TIGERS IN BATTLE FOR HIGH HONORS

Cobbmen Are Only 21/2 Games Back of First Place After Win Over Browns

A'S DOWN IN THE CELLAR

TRIHEN it comes to performing miracles in the baseball world, Tyrus Raymond Cobb. player-manager of the Detroit Tigers, must be given a place on the pedestal. Less than a month ago Detroit had about given up hope that it was going to have a team in the first division. The Tigers were lolling around the second division with designs on a distinctively

That was before the four Eastern teams started their swing around the Occident. The Athletics started the Cobbers off on their streak by dropping three out of four games. Washington followed suit and the Yankees, just to make the measure good, lost all four. Reston managed to win one out of their quartet, and now along comes the was with two straight reverses that puts the Tigers up in the baseball such.

Fifteen triumphs out of eighteen games played is one of the best records team of youngsters and veterans are just two and a half games behind the Browns in first place, and one game back of the falling Yankees in second.

A continuation of the spurt, and Cobb will have moved his team up to the head of the parade. The team is on its toes fighting every moment and gets its inspiration from one of the most Stoner four and two and Oleson five and four. thirty-five victories came from the trusty arms of young pitchers. Embke has eight and eight, Dauss three and three, Oldham three and five and Cole one and three.

Yesterday the mauling Tigers handed the Browns their second straight reverse by hammering Baynes and Kolp for eighteen safeties and a decade of runs. Oldham was the winning hurler, the Browns finding him for thirteen is. Five errors aided the Brown everse.

With the Tigers bounding upward the Mackmen are doing their usual act getting enmeshed in last place. Lefty Heimach hurled a great game for seven innings against the Senators and then losing the game in the eighth

Good for Seven Innings

Only two hits had been made off Heimach up until the eighth, and he was showing a brand of pitching that had the Senators completely baffled. Eddie Goebel, the former Reading boy slammed a home run over Miller's head in the eighth that upset the Camden citizen, and before he could settle down a walk, a double, single and another single counted two more runs. The Mackmen made but five hits off

Walter Johnson, the old master, three of them in the second, when they filled of them in the second, when they niled the bases with no one out. McGowan was forced at the plate and then came a double play that killed off any chances of a score. After that Walter Johnson was the master of the Macklets.

The Yankees lost another to the Red

Sox. Mays was relieved in the eighth by Joe Bush, who yielded the run that gave the Beancaters the victory.

The White Sox won out in the tenth on Hooper's home run against the Indians with Keefe, formerly of the A's, doing the hurling. Sheeley hit a homer in the fourth for the Sox.

Over in the National the Giants scored an easy win over the Dodgers by superior hitting. Casey Stengle had a big day, getting a homer and two singles, an I Zack Wheat getting one for the Dodgers.
