Variety in Choice Ways of Preparing Fowl, Meats, Eggs and Sea Food is Cosmopolitan

The kitchen lore of the European countries is alive with choice bits of wisdom, and many helpful hints; as, for example, England has the choice of broiled and broiled meats, while other countries have a typical dish that is served in making.

Olla Podrida (Spanish).
 Select a fat stewing chicken and cut into stewing, cover with one quart boiling water and cook slowly under cover. Now lift into deep casserole or earthen dish and add:

Two large clams, cut in bits,
 Two green peppers, chopped fine,
 One onion, cut in half,
 One cup of string beans, cut in inch pieces,
 Two medium-size carrots, cut in

two place in separate pan
 One and one-half cups of cold beef stock,
 One-half cup of flour,
 Stir to dissolve the flour.

Three tablespoons of sharp vinegar,
 Two tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce,
 One-half cup of bacon, minced fine and nicely browned.

Meat slowly to boiling point and cook ten minutes, then pour over the steamed chicken in the casserole. Simmer in moderate heat for one hour. Use fresh string beans and do not par-boil.

Hungarian Stewed Chicken
 Clean, singe and draw chicken and wash and wipe dry. Now prepare a filling as follows:

Place in mixing bowl one and one-half cups of stale bread that has been soaked in cold water to soften and then squeezed dry and rubbed through a sieve.

Three-quarters cup of finely chopped onions,
 One-half cup of finely chopped celery,
 One teaspoon of poultry seasoning,
 One-half teaspoon of thyme,
 Three tablespoons of butter,
 One cup of cream,
 One teaspoon of salt,
 One teaspoon of pepper.

Mix to blend and use to fill the chicken. Sew the opening with string and darn needle. Now tie slices of salt pork and thin slices of lemon to the breast. Tie the whole chicken in place of cheesecloth and place in roasting pan, adding:

One quart of boiling water,
 Two cloves,
 Three branches of parsley,
 Three onions,
 Cover closely and steam by simmering for two hours, then add:

One cup of cream,
 One tablespoon of flour, dissolved in cream,
 One cup of three eggs, beaten in the cream and flour,
 Four tablespoons of melted butter and one-half lemon.

Mix to blend and then add to the chicken. Simmer until mixture is thick. Simmer for five minutes, strain and add:

One-half cup of finely chopped parsley,
 One teaspoon of paprika.
 Lift the chicken on hot platter and pour over the gravy; garnish with rich cooked tips of asparagus.

Thimbles
 Have the butcher cut sirloin steak about three inches thick and then cut into small pieces, about one and one-half inches wide and three inches long. Place in deep dish and prepare a dressing as follows:

Place in small bowl:
 One-half teaspoon of mustard,
 One-half teaspoon of pepper,
 Juice of one large or two small lemons,
 Five tablespoons of salad oil,
 One tablespoon of chili sauce.

Mix to blend and pour over the individual steaks, and set in cool place one hour to marinate. When ready to serve lift to dry plate and baste with little melted butter and broil as for the usual steak. If you do not have a broiler place in baking pan in very hot oven and roast. Serve with par-

WHAT'S WHAT

It is a significant sign of the times when in an Eastern State, the Federal Reserve Bank has decided that the clothing of their feminine employees must be more reserved, if the girls are to hold their positions. Knees, skirts, low necks, transparencies and bare arms are prohibited, although no extreme of primness is required since the girls are allowed to wear round necks, three-quarter sleeves and skirts "not more than twelve inches from the ground." Since the latest French fashions prescribe seven inches, the bank limit seems liberal.

It is wretched taste for a girl to wear a party gown or "bathing dress" in a business office. There her trumpet is not to be displayed. The business girl who knows how to dress properly is much smarter looking than the miss who wears a party dress to the office. It is an employer's ruling to compel her to wear business-like clothes during business hours.

Put a slice of butter on small, thin slices of bread.

Carmelite Eggs
 Rub a shallow baking dish well with butter and place in bottom a layer of fresh cooked asparagus. Sprinkle this finely chopped pimenton, then a layer of finely chopped onions; now a layer of tomatoes, sliced paper thin. Break over this two eggs for every person. Now add:

One cup of cream,
 One-half cup of finely chopped parsley,
 One-half cup of breadcrumbs,
 and pour over the eggs. Sprinkle with fine breadcrumbs and then with two tablespoons of grated cheese and bake in a moderate oven until the cheese is a delicate brown.

Welsh Eggs
 Place in a sauceron:
 One and one-half cups of milk,
 One-half cup of flour,
 One teaspoon of salt.
 Stir to dissolve and bring to boil. Cook for five minutes, then add:

One-half cup of grated cheese,
 Now cut in thick slices.
 Six hard-boiled eggs.
 Rub a shallow baking dish well with butter. Place a layer of the eggs in dish and then sprinkle liberally with grated cheese; then cover with the sauce. Repeat until the eggs are used, having the top layer of cream sauce. Sprinkle with fine breadcrumbs and grated cheese and bake in moderate oven until cheese is nice golden brown.

Ferrous
 Chop fine:
 One bunch of leeks,
 Four onions,
 Parsnips until tender. Now drain and add:

Two cups of cooked rice,
 One-half cup of finely chopped bacon, nicely browned,
 Three hard-boiled eggs, chopped fine,
 Four tomatoes, chopped,
 Two cups of thick cream sauce,
 One teaspoon of salt,
 One-half teaspoon of pepper,
 Six large clams, minced fine.

Simmer slowly for fifteen minutes and serve in soup dish with slice of nicely buttered toast underneath, garnished with finely minced parsley and well-browned slices of bacon.

A dream come true
 FOR generations architects have dreamed of embodying the slender, graceful lines of English steel casements in windows which the average home could afford.
 In Lupton Cottage Windows (see) that dream has come true. Beautiful, convenient, easy to clean, non-rattling; close fitting without weather strips; they set a new standard of beauty and utility for American windows.

DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

The Music Makers
 By DADDY

Jack and Janet had Fred the Fiddler in the woods where he is trying to catch a new tune. A terrific uproar drives the tune away. The uproar is made by a war between the birds and frogs—a singing war.

CHAPTER III
 Voices Sweet and Voices Harsh
 BIRDLAND thrilled with the clamor of the singing war between the birds and frogs.

The racket was so great Jack and Janet scarcely could think. As for Fred the Fiddler, he kept his hands over his ears and ran around in circles. All the while he kept waiting over the new tune in his head which the noise had driven away.

"Oh, my new tune. Oh, my lovely new tune that will soothe the sick, comfort aching hearts and make little children dance with gladness. Oh, my new tune is gone! Oh, will it never come back?"

Jack and Janet feared it never would come back; no pretty new tune could stand the hubbub of the war between the frogs and birds.

Jack and Janet had not known that birds could make so many different kinds of noises. And none of the noises were like the usual songs of birds. Even the Cat Bird and Brown Thrush and Tommy Chat and Yellow Canary and all the other sweet singers and warblers were shrieking and screaming with the others.

As for the birds with harsh voices, Blue Jay, Judge Owl, Blue Heron, Pokey Bittern, Greenhead Loon, Sandhill Crane, King Fisher and their kind—they were having a splendid time, for in a singing war like this their rough songs counted even more than the sweeter notes of their musical friends.

Pokey Bittern, Sandhill Crane and King Fisher seemed to be running a race in making their voices heard. Pokey Bittern was working his body like a contortionist in a circus and from his throat came a funny noise like the thumping boom of an old pump. Sandhill Crane was croaking like a rusty windmill. King Fisher was rattling like a worn-out auto. Purple Swallow was in command. He rushed back and forth urging the birds to louder and louder screams.

In the marsh General Croaker climbed a tuft of grass and called on the frogs for fierce croaks and bellowing.

"Louder! Louder!" screamed General Purple Swallow. "Scream all day and shriek all night until you show those weak-voiced birds that frogs are better musicians than they are!"

"Louder! Louder!" boomed General Croaker. "Bellow all day and pipe all night until you show those weak-voiced birds that frogs are better musicians than they are!"

Jack and Janet couldn't keep silent that hubbub. They began to shout. "Stop! Stop!" they yelled. "This racket is foolish. Stop or you will have sore throats!"

"Fred the Fiddler added his voice to the clamor.
 "I know how to stop them," he screamed. "Guns will stop the birds; rocks will stop the frogs."
 Jack and Janet knew that, too. This racket might bring the soldiers with guns; it might bring boys with stones to stone the frogs. They didn't want the war stopped that way. But they seemed no other way to end before the fighters wore out their throats.

Then Janet remembered what she once had read about the way battles are halted. That way was to wave a white flag. She didn't have a white flag, but she had a white handkerchief. She drew that out of her sleeve and began to wave it. As she waved she danced between the birds and the frogs. Jack, when he saw what she was doing, drew out his own handkerchief and joined in her raving dance.

(Do frogs and birds know the rules of war? Will the waving of the white flag stop the noisy battle? Tomorrow's chapter will tell.)
