

SEASON MOUNTING AT ASBURY PARK

Virtually All Midsummer Features of Resort Life Now in Evidence

MANY MORE USE SARATOGA BATHS

Ashbury Park. June 14.—Ashbury Park swings into the month, entertaining thousands and with as many attractions as we were only previously to be enjoyed a month later.

Virtually all of the midsummer features of resort life are now in evidence—the formal weekend balls at the larger hotels, the smaller parties and informal functions at the smaller houses, the wild salsophony of the various recreation centers, and the various Boardwalk attractions.

Here one finds ideal combination of city, seashore and country as it exists nowhere else on the east. To the east is the sea, great variety of motion picture shows, dancing, to the south is boating, Wesley Lake, with its decorated craft; and at night its singing gondoliers; to the southwest is the beautiful expanse of the Asbury Park Golf and Country Club and its setting of fields and woodland; to the west the lower reaches of Deal Lake and a cottage and bungalow section built on wide and sheltered bays to the south the main body of Deal Lake, and charming Little Sister Lake, and charming Ashbury Park's new boardwalk station is the first of many notable improvements to catch the eye. The Boardwalk about the handsome new structure was taken down early in the week, revealing for the first time its architectural beauty.

Another notable improvement is the partial reconstruction of the long fishing pier. The pier was half hit by a storm last winter that took away much of its middle planking over its entire width.

In its reconstructed form the pier is extended beyond its previous eastern extremity by the addition of a spacious casting reservation that will accommodate a hundred boats at a time, protecting them from crowds.

Automobiles have been actually listed here in a single season from thirty-three of our States, the District of Columbia, two provinces of Canada, Cuba and several European countries and South America.

Saratoga Springs has some of the largest hotels in America, and many equally charming smaller ones, with a large number of excellent boarding houses. The finest racetrack in America is likewise located here, with racing during all of August.

The fishing season here had an early opening this year, and improves daily. While the run of fish has been extremely varied—shifting in a single twenty-four hours through floundering, dog sharks and skates, sea robins and back again to ling, without any dual run of species other than the mixed number of fish found in the waters of sport in capturing a dog shark than a ling, and old fishermen know that the despised sea-robins, or blawfish, is one of the best in the sea.

Night fishing is now facilitated by the light from the reading pavilion on the pier, and this will be augmented shortly by connection of the pier lights.

The Esplanade Review, overlooking the Boardwalk at approximately its extreme end, and the various attractions are notable for their easy chairs and strategic locations commanding at once the Boardwalk and a sweep of the sea.

The Ashbury Park Fishing Club has moved from the old fishing pier location to a handsome new home at the Deal Lake dunes. It is well worth visiting. Fish of many rare and handsome species caught in all parts of the seven miles by club members may be seen there.

The new location gives the fishermen more opportunity for casting in practice for the big national tournaments in August—and this year they are continuing in anticipation of an even more important competition, the arrangements for the State competition in the American, British, Australian and Natal South African teams.

The American team will do its racing here, flashing abroad and receiving by cable the results in each event.

FISHING AT STAMFORD

Stamford-in-the-Catskills. N. Y., June 14.—The opening of the Catskill Mountain summer season finds more visitors in the region than usually are found at this time of the year. Many of them are trout fishermen and their families, who are learning from experience that health and enjoyment are more easily obtained by beginning as early as possible some outdoor exercise, the most pleasurable and beneficial variety of which at this time is angling. Skilled guides and their assistants, who are the lure of the mountains, always is present, who enjoy not only the cool breezes which make summer a delight, but also the brisk and bracing atmosphere of a heated spring or late autumn.

TROUT fishing in the Catskills never has been such surface activity as it has this year. This is the normal result of the action of numerous local fish and game associations throughout the region, which each year for a considerable period have distributed in the creeks and brooks which abound in the mountains hundreds of thousands of trout, fry and fingerlings which are raised in the State's hatcheries.

The demand for a resort in the Catskill Mountains, which would cater exclusively to a class of patronage, refined as well as congenial, a resort where one could be assured that no undesirable element would be found, has resulted in Stamford.

In this region of lawns and woodlands, one can breathe pure, dry air, enjoy cool, restful nights, and escape insects. The roads and drives in and about Stamford are particularly well made, mountain roads radiating in every direction, thus affording inducement for walking, motoring and driving along the rippling mountain brooks and through the pretty wooded glens. On the crest of Utsavanna Mountain, easily reached by a good road, is an observatory from which 30,000 square miles of mountain territory, including thirty prominent peaks and portions of four States, may be seen.

No place in the entire Catskills has a more healthful climate than Stamford. It is above the malaria and mosquito belt, and the bracing air, the charms and natural beauties of the region, all result in favorable consideration by the thousands who visit, year after year, this veritable fairy land.
