BOY PARADE CHIEFS GUESTS AT CIRCUS

P. R. T. Head Reserves Section Under "Big Top" for 600 Who Act as Marshals

START MARCH AT 1:30 P. M.

Of all the 52,000 boys who will march tomorrow afternoon in the big parade to inaugurate Boy Week, the 600 safety marshals of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company are the luckiest, for they will be the guests of Thomas E. Mitten, president of the P. R. T., at the circus tomorrow night.

Mr. Mitten has made arrangements for the reservation of several entire sections under the "big top," to say nothing of special cars to transport his guests, and the circus management is taking particular care to have everything in readiness.

The 600, who have been doing yeoman work in co-operation with the transit company's campaign for safety at street crossings, will march under the leadership of "Miss Safety First." There will be three company bands, including the P. R. T. Brass Band, the Kittie Band and the Fife and Drum Corps. The company has also constructed an elaborate float for the occasion.

The parade will start at 1:30 P. M. at Broad street and Girard avenue and march south to Federal street. Point of meeting for the various units are given below. It is estimated that the parade will take from three to four hours to pass a given point.

A special announcement by the Boy Week Committee was made public this morning to clear up a slight understanding which has developed with regard to which organizations boys shall march with.

Boys belonging to a number of organizations may follow their own inclinations in this matter, and are perfectly free to choose any authorized organization to which they belong.

The heads of the parade and their aides follow:

Chief marshal, Superintendent of Buses Mills.

Chief of staff, Harry Edwards, drillmaster, Bureau of Police.

Chief aide, Edward Hubbs, assistant drillmaster, Bureau of Police.

Mounted aids, Mounted Traffic men Harry Hamilton, Walter Bowser, Robert Beveridge, Mounted Patrolmen Thomas Norton, Charles Hugh, John Knox, Joseph Jackson, Michael Cassidy, Charles Young.

Motor aides, Motorcycle men George Weigand, Ernest Holmes, Joseph V. Morahan, Charles Duffy.

The formation follows:

First Division—Time, 1 P. M.—South side Girard avenue, west of Broad street.

Second Division—Time, 1 P. M.—South side Girard avenue, east of Broad street.

INSTRUCTIONS

All bands not assigned will report to Harry Edwards, chief of staff, at Broad street and Girard avenue, 1 P. M.

Floats will report to Harry Edwards, chief of staff, at Broad street and Girard avenue, 1 P. M.

Organizations will march sixteen abreast with two yards interval.

Distance between divisions, fifty yards.

Distance between sections, twenty-five yards.

Rate of march, full step, 120 per minute.

Organizations failing to march with their divisions on time will report on Jefferson street, west of Broad, and will be marched in a body from there.

All divisions will dismiss in the following order:

First division west on Federal street to Nineteenth street.

Second division east on Federal street to Tenth street.

Third division west on Federal street to Nineteenth street.

Fourth division east on Federal street to Tenth street.

Fifth division west on Reed street to Nineteenth street.

Sixth division east on Reed street to Tenth street.

Seventh division west on Reed street to Nineteenth street.

Eighth Division east on Reed street to Tenth street.

Ninth Division, west on Federal street to Nineteenth.

Tenth Division, south on Broad street to Reed.

All floats will continue south on Broad street. To avoid congestion and to afford the best trolley service, where required, it is very essential that the divisions keep their formations until they arrive at their point of dismissal as above ordered.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 160—Disappearing Dollar Bill

The performer borrows a few dollar bills. Placing them one upon the other, he counts them very carefully and immediately gives them to some one to hold. Reaching beneath the table, the performer draws out one of the borrowed bills and the spectator finds that there is one missing from those he is holding.

When he borrows the bills before the trick has actually commenced, the performer lowers his hand an instant and allows one bill secretly to fall in his lap. In arranging the pile of bills, he folds one double, as shown in the illustration (Fig. 2). By holding the pile at the center with his left hand and counting the ends with his right, he is enabled to show one bill more than is actually there. When the performer hands the bills to the spectator, he secretly straightens out the folded bill while forming the pile of greenbacks into a roll. When he reaches beneath the table he merely brings out the bill which is lying in his lap.
