Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger: Sir-The death yesterday of Alex-ander Graham Bell, inventor of the ander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, recalls most vividly to us who have passed the half-century mark the wonderful progress that has been made since the first Centennial Exposition threw open its gates to the public in this city.

When the conditions existing today

Philadelphia, August 2.

Sir-I wish your correspondent, James Brierly, would explain just what he means in his recently published contribution to the Forum on "Democracy." when he says: "Is it not almost suicidal to coerce the allen into 'taking out his papers' "?

Mr. Brierly is quite correct when he says that American citizenship should be regarded.

be regarded as a choice privilege. His letter was so intelligent in most respects that doubtless he has some process of reasoning, which I have not been able to apprehend, back of his logic that aliens become citizens by coercion or compulsion. To my mind there is nothing in American laws or practices body of citizens. And it must be re-membered that a period of five years is required between declaration of in-tention and admission to citizenship through the District Court of the States-surely a time long United enough both for sifting out the capacity of the prospective citizen and for him to make up his mind as to the value and importance of what he is Kol Nidre is a prayer. It is the prayer which was said at the beginning of the Feast of Tom Kippur, the Day of Atonoment. This also originated at the time of the Stanish Inquisition. It means vows, and the use of the prayer was that all vows made during the year should by the prayer be rendered null and void.

The words to the chant may be obtained from Rabbi Nathan Benner, 1451 South Fourth street, or perhaps from the office of the Jewish World.

"Remember, Love, Remember" o the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

REMEMBER, LOVE, REMEMBER 'Twas ten o'clock one moonlight night.
I ever shall remember:
And every star shone sparkling bright.
In gloomy cold December.
When at my window, tap, tap, tap,
I heard his gentle well-known rap,
And with it too these words most clear:
"Remember ten o'clock, my dear.

But why should there be mosquitoes?
They do nothing at all but make life And since that day in wedlock joined The window shutter brings to mind, "Remember, love, remember."

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

Sir—One of your renders asked recently for a poem, "The Way to Wait." I have had it in my acraphook for some time and am sending it to you. I hope you will print at or else return the poem to me, as I would not like to lose it.

Sir-I wonder if you can supply me with the origin and words of the two Jewish chants. "Eill. Eill" and "Kol Nidre." W. STERLING SUTFIN. By Isabel Ecclestone Mackay W. STERLING SUTFIN.

Philadelphia, Aug. 2, 1922.

"Elli, Eili," is a Jewish chant, and had its beginning in Psalms, twenty-second chapter, when King David, fleeing from Saul, cried, "Elli, Eili," or "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?" It later was transformed into a chant and was popularized during the Spanish in-

Sir—Here's a cute little piece of poetry I ran across the other day. Maybe it will interest a few of your girl readers who, like myself, expect to be married soon.

"The Way to Walt" To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger:

THE WAY TO WAIT

In your past has error been?
Rise above it.
Be not slave unto your sin,
Rise above it.
Set your face unto the dawn,
Cry your motto, "Onward, on!"
Never mind the thing that's sone;
Rise above it. Do you meet the knocking crew;

To the Editor of the Evening Public Ledger: Sir—Please print the lines beginning.
"Whatsoever mars your life, rise above it."

COURAGE By J. A. Edgerton

Whatsoever give you fear, Whatsoever makes you veer, From the path of duty clear, Rise above it.

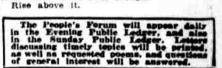

Whatenever checks your growth. Rise above it. Be it selfahress or sieth, Rise above it.

Whatsoever bars your soul
From its kingdom of control.
Keeps you from the final goal.

Prove it faine by what you deRise above it.
Give out love and strength and light, Give out love and strength a And the carper's petty spite All will vanish out of sight, Rise above it. Naught without can keep you back: Rise above it. In yourself is all the lack; Rise above it.

There is nothing that can mar

Rise above it.
Till the voice of self has ceased.
Rise above it.
This is truth the sages taught.
From the soul of being caught; Evil rests within your thought-

Keeping Faith With the World

Navy's History Makers Placed on the 5c and 10c Counter

At the Disarmament Conference, Secretary Hughes, for the United States, proposed the staggering suggestion that, not only should there be a suspension of naval construction, but that tons of fighting fortresses should be scrapped.

Uncle Sam is making good. Some of our famous fighters are being dismantled and cut into pieces, as junk. Sold at an infinitesimal fraction of their cost, they may well be said to have been sold over the counters of a five-and-ten-cent store. Irving S. Sayford has spent many days at Bridesburg, on the Delaware, watching the scrapping of these worthy fighters, and his story of their past and their present is the first-page feature of the Magazine Section,

SUNDAY, AUGUST 6

The new department, "Our Women in Politics," is creating a furore among the new voters of Pennsylvania. Edited by Mrs. Harriet Hubbs, Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, it deals not only with noted feminine figures in politics, but contains much of practical value to the woman who wishes to know how to vote.
