sever to be headed, and won the race. The varsity crews got away to a perfect start under the guidance of Daniel Newhall, of Harvard, the refgree. Penn went to the front as soon as the eights dipped their oars. They rowed an exceptionally high stroke, Penn going forty-four to the minute and Yale forty. At 200 yards Penn was leading by a length, and there seemed to be no possibility of Yale ever ending the Red and Blue, even at that early stage.

The Yale eight, averaging 169 pounds, had an exceedingly hard strug-gle against the Penn crew, which averaged 179 pounds. Added to this handicap the Elis were unable to match the endid form of Penn.

The last five-sixteenths saw Yale rally desperately twice, but it fell back as Penn met challenge with Wright Praises Muggler

Defensive Quartet Plays First Division Ball as Senators Fall Before Harris, 5 to 1

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK

CONNIE MACK is well pleased with his new infield. In fact, the gaunt general has a few words of praise for his entire ball club. And why not? Certainly after winning three out of four games in this young campaign the A's are deserving of compliments. The stationary cellar champs look movable this year. New High School Organization Will Stage Baseball and Volleyball This Week

CATHOLIC LEAGUE GAMES

By PAUL PREP

THE junior high schools athletic season will get under way some time s week. No definite date has been set as yet. Four institutions will get into action in two different sports.

The baseball season will be opened with Tilden School meeting Mitchell School and Holmes School being entertained by the Thomas School.

Mitchell School will be opposed to Thomas School and Tilden School will be the great of Halmes School in the be the guest of Holmes School in the Volleyball Lengue.

The idea of having a Junior High School Athletic League has been in the minds of the Supervisory Committee for some time, but before this year nothing definite was done . Carl Hummell, head of the boys' department of physical education in the Philadelphia public schools, was one of the main factors in getting the circuit ested in athletics among the younger schoolboys, and was very much please when the league finally was formed. He says it won't be long before the junior high schools will take care of all the athletics that formerly were freshmen sports. He declared that freshmen athletics would soon be reshmen athletics would soon be abolished in the high schools, and that all such activities would take place in the junior highs.
