

2500 P. R. R. MEN ACCEPT WAGE CUT

Agreements Reached at Voluntary Conferences—Affects Three Departments

EFFECTIVE NEXT SUNDAY

The Pennsylvania Railroad has completed wage agreements with elected representatives of 42,500 employees. Wages of 39,400 men in the maintenance of way department and 3,100 men in the telegraph and signal department are embraced in the settlement.

The revised scales, involving reductions mutually agreed upon to conform with the lower cost of living, become effective next Sunday.

In announcing the amicable wage adjustment, the Pennsylvania System said: "The negotiations were entirely voluntary and were conducted solely between management representatives on the one side, and elected representatives of the employees, on the other, free from outside intervention."

The information on which these negotiations were based was gathered, jointly, by representatives of the management and of the employees, from industries in the territory served by the Pennsylvania System.

The successful outcome of the wage negotiations with the maintenance-of-way and telegraph and signal employees constitutes one of the most notable achievements thus far recorded for the Pennsylvania Railroad's employe representation plan. This plan, for the amicable settlement of controversial questions, was first put into effect, by agreement, on January 1, 1921.

"Since that time and prior to the opening of the negotiations over the pending wage revisions the plan has been instrumental in the peaceful and satisfactory settlement more than 9000 controversial questions between management and employes."

Glen Cove, L. Following a reception at the home of Mrs. Ingalls at Lantingtown, Mr. Ingalls and his bride started for Hot Springs, Va.

WOMEN VOTERS IN THIRD SESSION

Chester, Lancaster and Berks County Members of League Meeting at Bellfonte

COMMITTEES TO REPORT

A large number of women representatives from Chester, Lancaster and Berks Counties are planning to attend the third of a series of tri-county meetings, which will be held today in Bellfonte under the auspices of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Lewis Lawrence Smith, of Strafford, vice chairman of the league, will preside at the session, the third to be held. The first meeting was held at Honesbrook, Chester County, and was attended by more than 200 women. The second session took place last Friday in Reservoir Park, Harrisburg, Dauphin, Lebanon and Cumberland Counties being represented.

One of the purposes of the meetings is to instruct women on the legislative program of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, which includes a constitutional convention, reorganization of the State government, revision of county taxes and opposition to the repeal of the direct primary law.

The outstanding thought, however, is to remind the women that they must register in September in order to vote in November. Many women, according to Mrs. Smith, believe that if they voted at the primary they can vote at the general election.

A commission headed by Senator George Woodward has been working on the State government reorganization question since the 1921 Legislature and is laying its recommendations before the women at the sessions. The tax revision committee, headed by John G. Marshall, of Beaver, has been at work

RABBIS DENY USING FERMENTED WINES

Central Conference Condemns Congress Resolution to Permit Its Use in Churches

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger

Cape May, N. J., June 27.—Edward N. Calisch, of Richmond, Va., president of the Central Conference of the American Rabbis in their thirty-third annual convention being held at Cape May, said yesterday the American rabbis were indignant over the charge that the Jewish people were credited with using fermented wines in their church services. The Conference Executive Committee will pass a resolution condemning the resolution that is trying to be put through Congress for the allowance of wines for Jewish religious services.

The American Central Conference rabbis will go on record while at the shore as being anti-Zionist. The majority of rabbis who are attending the convention here are against the movement of the American Jew toward the colonization of Palestine, but are for the protection of the Jewish people by either the British or some other country of Continental Europe.

The discussion as to whether women shall be ordained as rabbis will be held in the high school auditorium of the Cape May High School tomorrow. The rabbis have invited all of the residents of the city to be present at this or any of the meetings. On Friday the meetings will be held in the First Presbyterian Church, on the invitation of the Rev. C. O. Rosserman, of the church. President Calisch said that he wished to impress on the people of this city and the country at large that the American Central Rabbis were of a liberal turn of mind. This will be brought out in the annual meeting of President Calisch, of the meeting tonight.

SHOT IN GANG BATTLE

Eighth and Catharine Streets Affray Ends in Wounding "N. Y. Joe"

A gang battle at Eighth and Catharine streets last night resulted in the shooting of Joseph Russo, alias Joe White and New York Joe, through the shoulder near the heart. He is in a serious condition at the Howard Hospital.

The man is believed to have been shot as the result of an old gang feud, for, when interviewed at the hospital, he said: "How I'm shot is my business. They got me, but they got me wrong." Further than that he would not talk.

Many shots were fired, and the noise attracted the attention of detectives. They found Russo lying on the pavement. All but one of the other fighters had disappeared, and this man escaped through the skylight of a house.
