IS IT A JOKE?

[Editorial]

TTORNEY GENERAL ALTER declines to meet Gifford Pinchot and debate the contractor issue.

"Wouldn't that be a profound issue on which to determine a governorship?" he remarked, and added that Pinchot has no sense of humor. But if Alter thinks the contractor issue is a joke he has no sense of the gravity of the situation.

If Contractor Vare, of Philadelphia, and Contractor Leslie, of Pittsburgh, were opposed to him he would have no chance for the nomination. Even his own friends are saying that the Vare and Leslie vote of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh will be big enough to offset the vote for Pinchot in the rest of the State.

Pinchot would have called Alter's attention to this fact and would have challenged him to deny its significance if Alter had been willing to meet him on the same platform.

Every one who has got out of the kindergarten in politics knows that if Alter is nominated Vare and Leslie will demand that he recognize them as his creator and insist that he do their bidding. Then we shall have a contractorowned Governor.

And this is no joking matter. Think this over before voting next Tuesday!
