Fleisher at South Phillies, Broad and Bigto act upon the resignation of Howard M. Donovan, its president, Howard M. Donovan, its president.
Since Mr. Donovan suddenly fiashed his withdrawal he has been besieged by members of the Board of Governors and team managers to reconsider the matter and withdraw the resignation.
The announcement spread the report that the association was about to pass away, which, while needing no denial, was promptly spiked by the officials. But it is said on good authority that Mr. Donovan has almost assured his friends that he will stick as president, as it is the first job he ever tackled that he did not finish.

The Philadelphia Baseball Associa-tion has made mistakes. But all in all it is the best thing that ever happened for the game in these parts and has gone along with only one real dispute, and that with the umpires over the remuneration question.

The umps were awarded a fair in-crease, but a few, and just a few, had the idea that the teams had made a harrel of money the previous year and the idea that the teams had made a barrel of money the previous year and held out for a nonsensical figure. Not a club in Philadelphia made money last year, except Hilldale, and the same thing holds good this season.

But those at the head of the game admit that they have encountered one of the worst months possible, and figure that with warm weather and any kind

Many of the umpires are sorry now that they did not accept the terms of-The managers had virtually agreed to boost the umps' pay if the bankroll taken in at the gate warranted it. But has it?

To date, and only a month has passed, Bridesburg is about $2100 in the hole, North Phillies, $1000, and all the bigger clubs like sums. And a lot the bigger clubs like sums. And a lot more would be worse off, but they fail to meet their obligations. The larger teams never fail to fulfill every promise made, and these are the clubs that are the backbone of Philadelphia's organized independent baseball.

And right here it might be added that every one is satisfied with the conditions and are determined to have an organised body, no matter whether Mr. Denovan is at the head or some one body, no matter whether Mr. It will be impossible to get any man

OFF DAY IN BASEBALL

The Pittsburgh Pirates, the first of the Western clubs to invade this city, are here to play the Phillies at Broad and Huntingdon streets this afternoon. The Westerners are in second posi-tion, only a game and a half in the rear of the Giants, who still hold down place and expect to pull away to a big lead now that they are at home for the best part of the present month. The Pirates and Phils have played three games this season, all on Western soil, and the Corsairs romped away with the long end of the decision in each instance

In the meantime, the Athletics are on their way West, where they will open with Detroit tomorrow. The open with Detroit tomorrow. The Tigers and Mackmen staged a heetic Tigers and Mackmen staged a heetic series here several weeks ago and Ty Cobb and his men gained two out of three decisions by winning a couple of games in the closing sessions.

Only one other game in the National League, aside from the Phillies-Pittsburgh match is earded for this afternoon and that is between the Cards and Braves at Boston. All the teams in the American League are idle as the Eastern clubs are riding the rails West.

Babe Ruth's third homer of the season was the decisive blow in the Yanks' defeat of the Athletics, S-3, Carl Mays holding the slugging Mackmen safe except in the fourth, when they scored all their runs.
