Baker Denies That Alter Backers Are Lukewarm to Victor in Primaries

PUTS NEEDS AT $250,000

The Republican State Committee will give full support to Gifford Pinchot, W. Harry Baker, the chairman said today.

Mr. Baker went on: "If there are any backer who are not 100 per cent for this ticket now, they will be hearty supporters of the entire ticket before the coming election."

Mr. Baker arrived in the city yesterday morning to take up the question of selecting the finance committee that will raise the funds for the fall campaign.

Mr. Baker ridiculed that idea and said he had prepared figures showing the amount raised by the State Committee in past campaigns for gubernatorial races.

Mr. Baker thought $250,000 would be enough this year, as he and Mrs. Warburton intended that the money was expended judiciously.

REAL OLD-FASHIONED FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bunker Gilbreth, of Montclair, N. J., and their family of eleven children playing on beach. Mr. Gilbreth is also shown below.

DADDY AND MOTHER OF 11 FIND TIME TO WRITE BOOKS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bunker Gilbreth, of Montclair, N. J., Bring Up Family Under Real System, but Life Is Not Dreary

A real old-fashioned American family—such as were in vogue before lap dogs and pet monkeys became fashionable—is that of Major and Mrs. Frank Bunker Gilbreth, of Montclair, N. J., who are called "daddy" and "mother" by eleven youngsters.

Rearing a large family has not prevented the Gilbreths from writing dozens of books and scientific treatises. They have collaborated on tomes that require a college education to read.

One light little volume written by Mrs. Gilbreth is "The Psychology of Management." She put its principles into practice with her children and arranged their daily schedule on the card-index plan.

Life for the eleven young Gilbreths is not a dreary round based on scientific method. Just now they are installed for the summer with their parents at Nantuxet Island. They live in a big, rambling frame cottage with two abandoned lighthouses on either side of the house.

The parents have plenty of time every day to romp on the beach with their children. The high tide washes all sorts of interesting things on the sands. A few summers ago the tide left a ring of seaweed almost at the door of the cottage and stranded a little school of whales there.

Mother Bachelor of Literature Mrs. Gilbreth first of all is a mother, devoted to her youngsters and looking after their health and schooling with loving care. On the scientific and literary side she is a bachelor of literature, a master of literature, a doctor of philosophy and the sole member of the Society of Industrial Engineers.

Mr. Gilbreth, who holds the rank of major in the corps of engineers, is a member of a dozen engineering societies, has lectured at numerous universities in this country and Europe. He is the inventor of processes for determining methods of industrial education. He also devised methods for fitting crippled soldiers for industrial life.

At their winter home, 78 Eagle Rock way, Montclair, a visitor might be somewhat astonished to note encyclopedias and other reference books in the dining room.

But there is method in the apparent anomaly. The older children have reached the point where questions are second nature, and they bombard their parents and each other with all sorts of queries.

The discussions often occur during mealtime and, even a scientific father and mother are unable to give exact names, dates and other facts on all controversies. Hence the reference books within easy reach on the dining table.

Children Learn to Typewrite As soon as one of their children is old enough to read, he or she is taught to use a typewriter. Each child has a workroom space especially assigned and each must keep the prescribed allotment tidy.

Mrs. Gilbreth's maiden name was Moller, and all the children have either "Moller" or "Bunker" as a middle name. Mr. Gilbreth is descended from the Bunker family, of Bunker Hill.

Patrolman's Son Accused in Robbery, Is Said to Have Confessed Jewelry, clothing and furs valued at $4500, were taken there from the home of Miss Lillian Wallace, 415 South Sixteenth street, have been recovered by the police, hidden under several tons of coal in a cellar on Smedley street above Pine.

Three youths were arrested by District Detectives Curran and O'Neil, of the Twelfth and Pine streets station. The articles were taken there, the police said, by the policeman's fifteen-year-old son, William, and his alleged companions, Walter Lane, fifteen years old, of Pierce street below Broad, and John Edward, of Ludlow street above Thirty-ninth.

Policeman Nichols, a Negro, was said to have been on duty at the time and did not know of the theft of the stolen goods to his home. His son told the police that the three youths went to Miss Wallace's home and young Nichols climbed through a window. Policeman guarding homes closed for the summer discovered the theft yesterday morning. Miss Wallace is touring Europe.

Today the youths were taken to the House of Detention.

SECRET POLICE O. K. Smyth Rules Cortelyou May Keep Silent on Sleuths David G. Smyth, City Solicitor, has ruled that Director Cortelyou does not have to reveal the identity of his secret police who are paid out of the $10,000 confidential fund given him by Council for special investigations.

The question of expenditures from the fund was brought about through Director Cortelyou's refusal to let Controller Hadley know the names of the men hired to make the private investigations. Director Cortelyou said if the men became known their lives would be in jeopardy.

The affair was brought to a head when Controller Hadley refused to approve a warrant for $500 drawn by Director Cortelyou.

As soon as Director Cortelyou received City Solicitor Smyth's opinion the warrant for the $500 was sent back to Mr. Hadley for approval.

Temperance Worker Insists Public Is Tired of Making It "The public is tired of home brew because it is too much trouble to make, and once they try it they find it too 'flat' for drinking," Rhoads, of Bellefonte, Pa., national superintendent of the Social Welfare Department of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, made that statement on a visit to this city.

Mrs. Rhoads stopped here last night on her return from Washington, where she conferred with Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner. She was enthusiastic in her reports of the progress being made by prohibition.

BOY DROWNS IN RIVER Body Is Recovered Ten Minutes After Sinking Swimming in the Schuylkill last night from the Spruce street wharf, Cornelius Jaggerty, fifteen years old, of 507 South Twenty-second street, sank in sight of his companions. After ten minutes his body was brought up.

Police of the Twenty-first District used a pulmotor on him and rushed him to the Philadelphia Hospital, where it was found impossible to revive him.

SHORE MOTORIST RUNS DOWN GIRL

Child Hit by Car While Crossing Street Is Seriously Injured

AUTO THIEF SUSPECTS HELD

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger Atlantic City, July 28.—Immediately upon their arrival in this city today, following their release under $5000 bail each in Ocean City on a charge of stealing an automobile, George W. Hare, 5534 York road, Philadelphia, and Leo Donnelly, of this city, were rearrested. The pair are charged by John Parsons, of 5 North Rhode Island avenue, with stealing his machine from a room in his home. They were released under $3000 bail each for a hearing.

Running across the street in front of a standing trolley car, Margaret Monara, seven years old, of 2415 Arctic avenue, darted directly in front of an automobile, driven by Louis F. Mason, 12 North Stanton place, last night. She was knocked down and both the front and rear wheels passed over her body. Mason stopped his machine, picked up the little girl and took her to the city hospital, where her condition is said to be serious. Mason surrendered to the police and was released under $1000 bail in lieu of the result of the child's injuries.

Michael Jackson, who gave his address as 120 North Second street, was arrested this morning as a suspicious character. Detectives who were patrolling the upper section of the city did not like the manner in which Jackson was touring the neighborhood and placed him under arrest. When searched at the police station he was found to be carrying a revolver with good taste in the youthful auditors. The revolver was found in his pockets. Police said he admitted to them that the machine he was driving was stolen in Trenton.

LIST 110 RUM RUNNERS

Brooks Completes Data on Rum Smuggling Ships A list of 110 schooners of American and foreign registry engaged in smuggling rum into this country from the West Indies and the Bahamas has been compiled by Nicholas J. Brooks, special agent, Treasury Department, in charge of customs in this district.

Although this is the largest number of boats ever reported engaged in rum-running, the apparent shy of smugglers is steering shy of the Jersey coast in Mr. Brooks' district, he says.

"Last summer," said Mr. Brooks, "rum-runners dotted the Jersey coast, but several instances of successful landings were reported. Increased activity by coast guards and revenue men in this district has caused an apparent change in their operations."

For whisky smugglers, despite the fact that most of the owners of the boats are natives of the Jersey coast, it is apparent that the rum-runners have decided to lay off the Jersey coast in this district, due to the strict vigilance maintained by the coast guards.

GRANDPARENTS A LURE

Boy Just Had to See Them—Thus Came Missing Report Love of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar R. A. Von Bulow, of Brookline, Delaware county, caused fourteen-year-old Robert Titus, of 410 Giddens street, Wilmington, to leave his home Monday without telling his parents where he was going.

Part of the boy's trip was made in the automobile of a friend and the rest on roller skates. His parents, told police of his absence and were notified yesterday he was safe with his grandparents. His father took him home last night.

Will Ask New Bids on Building

Director Furbush announced yesterday he would reinvite proposals for the construction of a building for tubercular patients at the Hospital for the Insane, at Galtersville, and the erection of a gatehouse or lodge at the Hospital for Contagious Diseases.

FAMILY IN WANT AS HUSBAND LEAVES HOME

Wife Appeals to Police Who Give Her Aid Hungry and worn with worry over the absence since Sunday of her husband, Mrs. Estelle Neary, with her two boys, tottered into the Trenton and Dauphin streets station last night. The boys, Joseph, five years old, and William, two, cried with their mother as she told how Joseph F. Neary, the husband and father, left their home to go to work each afternoon at 2555 Kerns street. Neary has not been well in months. He was employed as cashier in a downtown restaurant. Hungry, he started for the restaurant. When he did not return Sunday night Mrs. Neary was terrified. Next day no word was received and she had not been there. She had little money and that was exhausted on Wednesday. When the children cried with hunger yesterday she decided to appeal to the police. The latter gave her some money.

A general alarm was sent out with instructions to search all hospitals. Neary is forty years old, five feet five in height, has brown eyes and wore a dark-blue suit.

PARK ORCHESTRA TO GIVE FIRST CHILDREN'S CONCERT

Saturday Morning Symphony Program Displaces That of Sunday The first of a series of Saturday morning children's concerts by the Municipal Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Victor Kolar, will be given at 10 o'clock tomorrow in the Lemon Hill concert pavilion in Fairmount Park, near Thirty-first street and Girard avenue.

These concerts have been planned to take the place of the Sunday afternoon concerts, which, on account of the heat, proved to be more of a hardship than a pleasure to audience and musicians alike. The program will contain music of a light nature, designed to develop good taste in the youthful auditors.

The concert will be free and the management is confident that crowds of children will attend and enjoy them.

The program is as follows: 1. Turkish march, by Beethoven 2. Overture, "The Merry Widow," by Strauss 3. "Waltz," from "The Merry Widow," by Strauss 4. "Waltz," from "The Merry Widow," by Strauss 5. "Waltz," from "The Merry Widow," by Strauss 6. "Waltz," from "The Merry Widow," by Strauss

ASKS $1,000,000 BOND

Must Be Posted by Objectors to Reynolds' Bid in Lehigh Stock Objectors to the sale of the stock of The Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company to the Jackson E. Reynolds Syndicate of New York, will have to file a bond of $1,000,000 as a guarantee that if a resale is ordered, a bid better than that of the Reynolds group will be forthcoming. The Reynolds group bid $32,201,130.

The United States District Court here yesterday made this requirement of the Franklin Securities Company of this city, in filing bond on behalf of Isaac T. and Mary T. W. Starr, stockholders of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The Starrs objected to the sale to the Reynolds group.

If the bond is not filed the Starrs' petition will be dismissed. Failure to file the bond also will bar the Franklin Company from filing an amended petition asking that the sale to the Reynolds group be set aside.

FIANCES STABBED BY GIRL'S FATHER

Couple Attacked on Way to Church to Arrange for Wedding While on the way to church to make plans for their wedding day Jurina Markazano, eighteen years old, 2828 North Fairhill street, and Luigi Laurier, her fiance, were attacked with a knife last night by Michael Markazano, the girl's father, police say. He strongly disapproved of the wedding.

The prospective bride and bride-groom are in a serious condition. The girl is in Mount Sinai Hospital, suffering from a deep wound in the back. Laurier is in the Pennsylvania Hospital. He received two wounds in the side and another in the back. Markazano escaped.

Laurier called at the home of Miss Markazano, 2828 North Fairhill street, last night, and they discussed plans for the wedding.

The license had been obtained, but the bride-to-be required a few things to complete her trousseau. Laurier accompanied her on little shopping tours. While out they decided to go to the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, where the ceremony was to have been performed today, and arranged some details. It had been planned to make the wedding a picturesque affair which would live long in their memory.

Markazano, who it is believed followed the couple when they left home, is said to have suddenly sprung upon them near Eighth street and Washington avenue. "It will never be," he exclaimed, as he drew a sharp knife from his coat. He plunged it into Laurier first and then stabbed his daughter, police say.

Passers-by summoned patrols. Laurier pleaded to be taken with his fiancee, but in the excitement of the moment his plea was unheard.

MAYOR SUED FOR $25,000

Widow Seeks Damages for Death of Husband in Elizabeth, N. J. Elizabeth, N. J., July 28.—Mayor Mrazlav was made defendant yesterday in a suit in which $25,000 damages are sought by Mrs. Elizabeth Freer, of 1934 Flora street, for the death of her husband, Charles Freer, who was struck by the Mayor's car on December 31, 1921.

Freer was attempting to cross Madison avenue here when the Mayor's car hit him. He died two days later.
