At North Philadelphia

The South and North Phila meet again. The same clubs furnished South Philly fans with entertainment last night at Broad and Bigler streets, and another record crowd is expected at Fourth and Wingohocking streets. The largest attendance of the season greeted Bill Rudolph's team on its appearance uptown several weeks ago.

Liz Powell and Stenton Field Club players await the coming of Spring City-Royersford at the former's field at Phill-Ellena and Musgrove streets. The visitors were beaten at Dobson the other night, but have one of the best clubs hereabouts and Powell will take to the hill himself in order to secure a triumph over the combination of Montgomery County Leegue players.

SIGNING UP PLAYERS

The residents and summer population of Ocean City, N. J., will witness some good baseball at that resort this season on the grounds of the Ocean City Athletic Association.

This organization, which is composed largely of Philadelphians who are cottagers at the resort, has acquired title to a block of ground between Seventh and Eighth streets at Bay avenue. A contract has been let for the construction of modern stands and a fence to inclose the field.

The games will be played during July and August and the schedule will be arranged to include three games a week.

The team will be under the direction of M. Mackenzie, of 5028 Spruce Street. M. Mackenzie, of 5023 Spruce Street.
