

ITALY'S KING ENTERTAINS GENOA DELEGATES. Victor Emmanuel arriving for the luncheon, which was on an Italian warship P. & A.

YES, THIS HORSE CAN WALK ON HIS HIND FEET. The rider is Marie Rochet, who recently came from Paris with her well-trained animal

IN THE QUALIFYING ROUND OF BALA GOLF CLUB TOURNEY. John J. Beadle (inset), of Llanerch, returned a card of 79. H. Bart Mollugh (left) is talking with William H. Wilson. They are both of Bala

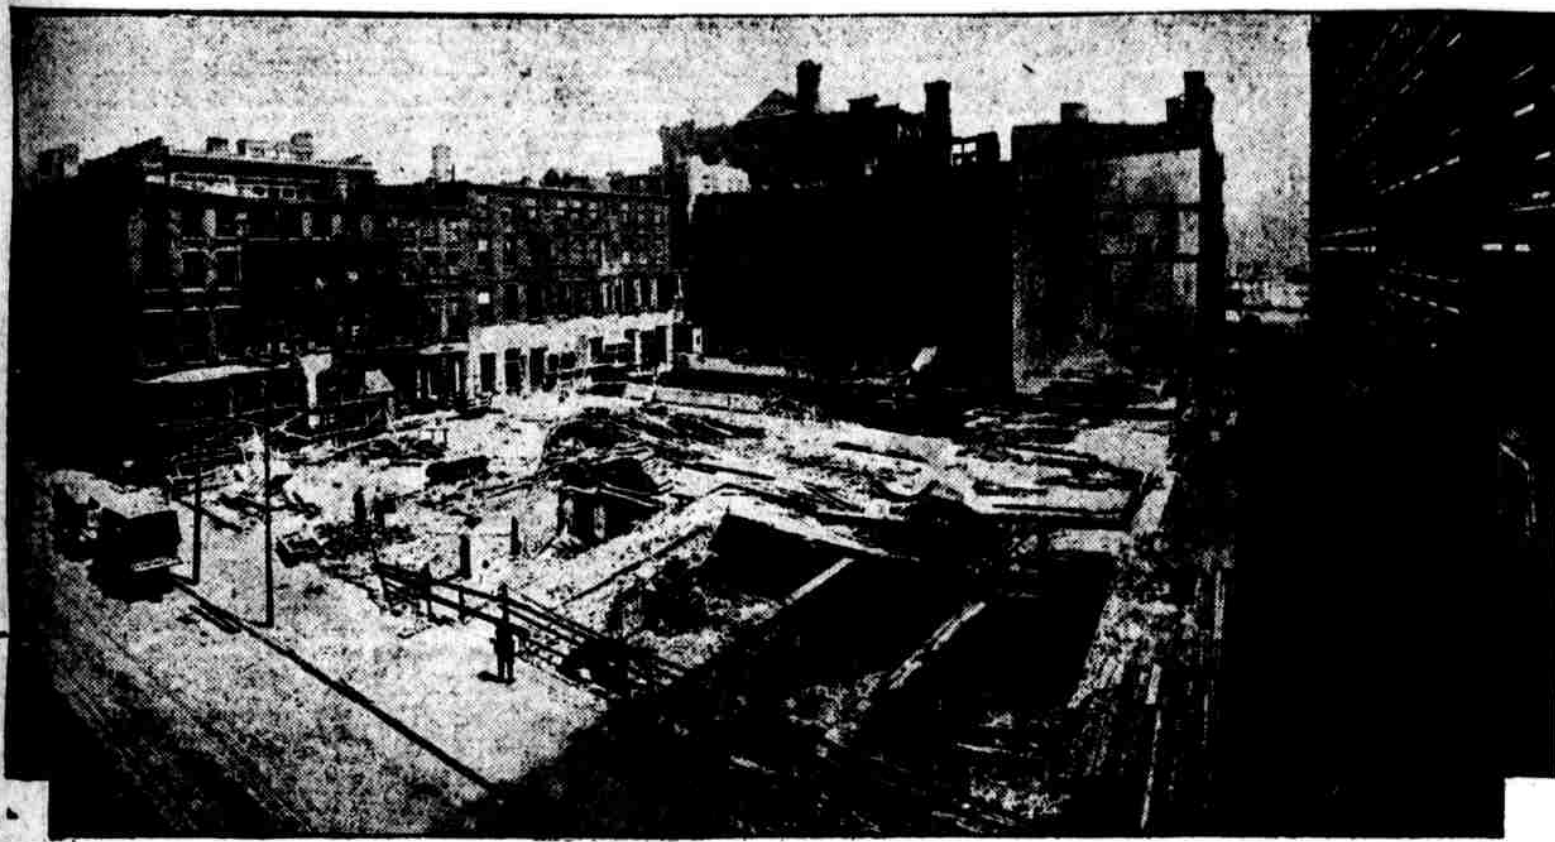

CAN YOU RECALL THIS BIT OF OLD PHILADELPHIA?

WHEN CANAL BOATS BROUGHT COAL FROM PENNSYLVANIA MINES TO PHILADELPHIA. This view of the Bines & Sheaff coal yard, which was located along the Schuylkill, at the west end of the Spring Garden Street Bridge, was taken in 1878. Notice the many canal boats alongside of the coal shed. Dr. Philip A. Sheaff, 4006 Baring street, contributed this photograph

AT FUNERAL OF MADAME GRAY DUNCAN, IN PARIS. Heading the procession is Raymond Duncan, a son of Madame Duncan. The others are relatives and some of the converts to Duncan's belief in simplicity of dress. Isadora Duncan, the dancer, is a daughter of Madame Gray Duncan Underwood & Underwood

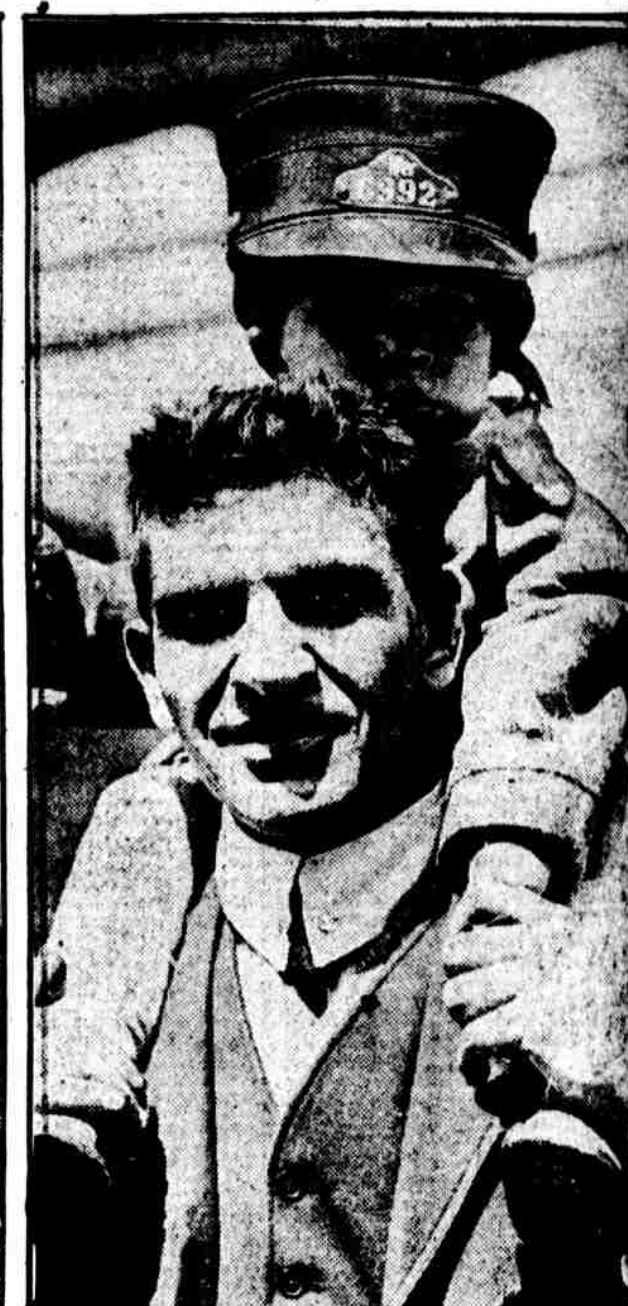

THE FIRST UNIT IN THE NEW HOME OF THE PUBLIC LEDGER COMPANY. This great new printing plant, when completed at a cost of $1,250,000, will house the most modern press and auxiliary press equipment, valued at approximately the same amount. The site, at the northeast corner of Seventh and Sansom streets (above) will soon be ready for the builders. The first brick was taken from the old buildings at Seventh and Sansom streets on March 10 of this year. Apart from its own importance, this new building is of interest because it is the first unit in the PUBLIC LEDGER'S new home, which will cover the whole block between Sixth and Seventh streets and Chestnut and Sansom streets. Construction of the two other units, ten stories high, will start soon

WINNER OF SACK RACE. William Brown jumped well in the color contests of the William Penn Charter School

DORIS HANAMAN, 3104 Reach street (left), and William Bell, 3109 Custer street, as Cupid, in the baby parade held by the Kensington Business Men's Association

TWO ROOTERS. Harry C. Worrell, a P. R. T. motor-man, with his son Burton, saw the Luzerne Barn baseball team defeat Frankford trolleyman

OUR CITY'S WORKERS AND WHAT THEY DO

J. P. McGRATH, 6628 Leeds street, operating a hand shear in the workrooms of J. Spaulding & Sons Company, 141 North Fourth street. He is cutting vulcanized fiber. It is used for insulation.

DR. E. JOHN PRESPER talks of choosing men for public service in Editorial Page interview

THE DEFENDANT AND HIS FAMILY. William Blizzard is on trial at Charles Town, charged with treason, in connection with the miners' battle in West Virginia last September Underwood & Underwood

PAYING TELLER. George Hawkins, of the Girard Trust Company. He is married, has one child and lives at Haddonfield, N. J. Automobiling is his hobby

BUSY PHILADELPHIANS