CHARGE SUMMER BALL

New York, June 17 .- The athletic situation at Yale "is so befuddled and mishandled that it seems nothing short of complete remolding of the system of control, finance and coaching will serve to remedy it," says a report of the "Voluntary Committee on Yale. Athletics" made public here by the chairman, George S. Trevor, of the class of 1915.

The committee declares it represents the views of "a large number of Yale men, former captains, members of present teams, coaches and graduates interested in Yale sport."

Tad Jones does not possess a strategic mind, the report says.

The charge that Jews are discriminated against occurs in the committee's remarks on basketball, in which it is pointed out that Yale finished last in the intercollegiate race.

Charge Summer Ball

The charge is made also that most members of the baseball team have played summer baseball, which is forbidden by the Big Three, "Under the present lack of system athletic potentialities are either overlooked or ignored, and that is what has recently weakened many Yale varsity teams." "Many graduates feel that those control at Yale have fumbled the hall," says the report, which particularly assails Prof. Clarence W. Mendell. chairman of the Board of Control.

"Prof. Mendell has never had any athletic experience," says the report.
"His recent report on the present Yale athletic situation is somewhat misleading. Prof. Mendell has summed up his year's work as follows:
"On the whole we can look back

"This committee cannot agree with Prof. Mendell, because in its present sthletic year so far Harvard varsity teams have defeated ours in football, bockey, basketball, track, tennis and golf. Even if we beat Harvard in baseball and on the water water and solf the same cars today. The entries:

"This committee cannot agree with baseball and on the water we could hardly call it a 'reasonably good

"And as far as 'a reasonably good year' is concerned in our contests with Princeton we defeated Princeton in football, but Princeton has defeated us in track, basketball, crew, tennis and golf.

"Out of Athletic Brains"

"The alibi for all this is that 'we are out of luck.' We respectfully submit that we are not out of luck—we are merely out of athletic brains.

"After a careful review of the whole unsatisfactory situation." continues the report, "we believe that Yale athletics cannot be established on a sound and cannot be established on a sound and happy basis until these reforms are "More athletics for more students. "A known athletic specialist and erganizer as head of Yale athletics, who shall be a member of the faculty. "A lirector of freshmen athletics. "Competent coaches, and more of

'Less alibis for defeats, more sympathy with graduate co-operation, eliminate all snobbish intolerance and accept a broader vision of our athletic

Suggest Demanding Change

"This is not all critical. If serious thought is given to this report and to its purpose good may come of it. Yale graduates should get together and demand a change.

"There is another side to the matter. Athletics at Yale have become of finan-cial importance. Large sums of money are taken in and spent, and yet only a few in the university, those fortunate enough to get on the relatively small number of teams, have the opportunity to take part in organized athletics, either for pleasure or to develop what ability they may have in the hope of making a varsity team.

"In 1920 Yale football receipts were $360,000 and in 1921 $540,000. Yet last year there was an athletic deficit of $100,000. There should be better management than that. Nearly $650, 000 spent for a string of defeats."

Prof. Mendell said today that he Wished to devote his attention to his classroom duties and that he accepted the chairmanship of the committee or board with no idea of remaining per-manently in that position.

He succeeded Prof. Robert N. Corwin in 1919, when Yale was reopened fol-lowing the World War. Prof. Corwin, who had been appointed following the long regime of Walter Camp. remained in the position during the World War, when athletics were virtually suspended, but there was a keen demand for expansion when the university resumed sessions, and Prof. Mendell, one of the younger and progressive mem-bers of the Latin faculty, was chosen

MORTON PLAYS TIE GAME The Morton A. C. and the Swarthnore All-Stars played a seven-inning tie game last night. Darkness forced the game to be called at the beginning of the eighth with the teams deadlocked at six runs each. A triple with three base in the seventh inning by men on base in the seventh inning by Bill Palmer, of Morton, featured the the Vine Street and Walnut Street teams, He is shown taking a healthy swipe for the third strike, turning Tommy Reilly is the ampire and Moish is the catcher. Tendier's
