round-house tales
 The round-house of a railroad is like the stable of a race course. Here the "iron horses" are groomed for their daily tasks. And no thoroughbred ever received more careful grooming. The round-house tales are tales of performance. The men here take pride in the knowledge that their steeds carry you back and forth from the seashore on time. Careful work in the round-house has much to do with the maintenance of Reading Service.

POLICEMEN BLUSH AT TALE OF CORSET

Atlantic City Girl Wanted Comfort, So She Parked Article. It Vanished

MAIDEN OF 15 LEAVES HOME

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger
 Atlantic City, June 14.—Has anybody seen a strap corset, size 30, pink of hue, looking like it was worth $11? Report immediately to Police Captain Perrotti on sight. Police about headquarters last night blushed under their brows and brass when Perrotti read the sad tale of Miss Gertrude Haskell, nineteen, of 4021 Atlantic avenue, as she reported it to him. Miss Haskell visited a girl friend who conducts a store, yesterday afternoon. The store was warm and she wanted a little solid comfort while she waited. Slipping into a rear room she dismantled, parking the corsets on a table near an open window. A couple of hours later she went back and found 'em missing. This was the tale of woe Perrotti brooded, cases last night to blushing "tops" and they admitted they were stumped.

Leaving a note for her parents informing them she had failed to pass her examinations and would not return until she made good, fifteen-year-old Frances Ritter disappeared from her home at 37 South Kingston avenue, Chelsea, yesterday. The girl, who is a senior for her age, was a first-year student at the high school. While the examinations have not yet been held, she apparently believed she would not pass and feared to face her parents. It is believed that she has gone to Philadelphia or New York, although it is known that she had practically no funds when she left.

Timely arrival of fire apparatus from this city yesterday morning prevented total destruction of a $3000 truck, loaded down with home furnishings that caught fire beyond the second bridge on the Mound Boulevard. The truck, belonging to Thomas Campbell, of Philadelphia, burst into flames when the engine back-fired. A passing motorist raced to a police booth two miles distant and had the fire department summoned. The damage was estimated at $1000.

First official cognizance of the movement to relocate the County seat in Atlantic City will be taken today, when representatives of civic bodies will appear before the County Board of Freeholders and ask for a referendum at the November election on the removal of the County buildings from Mays Landing.

William Brinton and Cornelius Scott, Federal prohibition agents, are under $200 bail to await action of the Grand Jury on charges of assault and battery, preferred by F. W. Sauter, auto dealer, of 1506 North Marine street, Philadelphia, who charges they leaped aboard his automobile while he was going to his summer home at Somers Point on Saturday, insulted his wife and attacked him when he resisted search of his car without preliminary announcement from the agents as to their identity.

PERSHING GUEST OF HONOR

10,000 to March in Allentown's Flag Parade

Allentown, Pa., June 14.—Allentown is in gala dress for the visit of General Pershing as the city's guest for Flag Day celebration today. There will be a big parade, with the Grand Army veterans, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and all marching bodies of the city in line, possibly 10,000 men. The 15,000 school children of the city will be banded close for General Pershing to pass through and receive their greetings. The parade will end at the fair grounds, where all the people will mass to honor the general and hear him speak.

General Harry C. Trexler has been in charge of the greeting to General Pershing. Allentown has the only incorporated Flag Day Association in the United States, and General Pershing, hearing of this while he was in the Philippines, wrote and asked to join, whereupon he was made a life member. This will be his first visit to Allentown.

Grand Jury to Investigate Return in Allegheny District

Pittsburgh, June 14.—Grand Jury investigation of the errors which developed in the count of the vote cast for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Thirty-fifth District will be asked, it was announced at Prosecutor Henry H. Rowand's office. Official count of the vote by the returning board gave the nomination to John M. Henry by 733 for Henry to 724 for Dr. Louis K. Manley. When the figures were checked it was found that Henry had received 743 and Manley 732. An investigation by the County Commissioners gave the nomination to Manley and referred the evidence to the District Attorney. The seven clerks of the returning board who participated in the count were among the witnesses before the Commissioners and declared they were unable to account for the discrepancy in the figures.

GIRL'S DEVOTION FOR IRVING

Lady Tree Tells of Walking Miles Hoping to See Actor

London, June 14.—Lady Tree, who since the days of the following story has become quite a figure in the English theatrical world herself, was as a young girl a secret and devoted admirer of Sir Henry Irving. As she tells her story, whenever he was playing in London she always cut her classes at school in order to see his performance.

One day, while still at school, she thought that he lived in some rooms over a trunk shop in the center of the city. It was not on her way to school, but despite that fact for the next two years she increased her walk from home to school by three miles in the vain hope, as she expresses it, "that I would see his face at the window, his hansom at the door, or even a glimpse of his beautiful hand drawing up the blind." It never happened.

Long years after, when she was married, she met her erstwhile idol face to face and sat next to him at dinner. She told him her story of the "daily tour of devotion." He listened rather moved, she thought, and then observed: "Very nice, very pretty. But they were not my windows."

What support do you give your catalog?

After your catalog has reached your customers' hands—

In those important days when your customer is saying, "I want this. Shall I buy it or shall I not?"—

What else do you mail out, to help swing the decision your way? People don't just look at a catalog and say, "Ha, I will buy!" or "No, I won't buy."

They debate. They consider. They swing toward buying and then away from buying.

It has been found profitable to follow up a catalog with an illustrated letter or an attractive folder—and follow these up with another. Attention of this sort keeps interest in your catalog alive—and that means keeping your catalog alive as a selling force.
