A REAL HOME OF MERCY

A haggard-faced young woman, still in her twenties, with two little girls elinging to her skirts and a third in her arms, knocked yesterday morning at the door of the Kensington Neighborhood House, 3068 Frankford avenue.

To Mrs. M. W. Ketchum, the "Angel of Kensington," who opened the door, she said:

"We are starving!"
"Come in," said Mrs. Ketchum, leading the way to the dining room.
"We are $2000 in debt, but you and your little ones shall be fed." In silence the mother and her two older children, the eldest being six, ate ravenously, while the two-year-old child had two cups of milk.

Having eaten, the woman said: There are two more to feed at home. I have a four-months-old baby-she will not be the last. My husband has not eaten since yesterday morning. He is ill and has not worked for months. And our rent has not been paid for two
