HONOR THEIR DEAD
Memorial Services Conducted for 30 Members—Judge Gorman Is Speaker

GIRL SWALLOWS POISON

Camden Lodge of Moose last night conducted its annual memorial services in the headquarters. Tribute was paid to the memory of thirty members who died since February 22, 1921. The principal address was given by Judge James E. Gorman, of this city, and a member of the local lodge of Moose, Charles Harrison, dictator of Camden Lodge of Moose, presided.

The Moose Orchestra furnished the music for the solemn occasion, and solos were rendered by the Regent Quintet.

Following are the members who died:
Adolph Johnson, William J. Walsh, Russell B. Cline, John H. Tunstall, Rosa T. Barton, James R. Tweedy, William B. Brassard, Joseph White, James O'Neill, David Applegate, William A. Curless, Robert T. Smith, James Simpson, William Lovett, William B. Anderson, Raymond W.
Haines, Frederick Rieckle, Frank Lukens, James R. Hatten, Frank W. Tus-ser, Edmund J. Hayes, Antonio Glad-rosich, Donald L. Ross, Lemuel R.
Weldy, John A. Knauff, William J.
McAleer, James W. Heckman, Alfred Lang, Charles Bates and Charles E.
McCloskey.

Edith Jarasky, nineteen years old, 1210 Lois avenue, Camden, yesterday drank a solution of poison, according to the police, with suicidal intent. A member of the family heard her groans and called in a physician, who sent the girl to the Homeopathic Hospital. A note addressed to a man named "Joe" was found on a table in the girl's room.
In the message she told of her desires to die, and admonished "Joe" for striking her. The girl will recover.

Eight lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in Camden last night were represented in the North Baptist Church, when the Rev. William Morris-son, pastor, delivered a sermon on the 163d anniversary of the founding of the order.

In the Catholic Lyceum members of the Catholic Lyceum Dramatic Club of the Immaculate Conception parish, Camden, will present tonight the comedy "Clarence." The company will be directed by the Rev. Arthur Hayes, assistant pastor of the parish.

SAYS VENUS MODEL WAS NEURASTHENIC

Dr. Thorburn, at Shore, Asserts Stomach of Statue Is in Abnormal Position

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Leader Atlantic City, April 24.—The average modern girl is healthier and happier than her sister of the Venus de Milo type. Dr. Thomas B. Thorburn declared today. He said the model for the famous statue was neurasthenic. For a careful study of the statue disclosed that her stomach was not in normal position.

Dr. Thorburn, who is a New York diagnostic specialist, will address the annual convention of the Eastern Osteopathic Association here this week. The eastern association comprises the States of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland. More than a thousand are expected to attend the sessions, which will open on Friday.

A spectacular cure of deafness and even deaf mutes will be demonstrated by Dr. Curtis H. Munroe, of Brooklyn, who will hold an all-day clinic and treat fifty patients. In the "operation" the osteopathic physician uses his fingers in the patient's throat rather than surgical instruments on the head.

A special train of eight coaches on Friday will move an entire school to Atlantic City—a distance of 225 miles —and the classes, consisting entirely of girls, will not be interrupted during the transfer.

The Penn Hall School, of Chambersburg, Pa., which annually transfers itself to a Boardwalk hotel for the month of May, will depart here this week. The special. Five coaches will take care of the teachers and pupils, while the remaining three will house the equipment, employees and the traveling classroom.

The solution of more than a dozen robberies during the last month is believed to have been found with the arrest of Clarence Harrison, twenty-three, and Helen Harrison, twenty-two, as they were about to step on a Reading train bound for New York.

Their baggage was found to contain a large portion of the loot, valued at several thousands of dollars, taken in numerous burglaries. The victims were notified and identified their property at the detective bureau. The prisoners were held without bail for a hearing tonight.

Atlantic City's first hotel exposition will open its doors at the Steel Club concourse morning with 124 exhibitors, with everything that has a part in the hotel industry holding forth at the booths. The show is to continue for a week, under the auspices of the Avenue Hotel Men's Association.
