

DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

Turtle Slow
By DADDY

Jack and Janet meet Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle, who is carrying love letters back and forth between Bashful Boy and Beautiful Girl in a series of 100 letters, but Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle is so slow he can make only three trips a year. Jack and Janet seek to hurry the letters along.

CHAPTER IV

HOPPIE HOP RABBIT had proved that he wasn't any swifter as a letter carrier than Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle. He could run twenty times faster than Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle could crawl, but relying on his speed, he had laid down to nap and the turtle had passed him.

"Slow but sure—that is my motto," mused Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle to Jack and Janet. "I'll get this letter from Bashful Boy to Beautiful Girl some time."

"I know a way to hurry it there," said Janet. "We will give you a ride to home of Beautiful Girl."

Before Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle could say what he thought about that idea, Jack lifted him and his message idea, Jack lifted him and got up behind him. Janet mounted Topsy, and away they went faster than Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle ever had gone before.

Gallopity-gallopity-gallop! They went through the Great Woods and came to the broad swamp. Gallopity-gallopity-gallop! They went around the swamp and came to the hills. Gallopity-gallopity-gallop! They mounted the hills and came to the home of Beautiful Girl.

Jack and Janet swung off the ponies, and Jack placed Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle on the steps of the house.

"Tap, tap, tap," Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle rapped on the door with his beak. At the second tap there was a scurrying of feet within the house. At the third tap the door flew open and Beautiful Girl rushed out. At first sight Jack and Janet were struck by her loveliness, but they saw, too, she was no longer as young as she once had been.

"Oh, faithful Turtle, here you are at last," cried Beautiful Girl. "I have waited long for you." She deftly stripped the rubber covering from Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle's beak and found Bashful Boy's letter. She kissed the letter before she read it, and she kissed every line as she ran her eyes down the page. It was plain to see that she was very fond of Bashful Boy.

Her eyes were bright as she finished, but she gave a great sigh as she folded the letter. "Alas," she said, "this is only Letter Number Sixty-one. There are 100 in the wowing series. I must wait until Bashful Boy sends me thirty-nine more before I can marry him."

Thirty-nine letters at the rate of three letters a year—why that will take thirteen years more.

"That is a long time to wait," said Janet.

"Indeed, it is," said Beautiful Girl. "And only yesterday I found the first silver thread in my golden hair. Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle is a very faithful letter carrier, but I wish he were faster."

Just at that moment Hoppity-Hop Rabbit came bounding up in a great flurry.

"Here I am—," he blustered, so eager to deliver his letter that he never noticed Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle hiding behind the door. "Here I am—the fastest messenger in all the Great Woods."

"Hiss-hiss-hiss!" laughed Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle. "You mean to say you are the swiftest messenger in all the Great Woods. Hiss-hiss-hiss!"

Hoppity-Hop Rabbit almost tumbled over in amazement at seeing Stick-in-the-Mud Turtle there before him.

"H-h-how in the world did you get here ahead of me?" he stammered. "Did you fly?"

"Hiss-hiss-hiss! Hiss-hiss-hiss!" The only answer of stick-in-the-Mud Turtle was a laugh.

But what Hoppity-Hop Rabbit had said had given Janet another idea.

"I know where there is a fast messenger," she cried, running to the door.

(Can you guess what Janet's idea is, and why she ran to the door? The next chapter will tell.)
