Tomorrow hight Mr. Francis Fisher
Kane will entertain for his niece, Nancy Cope, and for Jane Yeatman at a super, followed by dancing, at the Lilacs. m sure it will be lots of fun, too. The Lilacs is an ideal place for a small party. It is along the Schuylkill, you ow, and is very quaint with its large hall and fireplace.

on Friday night Dr. and Mrs. Henry Middleton Fisher will give a dinner and dance for Nancy Cope, too. She is to be married to Pierre Hazard on Saturday, you remember, and the party is to be after the wedding rehearsal. The to entertain, with its large rooms and hall. The house has a broad stairway and attractive old furniture.

HAVE you noticed how popular lace is as a hat trimming these days? The other night I saw Mrs. Thomas Newhall in n good-looking hat with a long streamer of black lace hanging down on one side. Anna Sartori has a black hat trimmed with sprays of white flowers and streamers of black lace on either side. It's very becoming to her, too, with her black hair and eyes and wonderful coloring.
I saw Mrs. Arthur Emlen Newbold.

Jr., several days ago, too, wearing black lace on her hat. Hers, however, was more in the form of a veil, as it hung across the front of the hat over her face. It was long and quite heavily figured, and looked most unusual and

DID you know that Elizabeth Griggs D is going to spend a few days with the Bakers at Bala the end of the week? Patty Baker's wedding to Elizabeth's brother, Benjamin Griggs — they are from St. Paul, Minn.—will take place on Saturday, May 27, and Elizabeth will be the maid of honor. She and her mother, Mrs. Chauncey Milton Griggs. are at Atlantic City now, and will make that their headquarters until the wedding. Milton and Chauncey Griggs, Elizabeth's two other brothers, will be among the ushers; another usher from St. Paul will be Archibald Jackson, and Theodore Ames, also of St. Paul, whose brother, Lesley, married Patty's sister. Linda, will be the best man. Isn't it unusual that of all the Baker girls only one married a Philadelphian? Sarah Baker. Julie, you remember, married Dr. James Nixon and lives in San Autonio, Tex., and Sophie married Ethan Allen Hitchcock Shepley, of St.

Louis, and now Patty is following their T'VE just been told about Anniversary 1 Day at the Presbyterian Orphanage. It's to be tomorrow and there will be some sort of a bazaar on the grounds of the orphanage.
