The Test Buzzer Is Important

without a test buzzer is like the dog who sat on a tack and just sat there and howled because he was too lazy to get up. Without a buzzer to assure you that your catwhisker is on a sensitive spot on the crystal, you might turn your knobs all night and not get the faintest breath of a signal. And you would blame the set and say that radio is a fake anyway and the man who sold you the apparatus was a swindler.
It is, of course, possible to work a crystal set without a buzzer. It is possible to do almost anything in radio.
The great thing about the buzzer is that it assures you that your contact with your detector is all right. Then, if you don't get signals, you are justified in looking to the set for the trouble.
Neat little buzzers are made especially

Neat little buzzers are made especially for this purpose, but it isn't necessary to buy one. An ordinary buzzer such as the boss uses to call the office boy or such as are put on some front doors instead of bells will do excellently. And, if you have an old electric bell, just take off the bell, break off the clapper arm and you are all fixed.

On all such buzzers, there are two On all such buzzers, there are two binding posts with screw tops for the wires from the battery. You wire one of these posts to your switch or push button and the other to one pole of an ordinary dry cell—not the kind used for nocket flash lamps, but one of the old-fashioned cylindrical ones. Run another wire from the other post of the dry cell to the other screw of the switch or button.

You will notice that the little vibrating arm that does the buzzing vibrates fing arm that does that the little vibrates hetween two coils and a metal upright. Fasten a wire to this little upright preferably by solder, but a good tight twist will do, and run the other end of the wire to any part of your ground wire. It is usually best to fasten it directly to the ground binding post on your receiving set.

directly to the ground binding post on your receiving set.

The process is this:

Put on the phones and press the button to make the buzzer buzz. You will probably not hear it in your phones at first. The sound will come obviously from the buzzer. Keep the buzzer buzzing and feel around on the face of the crystal with the catwhisker wire and soon you will strike a sensitive sport soon you will strike a sensitive spot. This will be indicated by the sound of the buzzer coming unmistakably in the

Even when you are receiving signals, you should press the button once in n while to make sure that your contact is while to make sure that your contact is still good.

With a good spot found on the crystal, you are ready to "tune in." First move the switch blade or else the slider of the part of your coupler marked "primary" and set it to include about twenty turns of wire.

Then. with the primary left that way, change your "coupling" (pulling inner cell in and out with loose coupler; revolving inside coil with variocoupler or opening apart and closing with flat coils) at the same time, with the other hand, turning the knob of the variable condenser around first one way and then the other.

the other.

If you don't get a signal, alter the primary switch or silder to include about six or eight more turns of wire about six or eight more turns of wire and repeat the process with the other apparatus. Keep on this way, giving yourself all possible combinations, and you will soon hear a signal.

When you do. vary your primary by single turns until the signal is loudest. Then move the coupling a trifle and also the variable condenser to see if you can im rove it. If not, you've got it at its best.

Music Week in Philadelphia is Music Week in This Store

Next week is the first annual Music Week in Philadelphia. This Store, the home of the famous Strawbridge & Clothier Chorus, and the birthplace of many musical achievements, is, of course, in perfect harmony and accord with such an effort to interest Philadelphia in Philadelphia's musical genius. Therefore, we have arranged two unusual features for Music Week that will bring the happiness of music to many Philadelphia homes.

Where Business Conquers Through Music-

By HARVEY M. WATTS

The seventeen-year record of the Strawbridge & Clothler Chorus shows remarkable achievement in that it has produced twenty-six oratorios and cantatas, six operas in whole or in part, eleven selections from operas, fifty-one secular choruses for mixed voices, thirteen male choruses, thirty miscellaneous anthems, fifty-four Christmas

Of the above, all of the fol-lowing were first performances: Hymn of Peace and Good Will ... William Arms Fisher

The Call to Freedom Victor Herbert The Four Winds Carl Busch

The Goddess of Liberty
Camille W. Zeckwer The New Earth . . Henry Hadley The Mischianza Camille W. Zeckwer

Harry Alexander Matthews Harry Alexander
Lord of All Majesty
Ralph Kinder

If Doughty Deeds My Lady

Te Deum Laudamus

Shout the Glad Tidings

Prophecy and Fulfilment (1921)......Henry Hadley The following had their first performances in Philadelphia by the Strawbridge & Clothier Chorus:

In Music's Praise, Henry Hadley Judith Geo. W. Chadwick King Olaf Edward Elgar American Flag Carl Busch Victor Herber The Legend of St.

Christopher .. Horatio Parker Tale of the Bell.....Lester Triumph, from Columbia

Christ Has Risen Victor Herbert Gloria in Excelsis

Herbert J. Tily George V Coronation Anthem, Sir Frederick Bridge

The socio-musical significance of the work accomplished by the chorus and its leader cannot be exaggerated. That what it does has received national recognition in every way justifies the idea that here is a case wherein business, which easily succeeds as business, adds a new element to American life when it enters into fields of artistic endeavor, supposedly denied the busy work-a-day world, and actually "conquers through music."
