Married Couples Were Never Instructed How to Spend, Bankers Are Told

Special Disputch to Evening Public Ledger Atlantic City, May 4.—Married couples quarrel over money because as children they were not taught how to spend, according to Mrs. Allan P. Stevens, of Portland, Maine, who addressed the women's section of the National Conference of Mutual Savings Banks here today. Mrs. Stevens urged that children, even those of tender years, be placed on a definite money allowance.

"We have not let our girls and boys who are growing up know what it costs to maintain them," said Mrs. Stevens.

"They don't know anything of the source of money. They don't realize that somebody's efforts has been necessary to earn the money which they are spending so freely and which they are demanding so freely of father or mother or whoever it is that holds the purse strings.

We must give them a definite idea that the allowance is limited and that they must live up to it. We must teach children something of the use of money sefore we put money into their hand

"You know the desire of almost all young boys and girls of the present time is to have pep and be snappy. If you can show them that by making a budget can show them that by making a budget they are going to make enough money to have pep and be snappy, you are going to make a very great success." The conference of mutual savings banks will close tonight with a banquet. Among the speakers will be Governors Cox. of Massachusetts, and Edwards of New Jersey; Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, and Martin W. Lit-tleton, of New York City.

Chicago, May 4.—(By A. P.)—
Father's nightshirt—perhaps even the fuzzy one with the pink stripes and the split at each side of the tail—is coming back, and along with it suspenders, sleeveholders and rubbers—solid, square-toed, conspicuous rubbers. This forecast of an age of innocence
