

DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

The Poor but Proud Sisters
By DADDY

Jack and Janet are taken by the fairy king to help three poor orphans, Anne, Matilda and Rose Marie, gain fame and riches.

CHAPTER II
Godmother and Jolly Goblin

JANET and Jack were disappointed to find that the Fairy King could not give a wish to the three poor orphans. Anne, Matilda and Rose Marie, to help them gain fame and riches.

"Wishing day comes but once a month and wishing day was yesterday," the Fairy King had said.

"Doing is better than wishing," Prince Fittler Flash reminded them. "And the month is filled with doing days."

"But the question is, what shall we do?" said the Fairy King.

Jack and Janet pondered the matter. "As if any humming birds by the magic fairy caps, they felt rather helpless."

Then Jack got an idea.

"If Janet were a fairy godmother and I were a jolly goblin, we might be able to do something," he suggested.

The Fairy King promptly waved his hand and chanted a verse:

"Magic caps! Magic caps! Work your strange charm!
Change these two! Change these two, but do them no harm!"

At once Janet was changed into a dainty fairy godmother as small as a two-year-old baby. And Jack was turned into a jolly goblin.

The three orphan sisters were astonished to see them. "Who are you?" they screamed. "And why do you come here?"

"This little lady is a fairy godmother," answered Jack introducing Janet. "And I am a jolly goblin. We have come to help you win fame and fortune."

"Oh, I am going to win fame and fortune with my cooking," cried Anne. "I do not need any help except to find a rich baker who will make me a partner in his business."

"And I am going to win fame and fortune with my needle," cried Rose Marie. "I do not need any help except to have fine ladies give me orders for party gowns."

Anne trilled a little song that pleased Jack and Janet. Matilda gave them each a piece of pie so crisp and flaky it seemed to melt in their mouths. While Rose Marie offered them fine lace handkerchiefs.

"Where will you find me a manager?" asked Anne. "And me a rich baker for a partner?" asked Matilda. "And me fine ladies with orders for party gowns?" asked Rose Marie.

Jack and Janet couldn't answer these questions.

"One thing is certain," said Jack. "We can't expect a manager, and a rich baker, and fine ladies to come here. We must go out and seek them."

"The three orphan sisters agreed to that."

"We have waited long for fame and fortune to come to us," they said. "But the only things that have come have been hunger and despair."

So they went forth along the broad public highway. They traveled far until they came to a splendid big building. Over a door was written "Opera House—Manager."

"Hurrah!" cried Jack, turning a goblin-like snarl. "This is the very place we have been looking for."

Janet rapped on the door, and a gruff voice bade them enter. Within they found a large, fat scowling man seated at a desk.

"Please, sir," spoke up Janet. "Would you like to hire a sweet singer and help her gain fame and fortune?"

"Huh!" snorted the large, fat man. "That is just the kind of a singer I am looking for. While she gains fame and fortune I'll gain riches. Where is she?"

"Here I am," said Anne, and she confidently stepped forward.

"Huh!" grunted the manager. "Maybe you have a voice that will win fame and fortune, and maybe you haven't. You will have to show me."

(What happens when Anne shows her voice will be told tomorrow.)

Uncommon Sense : Be 100 Per Cent Alive

By JOHN BLAKE

TO BE 100 per cent efficient is past any man's power. He who is 100 per cent alive is far ahead of the average.

Talk to the men around you—even those who are rated as intelligent and successful in their individual lines—and you will discover the most of life is passing over their heads, unheeded.

Half reading the newspapers, they get but a smattering of the news. They miss altogether some of the most important tidings that are brought to their doors every morning.

Half observing the world, they know next to nothing of the miracle of life about them; of the growing trees and flowers; of the marvelous process by which the soil renews its fertility; of the water that nourishes life, moving continually from the ocean to the skies, from the skies to the mountains or plains, and from there back to the earth again.

EVEN human character—perhaps the most interesting thing in all life—for it is life's highest manifestation—is lost upon most of the dwellers of the earth.

There are thousands of people who frame their likes and dislikes of others upon race, or the color of the hair, or their lack of early education.

To be 100 per cent alive is to keep the senses alert for all the manifold impressions that life and nature are always ready to give to the human mind.

It is to be awake all the time that one is not actually asleep—to be ready to observe anything that is new and interesting, whether it is an oriole hanging his hammock nest in an elm tree bough, or a crew of shipbuilders erecting a new dreadnought.

One would think that there was enough of interest in the world to keep every being on it constantly intent to study it.

Yet most people take the most astounding miracles for granted, and are only astonished by the bizarre and the unusual.

A SHOOTING star or a comet, for example will excite any one. The fact that all the stars are sweeping about through space at terrific speeds, and all of them in orderly and regular motion, is not held worthy of the average man's attention.

Perhaps being 100 per cent alive will gain you no more money or fame than being 50 per cent dead before you are in your grave.

But it will certainly make life far more worth the living while you are here.

Adventures With a Purse

COME there be who can go out properly clad on warm days in kid gloves. This Adventure is not for such. It is addressed, rather, to the woman who realizes that gloves are part of the necessary of the well-dressed person, but who cannot stand the confining heat of a heavy glove. I write of a sale of silk gloves, twelve-button length. They are double tipped, and can be had in gray, white, brown or black. And they are specially priced at $1.65 a pair.

This winter a certain imported perfume and powder, due to a very gratifying reduction in price, has been very popular. One of the drawbacks of the powder was that it was not to be had in compact form. And most women who carry powder in their pocketbooks much prefer it in that form. But recently the powder has been put up in the convenient cake form. It comes in a little gold-finished vanity box with mirror and powder puff, and its price is fifty cents. If you have found that this powder suits your skin, I know you will be pleased to know that at one shop it can now be had in cake form.

WANAMAKER'S MAY 16, 1922 WANAMAKER'S

Sale of New "Wara" Straw Rugs Fresh From Japan in Wanamaker's Down Stairs Store

The Quality Usually Known as Grass Rugs

About the best thing we can say about these rugs is that they are the same remarkable value as the last shipment that sold out so quickly the first of April. Since then we have had telephone calls every day for more of them. People who got them then for porches now want entire sets for the whole house. So many people are waiting for this sale that those to whom this is news had better make an early start!

27 x 54 inches	75c	6 x 9 feet	$3.50
36 x 72 inches	$1	8 x 10 feet	$5
4.6 x 7.6 feet	$2.50	9 x 12 feet	$6

The Big Point Is That the Rugs Are Fresh

A straw rug of this quality is one of the most durable rugs made, if it is fresh. By contrast, a dried-out warehouse rug is one of the least durable. The whole value is in the freshness. "New, fresh and clean" are the watchwords of "Wara" rugs. No straw dust about them!

Fresh From the Ship That Brought Them From Japan

There's almost a fresh air of the sea about them. They even smell good! Put a freshly made rug of "live" straw on your floor, wet it now and again and it will keep its appearance and life for years.

"Wara" Straw Rugs Are Made Especially for Us

according to strict Wanamaker specifications. They are of first-quality selected rice straw, made with strong double warps and bound all around with sturdy binding tape that exactly matches the design in color. Border and center designs, stenciled in oil, including some new Chinese patterns and old favorites. In blue, brown and green. All colors and all designs throughout the whole size range, to make complete sets for those who order early enough.

Suitable for All Rooms

and open and enclosed porches, Summer cottages, canoe clubs and other club rooms, boats and even offices.

Being Our Own Direct Importation

all intermediate charges are saved—and we pass the saving, which is a substantial one, on to you. Extra space and extra salespeople make shopping easy and special shipping arrangements facilitate delivery. Telephone and mail orders will be given careful attention.

(Cheating and Central)

Smart Simplicity in Hats at $6

They breathe Summer in line, color and trimming. Most of them combine crepe de chine with soft straw and usually white figures largely in the combination: white-and-jade green, black-and-white, navy-and-white, white-and-buff, white straw and silk with a touch of effective silk or wool embroidery. (Market)

A Little Sale of Women's Extra-Fine Silk Gloves, $1

A real "find" at this price. They are 2-clasp gloves of excellent Milanese silk, double finger tipped, with self or two-tone embroidered backs. In white, pongee, biscuit, mode or light and dark gray.

Long Silk Gloves, $1.15 Pair

Of Milanese silk, double finger tipped, in the popular shades of pongee and mode. (Central)

Navy Serge Sailor Suits for Little Boys of 3 to 8 Special at $7.50

Ordinarily we would pay more wholesale than this low price! Exactly the suits that little boys will wear from the time they take off their coats until warm weather.

Made of excellent quality, fine twill navy serge that will stand hard wear. The Balkan (or French) blouse is buttoned on to straight little trousers that are lined throughout. A beautifully tailored suit with the collar, cuffs and shield braided with white; black tie or cord and sleeve emblem. (Gallery, Market)

600 Pair of Men's Oxfords $5

Brogue Oxfords Blucher Oxfords Tan and black leather oxfords, made especially for us! They are good looking, durable shoes for everyday wear and have welted soles. (Gallery, Market)

Summery Silk Frocks Newly Arrived at $11.25 to $35

Designed especially for warm weather wear, these silks promise to be most delightfully cool.

For the street there are numbers of different models in navy blue and black Canton crepe, crepe de chine and Georgette crepe, some headed, some quite simply pleated. $25 to $35.

Lighter and less formal are the charming new printed crepes which are so fashionable this season. They show wee printed designs in light colors on white or tinted crepe and are often combined, in the making, with white crepe de chine. $11.25 to $25.

Prices Specially Lowered on Several Groups

$10—for dresses of navy tricotine or wool jersey in heuna, reindeer or navy.

$15—for taffeta dresses, a few Canton crepes and some tricotine dresses with printed silk crepe for trimming.

$20—for a variety of navy and black taffeta dresses, some with flowing sleeves of embroidered Georgette, some with wee pin tucks. (Market)

Princess Slips With Doris Hems, $2

Of soft white nainsook, these are exactly right to wear under new Summer dresses. The band tops are edged with narrow lace and the Doris hems reach to the hips, making virtually a double petticoat.

Bluebird Crepe Nightgowns, $1

Women's nightgowns of soft pink crepe with fluttering bluebirds printed on them.

Crepe Chemises, $1

Band-top envelope chemises in white or pink.

Plisse Crepe Sets, $3

White Petticoats, 75c

Edged with a pretty embroidery flounce and each with an underlay.

Step-in Drawers, $1

Of pink, lilac or light blue batiste with lace edgings or striped material for bindings. Ever so pretty. (Central)

Notes for Brides

Hand-made chemises with baby Irish or filet edging, $3.75; ever so sheer and dainty with a band of lace around the top, ribbon shoulder straps and a wee edging around the hem. White satin step-ins, $3.50; of glistening white tub satin with tiny ruffles. (Central)

Do-A-Good-Turn Day

GIVE THE BOYS ICE CREAM

It is more than a delicious treat. It is a wholesome food. It is a body builder.

SUPPLEE ICE CREAM

Seldom equaled—Never excelled

We wish to donate a plate of ice cream to every boy and girl in the Hospitals of Philadelphia on Thursday, May 18. Will the hospitals please let us know their requirements to-day or tomorrow!
