> As for your future-read what one of our men recently wrote-and there a nothing extraordinary about his case. Our Sales Manager has dozens of similar letters which he will be glad to show you.

"Dear Sir. On September 19th, I answered an adjectisement from this corporation. Salesmen, it men who would become salesmen, it read. I knew I was no salesman and had my doubts about anyholis bring arise to make one out of me. I was an officere, with an engineer's mental stitude. But I was sold solidly on the value of the apportunity the integrity and ability of the men who officed it, and the landamental importance of the work being done. I was accepted, given a short intensive training and then sent out into the field. The first week I made $140 for myself. Shortly I was corring over $200 a week, and over a period of several monois I averaged approximately $250 a week. In other words, this corporation had taken a man with no stilling training of experience and developed in a short time a man who was selling consistently. And within three months time I was promoted to District Sales Manager. It soulds rather sudden, but that a the way they do things here once a mun has demonstrated by adults. they do things here once a man has den strated his ability.

What this organization has done for me is not for sale at any price "Sincereis. WEVE got the responsible positions, plenty of them! Our real job is to get men
