Sarazen is a tremendously long driver and very consistent. Walter Hagen mays that he is reminiscent of Harry Vardon at his best—which is a compliment that cannot be gilded or refined. Gene was not originally scheduled to p'ay in this foursome at Philmont. Jock Butchison was the parts of the chison was the party of the fourth, but Jock felt that he was overpart, but Jock felt that he was over-golfed and needed a rest, so he asked the committee to excuse him. They mediately wired Sarazen, and the kid champion declared that he would be tickled to death to appear in Philadel-

Next to Sarazen interest will center particularly on Walter Hagen, who intaded the British Isles and took away their most cherished title and cup. Hagen has been a big figure in Ameri can golf for a long time, and once held the crown that now adorns the black brow of Gene Sarazen. As a master of every angle of the game Hagen has few equals and no superiors.
