Hoover and Davis Accompany Conference to Interior Department for Sessions

By Associated Press
Washington, July 1.—President Harding in convening the conference of bituminous and anthracite coal operators and United Mine Workers officials at the White House today to devise means of negotiating a settlement of the nation-wide coal strike advised both parties to arrive with measurable promptness at an understanding "for your mutual good and the country's common good."

The President, in addressing the gathering, which included about thirty operators, the same number approximately of United Mine Workers' officials and district presidents, and Secretaries Hoover, Davis and Fall, declared the present was no time for the "militant note of the radical" and reminded the conference that "toleration, fairness, the spirit of give-and-take and finally a sense of the larger obligations to the public are essential to successful conference."

Harding's utterances were coupled with his appeal and admonition the President uttered what was regarded as a warning when he said that if the operators and miners could not settle their matter in a frank, recognition of the mutuality of their interests then the larger public interest must be asserted in the name of the people where the common good is the first and highest concern.

"You are admonished to arrive at such understanding with measurable promptness among yourselves," the President declared. "If the adjustment cannot be reached by you alone, Government aid will be available at your joint call."

"We wish you who best know the way to solution to reach it among yourselves in a manner to command the sanction of American public opinion. Falling in with the servants of the American people will be called to the task in the name of American safety and for the greatest good of all the people."

MARINES MANEUVER ON GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELDS

The United States Marines, who came from Quantico, Va., are rehearsing a huge war show, in which many battles of Civil War time will be mimicked. Plans are complete for the arrival of President Harding this afternoon. Pickett's charge will be "put on."

PICKETT'S CHARGE RE-ENACTED TODAY

President Harding Will View "Battle" From Special Tower at Gettysburg

PERSHING WILL ATTEND

By a Staff Correspondent
Gettysburg, July 1.—A special reproduction of General Pickett's famous charge here fifty-nine years ago will be staged later this afternoon in honor of President Harding.

At 3:30 o'clock the Chief Executive of the Nation is expected here by motor from Washington and will immediately mount the battlefield observation tower at Ziegler's Grove, near Highwater Mark, to witness the charge of 4500 Marines toward Bloody Angle.

This reproduction of Pickett's charge is the first of a series of these and is made necessary by the fact that President Harding cannot be here Monday, the exact anniversary date of the third day of the battle.

Washington, July 1.—General Charles G. Dawes, Director of the Budget, quits office today to go back to his bank in Chicago. He has done a big job in starting off the new system of systematizing appropriations and expenditures.

Two stories who found a testimonial before a committee of the House which was investigating the army purchases in France. All sketches of him as long as he lives will start out with the words, "Hell and Maria"—Dawes.

He lived up to the full respectability of a congressional inquiry with his face picturesque epithets that he had gathered in dealing with pioneer hog merchants of Chicago. He gave the newspapers a first-page story and a headline, "Hell and Maria Dawes" he is and ever shall be.

General Dawes, One is about his testimony before the Congress committee, and the other is about his playing the piano for Mrs. McKinley. The wife of the former President was an invalid, and young Mr. Dawes, who had broken into politics along with Mark Hanna, had the job of Comptroller of the Currency.

Shopmen's Leaders Warn Against Disorders and Proclaim "Peaceful Strike"—Trains Running as Usual, Rail Officials Report
Less than 200 shopmen in and near Philadelphia obeyed the strike order today, according to railroad officials, while union leaders say fully 2000 men went on strike.

The "zero hour" for the walkout was 11 o'clock, daylight-saving time. A number of the men who threw down their hammers, wrenches and sledges waited fifteen or twenty minutes before walking out.

LAST-MINUTE NEWS

Eighty to 570 Out in Camden
H. H. Garrigue, superintendent of the Camden terminal of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said that eighty men were out there. This was disputed by Harry Saffer, a union leader, who asserted 70 out of 576 men struck. In his total he included the night shift.

WARNED AGAINST DISORDERS

The shop craft leaders prepared to "count noses" this afternoon at meetings in the Machinists' Building, Thirtieth and Spring Garden streets, and at 2321 Woodland avenue. The men were cautioned against disorders at the meeting in the Machinists' Building. A "peaceful strike" policy was declared to be the intention of the strike chiefs.

ATTRACTION OF PAYROLL BANDIT

Deen was found reading in a rear second-story room. He feigned surprise when the men rushed in. "What's it all about?" he asked quietly.

DISCOVERY OF CARTRIDGES

Word was received this morning that Deen was in a house in Monroe street below Second. This is a thickly populated foreign section and strangers usually attract little attention.

RECORD COVERS FOUR CARDS

Deen was then confronted with his prison record which covers four index cards of the Detective Bureau. Then he refused to talk.

Only 48 Out of 9000 Quit P. R. R. Shops in Altoona

Altoona, Pa., July 1.—(By A. P.)—Only a small proportion of the men employed in the Altoona shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad answered the strike call today, according to newspaper men stationed at the twelve gates leading to the plant. The exact number was placed by these observers at forty-eight. The working force normally is 9000. The shops at Hollidaysburg were said to have lost more than one-half their working force.

Chicago, July 1.—Thousands of railway shopmen dropped their tools at 10 o'clock today and joined the national-wide strike called by the international presidents of the six shop crafts unions. Early reports indicated that shop mechanics and their helpers, from the New England roads to the Western transcontinental lines, were generally joining the walkout.

While there was no way of compiling accurate figures which might be all-inclusive, dispatches from points scattered from Boston to Kansas City showed that the strike had taken effect in shops on nearly all the important roads of the East and Middle West. Shopmen in the Western States were expected to join the secessionist movement as the zero hour, 10 o'clock, arrived in their territory.

The strike call, sanctioning blacksmiths, boiler makers, sheet metal workers, electrical workers, machinists and car men to stop work at 10 A. M. local time today, was issued Thursday night after a ballot had shown 90 per cent in favor of striking.

Not more than 350,000 mechanics and helpers were actually at work, however, according to latest Government figures, although the unions' total membership was allowed to vote, many shopmen being temporarily laid off.

B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor, who, with officials of the various shop crafts, defied summons to appear before the United States Labor Board yesterday, in a last effort to avoid the strike, apparently had decided to remain consistent with his ultimatum to the railroads last week.

Jewell declines to comment. Jewell successfully avoided subpoena service during the night after the board issued a writ calling upon him to appear at the close of yesterday's conference. Efforts to locate him were fruitless until after midnight when he was found at a hotel where he had met with his chairman and considered hundreds of telegrams regarding the strike.
