

Giants Still Top the National League by Virtue of Their Victory Over the Cincinnati Reds

PINCH HITTERS AGAIN TAKE VICTORY AWAY FROM OUR ATHLETICS

Flagstead Does a Dan Clark in Eighth, Ties Score and Winning Counters Follow—Mackmen Arrive in Boston to Battle Red Sox

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL, Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

OUR Astounding Athletics arrived here today, all set for a final series with what is left of the Red Sox. The players are slightly moved over the treatment handed them by the Tigers and have stated emphatically and positively that they are here for revenge purposes only. All of which means something startling is about to happen.

There is a new star in the Athletics this year. In the past they used to blow into a strange town, quietly wonder to the local crowd, and then the ball park and take their punishment without a murmur. Now they strut from the station, call loudly for taxis, discuss their opponents and figure how quickly they can get over the finishing season.

Yesterday's ball game did not make much of a hit with the boys. They had it even a couple of times, but the strong finish of the Tigers proved to be too much. Instead of forgetting all about the reverse, as they have done in the past, they are telling each other how it happened and promising never to allow it to occur again.

It was the out-of-order series dropped by the A's since the strong Western club started to visit the East. They sent two and two with Cleveland, took two out of three from St. Louis and the same number from the White Sox. Then the Tigers stepped in and, aided and abetted by a flock of reserve strength, which is a way of saying pinch hitters, they managed to win two, one one and the one.

A N O T H E R is supposed to be an account of the greatest ball game in the history of the game. It is supposed to be a contest between the Athletics and the Cincinnati Reds. The game is supposed to be a contest between the Athletics and the Cincinnati Reds.

PINCH hitters last night out-athleted us. Last Monday when the game was all sewed up in the ninth, Dan Clark, for no reason at all, socked a home run in the ninth inning and tied in the conflict. A heavy rain completed what Clark started and the battle ended in a draw, every newspaper concurring.

Yesterday the locals again were in front and Ty Cobb did some shuffling in his lineup. It was in the eighth frame, Hellman had been disposed of and Travis decided to use the flagstead for emergency purposes. The score was 3 to 4 in our favor, and all the while the ball into the side pocket of a guy in the bleachers and up the game. Then a base on balls, a couple of hits and an infield out sent in two more rallies, and the contest went down so far as the home folks were concerned.

Home runs were plentiful yesterday afternoon. This is because our side was unable to make any. Time and again there was a swell spot to insert one of those four-base knockers, but nothing happened.

Harry Hellman had two in succession, connecting his first two times up. It looked as if he would equal Ken Williams' record, but after those two whiffs he was all washed up.

BING MILLER, our well-known hero, failed to get a hit and secured a perfectly good record. He had connected safely in fifteen games, but fanned out seven times.

Cutshaw Is the Ninth-Inning Hero. THE outstanding hero was none other than the ancient, decrepit George Cutshaw, age thirty-five, and recently of Pittsburgh. George was given the air not only by the Pirates, but also by all of the National League clubs, and Detroit gambled him for experimental purposes.

THE A's were putting on a batting rally and one run had spiked the platter. Walker was on third and Perkins on second, and Bing Miller came up. Bing hit a sharp grounder to Cutshaw and George blocked it with his many chest. Miller was first, but George got the ball in time to throw to Blue and retire the runner.

THAT ended the ball game, with the home-town boys on the short and improper end of the score. Cutshaw did it, and none other.

Lead Changed Hands Several Times. THE game was one of the heaviest fought the fans have seen in some time. First the Tigers went in the lead and the A's stepped out. Then it was tied up and the Tigers went in front. Then the A's took the lead away from them and led it until the final eighth, when the pinch hitters did some excellent pinch hitting.

CONVICT MACK'S athletes have nothing to kick about in the last game they played better than ever before and proved they have a great ball club one that will not see the cellar this year, anyway.

Giants Win and Remain in First Place. THERE is no change in the leadership in the National League today. The Pirates took another fall out of our Phils, but the Giants came to life and won a close 2 to 1 ball game from Cincinnati. Therefore the New York and Pittsburgh clubs still are one game apart, and the battle has become so severe that it is every man for himself.

THE game was a close one, with the home-town boys on the short and improper end of the score. Cutshaw did it, and none other.

LAWRENCEVILLE LAD IS SCHOOL GOLF CHAMPION. A. V. Shannon, Jr., Beats Arthur Townley, of Newark, in Final Greenwich, Conn., May 22.—A. V. Shannon, Jr., of Lawrenceville School, N. J., won the finals in the Eastern Inter-scholastic three-day golf tournament beating Arthur Townley, Newark Normal Physical Educational School, Newark, N. J., 5 to 4. In the semi-finals of the morning round he came out the victor over Hollis B. Shaw, of Pawling, with a score of 1 and 2. By Shannon winning the finals, the Lawrenceville School made a clean sweep in the tournament, for on Monday Lawrenceville captured the team prize, winning third leg with the correct cup.

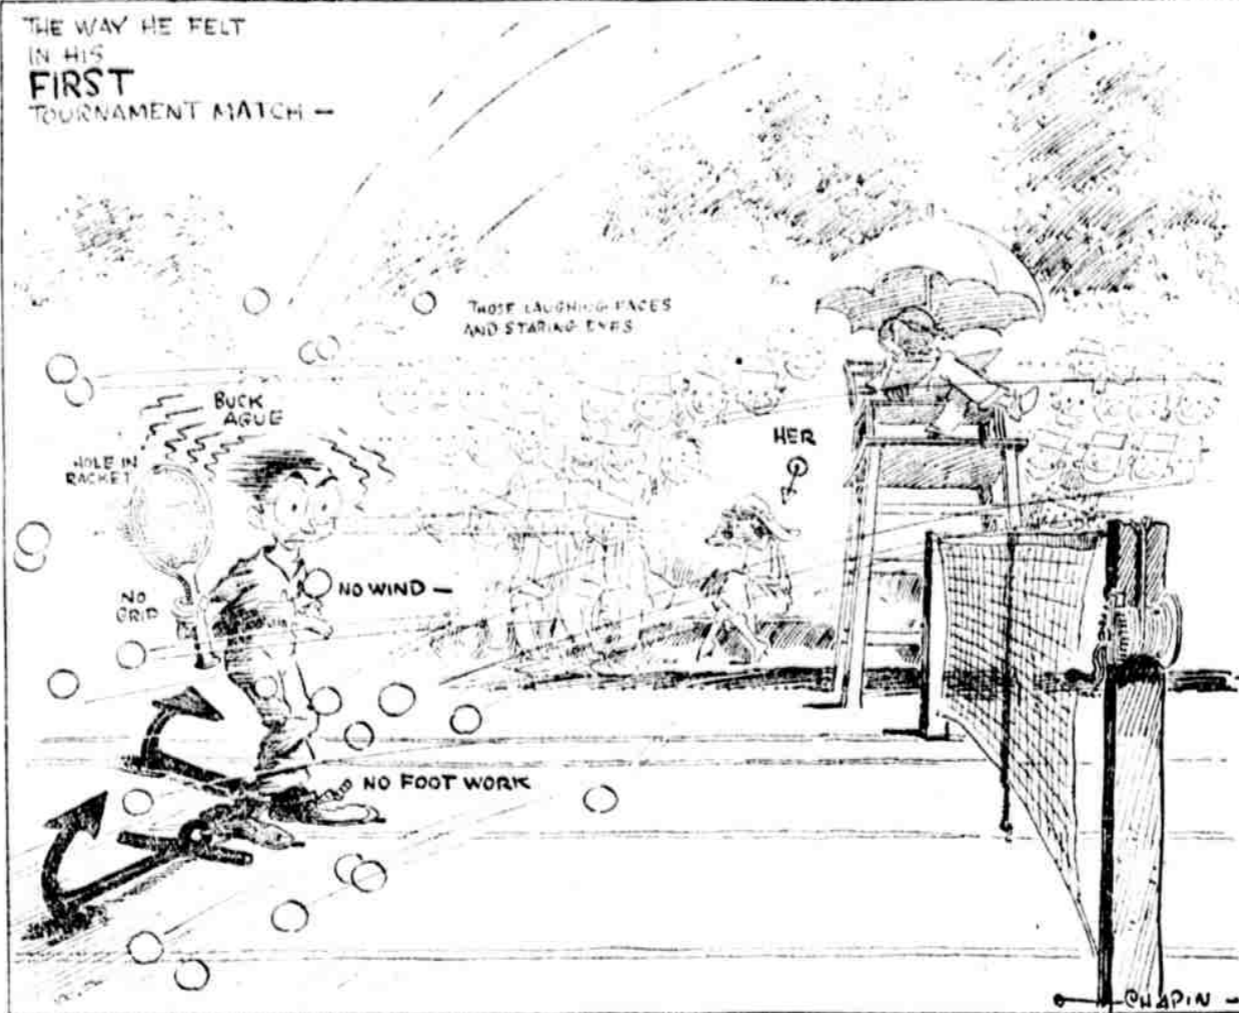

Shannon experienced some difficulties with bunkers and traps as chief enemies, but overcame these obstacles and came through with flying colors. He made an enviable record for his school, particularly considering the fact that he is a schoolboy and young at the game.

Scraps About Scrappers. Four right-hand bats and one of left handed bats were used in the game between the Athletics and the Cincinnati Reds. The bats were used in the game between the Athletics and the Cincinnati Reds.

Steve Latta, of Hamilton, is a new name in the game. He has taken over the game of the Athletics and the Cincinnati Reds.

Leo Schupp and Leo Houck are mentioned for the Athletics and the Cincinnati Reds.

'BAN' ON DEMPSEY IN NEW JERSEY

That's What Refusal of Commission to Indorse Wills Match Means

NO OTHER FOES AROUND. By LOUIS H. JAFFE. JACK DEMPSEY is "banned" officially from playing in the State of New Jersey. The "ban" was placed on the world's heavy weight champion when the "morning-long" sign was put on matches between Dempsey and Jess Willard and Dempsey and Harry Wills.

THE New Jersey Commission did not state so in so many words, but the announcement that these bouts would not receive the sanction of that body meant exactly that, because, other than Wills, there is not another heavy-weight in the universe who could be chosen to give Dempsey even an ordinary contest.

Here's what Commissioner Messano said: "Willard is much too old—over 40—and no match for the champion, and there does not seem any genuine public sentiment for a meeting between Dempsey and Wills."

No Official Action. As to Wills, the giant Negro might prove some stiff opposition for the title-holder, but it would appear that the New Jersey State Commission is not strong for an inter-racial contest. Why no official action has been taken to stop a Will-Dempsey bout, efforts of certain promoters to clinch such a set-off apparently are very much out of order.

Because of Harry Green's disputed victory over Tom Gibbons and his most recent defeat of Gene Tunney, which gave the Pittsburgher the American light heavyweight title, there may be a certain clique who would like to see the Windmill against Dempsey. But that would be a foolish bout.

THREE TWIN BILLS FACE THE PHILS

Open Home Stay With Dodgers After Finishing Poorly in West—Need Hitting

JOHNSON DEFEATS YANKEES

WE HAVE with us today the Phillies back home, after an absence in the East and West, during which time the fond hopes of local fandom for the National League entrant received an awful wallop.

Every team, winner or loser, looks for the home stand to make up lost ground in one case or to get the machinery more highly geared in the other. Wilhelm and his athletes are hoping that the present stay at Broad and Huntingdon streets is going to bring them out of the ruck and place them up among the best.

The Phillies are not faced with the brightest prospects at home, for they are due to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in three successive double bills. That will overtax the already taxed staff, and then along comes the Giants, ready for vengeance against any team in the League as a result of their miserable showing in the West.

That means that Wilhelm will have to do considerable jockeying of his hurlers for the next week.

A review of the recent Western trip brings to light a wonderful start and a most dismal ending. In Chicago the Phillies impressed the natives, there that at last Philadelphia had a National League team that was due to rise high. At that time the Windy City aggregation was surprising the League by its numerous victories.

Made a Good Start. The Phils waded through the four-game series without a reverse due to opportune hitting and excellent pitching. Then came St. Louis. Two games were dropped and one won. The Reds at the start of their sensational drive provided the locals with hard hitting and exceptional pitching, and took three straight games.

Yesterday the Pirates won again, making it three straight and seven successive reverses for the Phils. Five out of thirteen games were won on the Western trip.

With the warm weather and the team getting in much needed practice work in the morning the prospects are that Wilhelm will fulfill his promise and get the Phils so far above last place that they will remain out the remainder of the season.

Jimmy King, Lee Meadows and Hubbell, all among the first rank in twirlers, should get a return of their old effectiveness during the home stay. They started well and floundered in the West. George Smith showed flashes of his old-time form and with Baumgartner, Plats and a couple of the youngsters showing improvement the chances are that the Phils will get going. Wilhelm has a fairly strong pitching staff, one of the best outfields in the League and a fair infield. Of late the hitters have been falling down, particularly in the pinch. The number of Phillies lost on bases in the West is staggering and shows an absolute lack of offensive strength at critical points.
