

Uncommon Sense : The Search for Success
By JOHN BLAKE

IN A RECENT address Chauncey M. Depew said that no longer are poor boys coming to New York to seek their fortunes.

Mr. Depew does not get around as much as he used to.

Poor boys are coming to New York to make their fortunes every day, and many of them will make their fortunes. Not only are they coming from every State in the Union, but they are coming from every quarter of the world.

And they are not only coming to New York, but they are coming to almost every city on the globe.

IN A WORLD in which there are a billion and a half people, a very large number will never find the fortune which they seek. But the search for success will go on just the same, and there will be no interchange of ideas, no joining of the multitudes at the end of time as it has been in the past.

Because of the quest for success the world prospers and advances.

Were all the young men of the world to stay in the places they were born to, there would be no interchange of ideas, and each community would soon become so isolated in thought as in manners and speech.

Every city, every community, needs men of many different types and char-

Every train that runs into New York is bringing poor boys, perhaps one or two of whom will be heard of all over the world by and by.

They will make their own success, and they cannot do that without creating opportunity for success for many other boys!

One poor boy, John D. Rockefeller, went to a western city and founded an oil business which has made more than a thousand very wealthy men.

Some unknown youth walking the streets of some metropolis today without the price of a meal in his pocket may give employment to thousands by and by and bring great success to scores who needed him.

Mr. Depew was a poor boy who came to New York long ago, but there were many poor boys who came before him who did almost as well as he did, and many thousands of them will come after him to gain similar success.

How do you clean?

Moths and other insects can't live in sanitary cleanliness. Spray "PREVENTOL" on your upholstered furniture, hangings, floors, in cracks and crevices, closets and dark corners. This is the way to prevent and kill insect life.

"PREVENTOL" purifies—it won't injure. It has a pleasant, clean odor which vanishes quickly. Spray it in the sick room. Use it to clean porcelain. Spray it in the sink and in refuse pails. Spray your winter things with it—"PREVENTOL" prevents and kills moths.

To clean without spraying "PREVENTOL" is little better than not cleaning at all! It is as necessary as soap and water.

Buy PREVENTOL at Druggists, Grocery and Department Stores.
