

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Tells of the Weddings Today and of Interesting New Plans for the Horse Show Ball—She Goes to the Flower Market in Rittenhouse Square

TODAY will be another big day of weddings. There haven't been as many since April 22, when there were the Page-Stearns, Heckscher-McFadden, Roberts-Ervin and Coffin-Welsh marriages, all in one day. The first wedding at noon is that of Nannie Dale and Edward Biddle, which takes place at the Church of the Redeemer, Rittenhouse Square. Half an hour later in Germantown at St. Luke's, Bobbie Brookfeet will be married to Richardson Diamond, of New York, and a great many people from that city will come over for the wedding.

In the afternoon at 4:30 there will be another Germantown wedding, that of Nancy Cope and Pierre Hazard, which will take place at the home of Nancy's mother, Mrs. Walter Cope, of 200 Johnson Street.

At 4, in Penllyn, Rosalie Voelkner will marry Martin Buehler, and that finishes up our list of today's weddings.

Have you heard the latest about the Devon Horse Show Ball? Of course, you know that there was to be a cabaret in connection with the dinner-dance, but did you hear that Charlie Gilpin, of Marshfield, and his wife, Morris, of the Annex, Oak Lane, will be on June 20 on board their yacht, "Waverly," at the Chester Yacht Club?

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walter Clark, Jr., of 5840 Germantown Avenue, Chestnut Hill, will spend the week-end of May 27 in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison S. Morris and their daughter, Miss Catherine, will be spending their summer home at Chestnut Hill, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelso Cassatt have closed their house at 1505 Locust Street, and are now staying Beaumont's country home at Rosemont.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Knickerbocker Royal and their family, of the Concord, have taken a cottage at Cape May for the summer, which they will occupy on July 1.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Prexel Paul, who have been living abroad for some time, will sail for this country on May 28.

Their return to France, where they will spend the summer at their house at Vass College.

There is to be a dance in connection with Mr. Gilpin's song which will include some of our pony ballet, such as Alva Sergeant, Theodore Lillie—they work as hard as any Follies girls, they dance in absolutely every show—Mary Glendinning, Peggy Dallett, Pauline Royle, Joanne, Barbara, and with Katherine Oden, Barbara, Peggy and George Thayer, who are in charge of the whole cabaret. She and her sister, Polly, will also do what they call a "Duncan Sisters Act."

THE Flower Market in Rittenhouse Square yesterday was a great success. Much to everybody's relief, the day was beautiful and the dark clouds of the early morning vanished. The square was humming with business, and the crowds around each booth were about three or four deep. Flowers, vegetables, and animal traps were all there, and sides bustled about in bright-colored aprons and large floppy hats, selling flowers and ice cream cones.

Banning Grange looked pretty in a pale yellow velvet dress with a large straw hat to match—she and Eleanor Dunning were among the waitresses who were selling flowers and candy at the side of the flower market. I saw Nancy Passon, the Bellini Gittings, the Page twins and several others. Didn't you think Sara Large and Mary Virginia Allen were "kippy"? They were chancing off a little white puppy and were large blue bows bound with crepe, wide blue satin ribbons under their chins, cottonette dresses, and blue stockings.

Others of the sides wore large garter hats with different colored garters bobbing on each side. Pauline Avery Hollings looked fetching in one of this kind. The cafeteria, under Mrs. Charles Stewart Wurts, was jammed, and there was bread to the left of the length of the Square. The sides in the center were white short-sleeved shirts and skirts, and aprons and caps finished with yellow and blue ribbons. There were three shifts of waitresses. Didi and Frank Ross supplied them until one thirty, and then Pauline Avery Hollings took charge until later, when Logan began.

I saw a great many people in the crowd. Mrs. Robert Glendinning, Mrs. Wills Martin, who was cutting lunch and was being waited on by her daughter, Gwen Martin; Mrs. Henry Brinley Cox, Mrs. Edward Biddle and many others. The Women's Overseers had an attractive booth, which was to be displayed in the window of the Square. The sides in the center were white short-sleeved shirts and skirts, and aprons and caps finished with yellow and blue ribbons. There were three shifts of waitresses. Didi and Frank Ross supplied them until one thirty, and then Pauline Avery Hollings took charge until later, when Logan began.

ALONG THE READING

A card party will be given under the auspices of the Old York Auxiliaries, second the third performance of our four-act comedy, by Booth Tarkington, will be given at the Little Theatre, Broad and Locust, and De Lancay place, this evening, following the play, which will be given Thursday and Friday evenings, and it is for the benefit of a committee of the Red Cross. Mr. Fred Fanz took the part of Charlie, and the members of the cast are Miss Florence Gwendolyn, Miss Elsie Wilmett, Miss Grace Gandy, Helen T. Black, Miss Anna Winslow and Miss Lydia Aldrich, of Boston; Miss Eleanor White, of St. Louis; Miss Mabel Potts Ensign, of Shrewsbury, Conn.; Miss Manda Williams and Master David E. Whitman, 3d, nieces and nephews of the bride, acted as flower girls and page boys.

Mr. Biddle was attended by Mr. Marshall Ewing, Jr., as best man. The Rev. Arthur E. Hockman, Mr. John W. Moore, Jr., Mr. John Elmer, Miss Anna Chapman of Hoboken, Miss Anna Winslow and Miss Lydia Aldrich, of Boston; Miss Eleanor White, of St. Louis; Miss Mabel Potts Ensign, of Shrewsbury, Conn.; Miss Manda Williams and Master David E. Whitman, 3d, nieces and nephews of the bride, acted as flower girls and page boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Ross, of Colcord, Del., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Clara Ellsworth, to Mr. Raymond H. Gage, Jr., of Wenonah, N. J.

DILWORTH—BROCKIE

One of the most interesting of the early summer weddings was that of Mrs. Richard Brockie Warder and Mr. Richard Dilworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Dilworth, of New York, which took place at the home of Rev. Dr. Elkins Park. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Thayer of St. Mark's School, Mass., assisted by the Rev. Samuel Upjohn, rector of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Robert Wade Dabbs, was attended by Mrs. MacKnight Black, an actress; Mr. Edward M. May, Bishop Axelson of Arizona, assisted by the Rev. John M. Gronon, of the "House of Our Saviour," Jenkintown, and Mr. Edward C. Doherty, of Philadelphia.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. William G. Warder, wore a gown of white chiffon embroidered in point lace and made with a train of old point lace.

Mrs. John Mason, Jr., attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a white silk polo necked blouse, a large lace hat of the same color and ruffles. She carried a pink shaded shawl.

The bridesmaids wore pink chiffon with pink lace in the same color. They also carried pink tulip bouquets.

Miss Peggy Thayer, Miss Mary Law, Miss Rebeca G. Thomson, Miss Alice B. Donahue, Miss Frances H. Whipple and Miss Katherine Thompson, of New York, acted as best men for the bride and the ushers included Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Jones, Mr. John Henklein, Mr. Reginald Taylor, Mr. Charles H. Hamey, Mr. Goodhue Livingston, Mr. Thomas Carnegie, Mr. Edward Van Dusen, Mr. Murray Mitchell and Mr. John French, all of New York, and Mr. John Gaston, Mr. Lawrence Foster and Mr. C. A. Clark, of Boston, Mass.

HAZARD—COPE

An interesting wedding which will take place at 1:30 this afternoon will be that of Mrs. Charles Cadwallader, of 22 West Philadelphia, and Mr. Francis Cope, who are expecting a daughter. Elizabeth Cadwallader, on May 14, Mrs. Cadwallader was Miss Helen Washburn of Delaware, N. Y.

SOUTH PHILADELPHIA

The members of the Phi Gamma Epsilon Fraternity will give their spring dance this evening at the Wynnewood.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mr. and Mrs. John Hampton Barnes, of West Acres, Devon, and 1811 Locust Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Beauchamp Barnes, and Mr. Jewett Beauchamp Barnes, Jr., of 1811 Locust Street, and Mrs. George Frederick Newton, of Boston, and Mrs. Joseph Mass. Mr. Newton is a graduate of Princeton University, 1916. He received his commission at Plattsburgh and served overseas as captain, 50th Field Artillery, in the 30th Division. His first marriage, in the autumn, Mr. Newton is in business in New Bedford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Melton, of Germantown, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Melton, to Mr. Logan B. Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gill of Overbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur W. Hooper will entertain this afternoon at a garden party in honor of the debutantes of the Franklin Hoopes, from 6 until 8:30 p.m. at their home, Oak Meadows.

Mr. C. Frederick Stout has issued invitations for a meeting of the Woods Garden Club at her home, Glenwood.

What Clubwomen Will Do Monday

The College Club will give a "Stunt Party" at 3 P. M. This will be followed by a tea at which Miss Emma Fries, Miss Louise Horstenshaw and Mrs. George Worth will be hostesses.

The Monday morning class of the New Century Club of Philadelphia will hold its annual outing on the place of Mrs. Andrew M. Eastwick, at Wallingford. The estate may be reached by train, trolley or motor.

The Temple University Women's Club will give a musical in the clubs, 1815 North Broad street, at 8:30 in the evening.

YARDLEY

Miss Edna Weart, of Chicago, the guest of Mrs. Robert W. Welch for a time.

Miss Wirth, of Lancaster, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Dunn.

WHAT AMERICA NEEDS MOST

After Beveridge, candidate for the United States Senate, and his interpretation of prosperity to all the long permanence of business, says Beveridge, "is the only important thing in politics."

The Temple University Women's Club will give a musical in the clubs, 1815 North Broad street, at 8:30 in the evening.

Bride of TodayLetters to the Editor

"J. C. K.'s" Reply to Critics

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—The writer has no desire to debate with you on any question, regarding prohibition, but will be pleased to have you permit the following rebuttal to your article in the columns of the Forum, in connection with articles recently appearing as written by S. J. Butts and W. A. J.

Mr. Butts has been quite frank in his statements and I do not doubt his sincerity in what he will say so uniformly to remark that "there are none so blind as those who will not see." In my recent letter to your paper, I stated just exactly conditions as I had observed them, and without "looking" for them as Mr. Butts has intimated. I can enumerate cases within the last three weeks giving places and times, but that would take time. If your correspondents will merely glance at the daily newspapers they will note almost daily cases of persons being arrested for "driving an automobile while intoxicated" and, only a few days ago, three prohibition enforcement agents were arrested, caught in a raid—unfortunately, we thank you most kindly for your kind cooperation to which is due a large measure of the credit for the success of the efforts put forth to nominate Gifford Pinchot as the next Governor of Pennsylvania.

KARL BLOOMFIELD, Chairman of Publicity, ALICE M. F. NEWKIRK, Associate Chairman of Publicity, Pinchot City Committee, Philadelphia, May 18, 1922.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM

President Tyler presided over the convention. A committee upon which each of the twenty-one States was represented submitted a report recommending the adoption of one specific amendment to the Federal Constitution, which was adopted by the convention. The amendments are generally favorable to the South, but were not wholly satisfactory to either section, and were not favorably received by either house of Congress.

Thanks Evening Public Ledger

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—We desire to express our sincere appreciation of the generous support which your newspaper has given to the cause of "Pinchot for Governor." Through your editorials and news columns the voting public has been constantly in touch with the issues and activities of the campaign just ended. Such publicity is invaluable.

Accordingly, we thank you most kindly for your kind cooperation to which is due a large measure of the credit for the success of the efforts put forth to nominate Gifford Pinchot as the next Governor of Pennsylvania.

KARL BLOOMFIELD, Chairman of Publicity, ALICE M. F. NEWKIRK, Associate Chairman of Publicity, Pinchot City Committee, Philadelphia, May 18, 1922.

Questions AnsweredLicense for Trucker

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—I am a truck driver and have a truck and bringing it to Philadelphia by automobile and peddling it from house to house. I have no license. What is the law? FRED W. R. O. D., Philadelphia, May 18, 1922.

Trucker's license is required by the State of Pennsylvania.

Peace Convention of 1861

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—Please tell me what the "peace convention" of 1861 was and what it contained.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17, 1922.

The "peace convention" is the name given to a convention held in Washington on the invitation of Virginia in February, 1861, just before the outbreak of the Civil War.

The purpose of the convention was to settle the dispute between the North and South. Fourteen free States and seven slave States were represented, and each State was allowed only a single vote. It was agreed that no Federal tax, levying on the subject, the innovation met with favorable public response, and the words have since been stamped on our coinage, even though the motto of the country is "E Pluribus Unum." The motto of the Peace Convention is "Non Residetur in Procedere." The motto of the Convention, which is the name given to a convention held in Washington on the invitation of Virginia in February, 1861, just before the outbreak of the Civil War.

This is the name given to a convention held in Washington on the invitation of Virginia in February, 1861, just before the outbreak of the Civil War.

It is not necessary to go on and name hundreds of others, great men of our day and in the past? Professors in our high schools, and doctors in law.

DAVISON accomplished what he did because he possessed very great and unusual ability.

But his life disproved the assertion that one hears many times a day—the assertion that ability has no chance in the world.

DAVISON had great ability, it is true. He made a market for it. He not only achieved distinction but great wealth during a comparatively short life—for he was only fifty-five years old when he died.

But his ability, if it had not been seconded by a willingness to work, would never have brought him so far.

DAVISON was born in 1847, and died in 1902.

He used to be called at 4 o'clock in the morning by his wife, who would wake him up and say, "Get up, Davison, it is time to go to work."

DAVISON was a clerk in a law office, and he worked hard, but he was not successful.

DAVISON had great ability, it is true. He made a market for it. He not only achieved distinction but great wealth during a comparatively short life—for he was only fifty-five years old when he died.

But his ability, if it had not been seconded by a willingness to work, would never have brought him so far.

DAVISON was born in 1847, and died in 1902.

He used to be called at 4 o'clock in the morning by his wife, who would wake him up and say, "Get up, Davison, it is time to go to work."

DAVISON was a clerk in a law office, and he worked hard, but he was not successful.

DAVISON had great ability, it is true. He made a market for it. He not only achieved distinction but great wealth during a comparatively short life—for he was only fifty-five years old when he died.

But his ability, if it had not been seconded by a willingness to work, would never have brought him so far.

DAVISON was born in 1847, and died in 1902.

He used to be called at 4 o'clock in the morning by his wife, who would wake him up and say, "Get up, Davison, it is time to go to work."

DAVISON was a clerk in a law office, and he worked hard, but he was not successful.

DAVISON had great ability, it is true. He made a market for it. He not only achieved distinction but great wealth during a comparatively short life—for he was only fifty-five years old when he died.

But his ability, if it had not been seconded by a willingness to work, would never have brought him so far.

DAVISON was born in 1847, and died in 1902.

He used to be called at 4 o'clock in the morning by his wife, who would wake him up and say, "Get up, Davison, it is time to go to work."

DAVISON was a clerk in a law office, and he worked hard, but he was not successful.

DAVISON had great ability, it is true. He made a market for it. He not only achieved distinction but great wealth during a comparatively short life—for he was only fifty-five years old when he died.

But his ability, if it had not been seconded by a willingness to work, would never have brought him so far.

DAVISON was born in 1847, and died in 1902.

He used to be called at 4 o'clock in the morning by his wife, who would wake him up and say, "Get up, Davison, it is time to go to work."

DAVISON was a clerk in a law office, and he worked hard, but he was not successful.

DAVISON had great ability, it is true. He made a market for it. He not only achieved distinction but great wealth during a comparatively short life—for he was only fifty-five years old when he died.

But his ability, if it had not been seconded by a willingness to work, would never have brought him