In London there is a specialist who would not ask them.

In London there is a specialist who reads profiles, who states, for instance, that the woman with a large mouth has an excellent disposition. That if the mouth be small the owner is probably cynical and spiteful, not to say catty. A stupid profile, may have shifty eyes and sunken cheeks. But the same specialist contends that although the profile is "unalterable it is susceptible to mental and moral influence and responds to physical influence."
