The Yanks have been sorely in need of a hot-corner artist. J. Ed Roush Back in Game

Two of the biggest stars of the game and both holdouts came back into the good graces of organized baseball during the last week and were reinstated by Comaissioner Landis. Walter Schmidt reported to the Pirates last Thursday, and yesterday Eddie Roush, the brillant center fielder of the Reds, put on his togs and made his first appearance of the 1922 season.

Twenty-three thousand fans gave the hard hitter and sensational fielder a rousing reception when he stepped to the coaching lines during the game. Always a favorite in Redland. Roush was much missed by the faithful. The star fielder will not have an easy task to break into the game immediately. Duncan is batting 343; Harper, the brilliant rookie, 331, and Burns, 290. The first two named are hitting too regularly to be removed from the lineup, while Burns is one of the most valuable men on the Reds, though not hitting up to form.

But the wise crackers were fooled. She sprinted her way to a victory over Dorothy Baugh, the Temple University athlete, who ran under the colors of the Meadowbrook Club, and Margaret Killkenny, the Curtis Country Club luminary. The time—ten seconds flat stands as a record owing to the fact that the A. A. U. never sanctioned a meet for women before,
