COMMENCEMENT ON JUNE 22

Final examinations were begun yesterday morning and will continue throughout the week. Annual class-day exercises will take place Friday evening, June 16.

Charged with selling moonshine whisky and assault and battery, W. Zlobik, 1914 Fillmore street, was held in default of $1000 bail this morning by Recorder Stackhouse. He was accused of attacking George Wilmyer, 954 Central avenue, because the latter refused to accept an order of liquor which didn't suit him.

William Freeman, 3 Wood street, was held in $500 bail charged with assault and battery on his wife Helen. She accused him of hitting her over the head with an iron bar while intoxicated.

Mrs. Mary Atkinson Berger, widow of former Judge Martin D. Berger, who died Friday, was buried today from 820 Market street. She was seventy years old and a member of one of the oldest families in South Jersey. She is survived by two sons, Christopher Berger, a former representative in Congress from the First District, and Samuel Berger, a lawyer. A third son, George J. Berger, was killed several years ago in an accident.

It is not likely that George Monroe, eighteen-year-old murderer of Ida Kramer, who has been indicted by the Grand Jury, will be convicted for first-degree murder, according to those in touch with the case. Prosecutor Wolvertson, it is generally believed, will not attempt to press for conviction in the first degree because of the prisoner's extreme youth and the fact that there is no evidence of premeditation. It is also said that in giving the kid up and confessing to the crime Monroe earned leniency.

The thirty-fifth annual convention of the Camden Baptist Association opened in the Medford Baptist Church, Medford, this morning, and will continue in session until Wednesday night. Representatives from about one hundred and fifty churches in South Jersey and from twenty-two Camden churches are attending.

The convention began at 10 o'clock with a welcome to the members of the association by the Rev. Joseph A. Glenn, pastor of the Medford Baptist Church, and was responded to by the vice moderator of the association, the Rev. C. H. Hatch, secretary of the Baptist Extension Society.

The Rev. Frederick Blaser, of the Linden Baptist Church, Camden, is clerk of the convention, and C. Harold Gordon, also of the Linden Baptist Church, is chorister. Theodore F. Ellis, moderator of the association, will preside at the sessions.

An attempt to hold up John Kennedy, of 2307 South Seventh street, Camden, was made by two Negroes at Seventh street and Woodland avenue, Camden, at about 4 o'clock this morning. The Negroes had stuck a gun in his face and were starting through his pockets when they were frightened away by two passers-by.

ACCUSE YOUTH HERE OF TRICKING WOMAN

Is Charged With Defrauding Ex-Congressman's Wife in Search for Her Son

GOT CASH THROUGH MAIL

An attempt to make some "ear money" out of a Nation-wide hunt for the son of a former Congressman from Colorado is alleged against Charles Shafstall, nineteen years old, 2348 North Fifteenth street.

Shafstall was arrested at 4 o'clock this morning as he was receiving a telegraphic order for $25 sent from Washington by Mrs. Margaret S. Keating, wife of former Congressman Edward Keating.

Percy Keating, their sixteen-year-old son, disappeared May 10. Advertisements were inserted in newspapers all over the country asking the boy to return home.

Mrs. Keating yesterday received a letter from this city, signed with her son's name, and asking that $25 be sent at once to Shafstall at the North Fifteenth street address.

The letter stated that Percy had been boarding at that address and was in arrears for his lodging. Although there was no name, Percy Keating, the handwriting of the message and her son's handwriting, the distracted mother decided to follow up on a future home.

A telegram was sent to Shafstall advising him the money was coming. The letter was turned over to Christopher Gobleke, a Secret Service man, who received this city early today.

Admits Fraud, Police Say

The Government agent obtained the aid of Police Commissioner and both men followed a messenger boy to Shafstall's home. The youth at first insisted the missing boy had been at his house, but, police say, later admitted he had never seen Percy Keating.

Mrs. Keating is ill from worry at her home, 300 Second street, N. E. Washington. Her husband was a member of the Sixty-third, Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth Congress.

As Margaret Sloan Modill, Mrs. Keating was a society editor and special writer when she met Mr. Keating, then managing editor of a Denver newspaper.

At the time of their marriage Mr. Keating was president of the Denver Press Club and president of the International League of Press Clubs. He bought the Pueblo Leader in 1912 and soon afterward was elected a Congressman-at-Large. Later he served two terms as representative from the third Colorado district.

When their son Percy disappeared, the aid of the United States Secret Service and of the police in thirty-six cities was invoked. Among the newspaper advertisements broadcast in the hunt was a "personal" worded in this way:

"Billie" send telegram C. O. D. Mumy."

Other notices were published giving the boy's full name and description and giving the name and address of his parents. It was this notice which Shafstall saw.

Shafstall lives with his father, Henry Shafstall, and his aunt, Mrs. Susan Granger, at the North Fifteenth street address. His mother died three years ago.

Mrs. Granger said today the youth gets "queer spells" occasionally, and that he runs up and down the rear yard for an hour at a time. Sometimes he nurses the spells in bed, she said, refusing to take any food.

She stated that he once took a Liberty Bond belonging to his father and pretended he had used it for a correspondence course in engineering. Later they found he had bought a bicycle and a suit of clothes with the proceeds.

DAVIS ORDERS RUSSIAN PRINCESS ADMITTED TO U. S.

Fugitive for Year Proves American Citizenship

Washington, June 6.—(By A. P.)—Secretary of Labor Davis, through the Bureau of Immigration today ordered the immigration authorities at New Orleans, to admit Princess Ivan Tschernitschew, of the erstwhile Russian aristocracy, to the United States.

The Princess claims American citizenship. After making a trans-Atlantic voyage, partly as a stowaway without food and partly as a stowaway on the steamer Texanidia, the Princess was ordered admitted unconditionally.

Secretary Davis said she had complied with and was admissible under the general immigration laws.

Admission of the Princess, who says she was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1881, ends more than a year of wandering over Europe in an effort to reach safety and the United States. Upon her arrival she told immigration authorities that she was followed as she made her way across Europe, and that by Russian agents seeking copies of the Russian royalist regime which had been entrusted to her by her husband, Prince Ivan Tschernitschew, just before he was executed by Bolshevik troops over the gate of his estate at Craschno. She also explained she was seeking her eight-year-old son, who, she declared, was sent away by her husband early in the Bolshevik revolution to a place of safety.

Princess Tschernitschew arrived in America without funds, but several offers to assist her have been received through the Department of Labor.

The council's letter proposes that the United States extend "financial support to whatever body assumes the trust of organizing the administration of Armenia."
