LOVE BESTS CAREER IN OCEAN ROMANCE
 Miss Alicia du Pont and H. S. Glendinning to Wed in London June 28

SOCIETY HERE IS SURPRISED
 A romance which began with the decks of the Aquitania and the sea as a background will enter another chapter June 28, when Miss Alicia du Pont, well known in Philadelphia social circles, and Harold Sanford Glendinning, Norwalk, Conn., will marry in London.
 News of the approaching wedding, cabled here caused surprise. Miss du Pont, daughter of Alfred I. du Pont, of Wilmington, went abroad two years ago to study music, and it was generally believed that she was seriously considering a career in grand opera. All the elements of youthful idealism are found in the romance of the youthful couple.
 Mr. Glendinning, a student at Mercton College, Oxford, met Miss du Pont aboard the liner on which both were passengers in September, 1920.
 He soon a Rhodes scholarship and is said to possess all the energy and enthusiasm which is synonymous with progressive American manhood.
 After reaching England they met frequently and each took keen interest in the progress made by the other—and the result was never in doubt.
 Mr. Paul's church, at Knightsbridge, where many fashionable London weddings take place, will be the scene of the ceremony.
 The engagement of Miss du Pont came as a great surprise to Wilmington society also.
 Alfred I. du Pont is on a yachting cruise and could not be reached, but one of Mr. du Pont's secretaries admitted he knew of the engagement.
 Alicia du Pont is the nineteen-year-old daughter of the second wife of Alfred I. du Pont.
 She had divorced James Amory Mattox about the time Mr. du Pont and his first wife, Beulah Gardner du Pont, were divorced. When Mr. du Pont and Mrs. Mattox were married, the latter's daughter, Miss Alicia, took the du Pont name.
 The divorce and the subsequent marriage resulted in a bitter social feud in the du Pont family which lasted for a number of years. After the death of his second wife Mr. du Pont married Miss Jessie Ball, of Virginia.
 As a child Alicia du Pont had a remarkable voice and two years ago went to Paris to cultivate it. Reports from France have been that she was making remarkable progress.

LIFT TAX BURDEN FROM VIOLATORS OF DRY LAW

Philadelphia Saloonkeeper Wins Suit in Supreme Court
 Saloonkeepers and others who have fallen into the meshes of the prohibition laws are delighted with the action of the United States Supreme Court, which declared null and void the power of the Internal Revenue Department to collect the heavy fines levied after the alleged violations.
 The court made the ruling which affects $12,000,000 assessed throughout the country. The particular case decided was that of Ernest Locke, a Philadelphia saloonkeeper, who asked the court to restrain the Government from collecting the tax.
 It was the impression here that the mere alleged sale of liquor made the defendant liable to the heavy tax, which in some cases reached thousands of dollars. This feature of tax assessment brought much adverse comment.
 The highest taxes were assessed and in many cases collected from persons alleged to have been operating illicit stills. All the Government needed here, before was the statement of an agent that a still was being operated in a certain dwelling and soon thereafter tax bills were sent out.
 Many of the persons have made an offer in compromise in their cases and few have been accepted. It was Section 35 of the National Prohibition Act that was declared null and void.
 It is expected that the levies made here will be lifted as soon as the decision is received.

POLICEMAN FIGHTS BANDITS

Jumps From Bed and Goes Barefooted to Help Man Held Up
 Off duty and asleep in his home at 922 North Fourth street about 1:20 o'clock this morning, Charles Stein, a policeman of the Front and Master street station, was awakened by cries from the street. He leaped from bed, seized his revolver and ran, barefooted and in his nightclothes, from the house. At Fourth and Poplar streets he saw five highwaymen holding up a pedestrian.
 Stein began firing into the air, at the same time running toward the hold-up. The bandits fled, Stein in pursuit. After a chase of a block, the policeman captured two men. Shortly afterward the police of the Third street and Fairmount avenue station arrested a third.
 The man held up was Gregory Perisko, of 606 Poplar street. Perisko was struck in the face by the bandits and was treated at the Roosevelt Hospital for cuts. He told the police he had $200 on him.
 The three men arrested gave their names as Michael Morrissey, of Front street near Green; Herman Sagel, of East Girard avenue near Marlborough street; and Stephen Parker, of Sophia street near Widley.

HELD ON LARCENY CHARGE

Philadelphia Man is Arrested at Atlantic City
 Lewis Brown, who gave his address as 1742 North Sixteenth street, is held without bail in Atlantic City to answer to a charge of larceny.
 According to Mrs. Mary Mason, of 227 North Connecticut avenue, who swore out the warrant, an expressman erroneously delivered a trunk containing wearing apparel and other articles valued at $1000 to 227 North Carolina avenue, where Brown is said to have had a room. Brown accepted the trunk and later ordered its removal to some other address, police say.

SALOON MAN ROBBED

Thug Holds Victim While Another Rifles Cash Register
 Two men entered the saloon of Michael Fitzmaurice, Seventeenth and Wood streets, last night, and while one held Fitzmaurice the other rifled a cash register of about $10.
 Fitzmaurice was alone and was standing at one end of the bar when one of the hold-up men took him by the arm and prevented him from interfering, while the other looted the money drawer. Both escaped.
