

GUARDSMEN MEET IN FIELD EVENTS

First Period at Mount Gretna Will End With Contests Today

SPROUL PRAISES TROOPS

Camp Duffy, Mount Gretna, Pa., Aug. 4.—A burst of activity with numerous preparations added to the divisional track and field meet and rifle and pistol contests, will today and the first of two weeks of the most successful camp-meeting of the Pennsylvania National Guard here.

It is the opinion of men and officers, as well as many noted visitors who have flocked to the camp since its opening a fortnight ago, that the progress of the divisional soldier and the systematic carrying out of the training schedules have left little to be desired in so short a space of time.

Governor Sproul yesterday added his commendation, after touring the camp and watching the cavalry bivouacked outside of Colebrook, and the firing of the infantry regiments on the range.

Chief among the events of today will be the rifle contest for the championship of the camp between the 103d Cavalry and the 11th Infantry Regiments.

The former, it is noted, is mounted at Colebrook and the latter at Gretna. The 11th Infantry won highest honors during the range work of the infantry regiments and, headed by Colonel R. M. Brookfield, is confident of making the bulls-eye with sufficient accuracy to come out winners today. Each team will have sixteen men, chosen regardless of rank.

Divisional Track Meet
The divisional track meet, held on the parade ground, will draw hundreds of contestants. Events to be run off are the 50 and 100 yard dashes, eight of eight, 100 yard sack race, 200 yard relay, centurion relay, boxing bouts and baseball games.

The pistol championship of the Fifty-sixth Infantry Brigade will be contested between the 11th and 12th Infantry Regiments, six men are representing each outfit. Cavalry units of the 103d Cavalry are also taking part in the contest.

The 103d Cavalry, which is bivouacked in the vicinity of nearby towns and pitching a bivouac camp where the men cooked individual lunches in their mess kites. The maneuver was completed early in order to return for a possible inspection by the Governor.

The Governor, as on his first trip to Mount Gretna, dispensed with formality, declaring that his trip was for business and not for pleasure.

He replied shortly to attacks in the newspapers upon him for his policy in regard to the appointment of the late Senator Crow and suggested that he believed that he had done the right and only thing in choosing his lifelong friend, who was, in addition, an admirable man to represent the state at Washington.

Brigadier General Frank D. Bear left the camp last night, motoring to Washington, D. C., to make arrangements for supplies for incoming troops.

Governor Sproul returned to Harrisburg late yesterday after a thorough inspection of the camp. He will leave tonight for Uniontown for the funeral of Senator Crow, which takes place tomorrow.

GUARDSMEN FROLIC AND DRILL AT GRETTA

Camp Duffy, Mount Gretna, Pa., Aug. 4.—Cockey Malloy, private, Troop B, 103d Cavalry, was formally buried last night. Funeral services, considered necessary after he, a cavalryman, had fallen from his horse, were conducted by Troops A and B.

The "corpse" was carried by pall-bearers ranging in height from 5 feet 6 inches to 6 feet 2 inches, with the head amid the shortest men. The horse of the deceased, with boots slung over the saddle, followed the pall-bearers, and mourners, with spurs to the front and guns carried upside down, followed.

The pall-bearers likewise carried beer bottles, empty and held neck down, denoting sorrow. The entire procession was led through the streets of the camp by the band, until the final resting place, the watering trough, was reached.

Running the gauntlet was the questionable sport of the officers and non-commissioned officers of Troop B Wednesday evening. Weapons used were empty rifle bolts, and such man employed his raw for life, he aimed himself and took a place at the end of the line. The last to go through reported a hot trip.

Four men of Troop A were solemnly tried last night at a "kangaroo court" for various and sundry offenses, after which they were sentenced to the water-trough and a mud bath.

The entire squadron was present to hear Judge Advocate Christie, First Sergeant of Troop A, pronounce sentence. Private "Dutch" Chambers, of the First Troop, was ordered to the defense, and Sergeant Hendon prosecuting attorney. The court, while admitting that evidence was lacking, feared mob violence, and sought a loophole from its dilemma by finding the four prisoners guilty. They were Privates Morris, Swapp, Michener and Patton.

and 70 per cent of its men qualified as marksmen or sharpshooters.

The members of the 11th Infantry who will compete against the 103d Cavalry in a rifle match today for the championship of the camp, are Colonel R. M. Brookfield, Lieutenant Colonel G. L. Leiby, Captains D. Atkinson, J. Brown and T. J. Kernaghan, Lieutenants S. L. Atkinson, E. P. Hendert, C. S. Hogue, Ziellinski and Filman, Sergeants R. C. Wilson and L. J. Wilson, Corporal Q. Kernaghan, Privates Barnes, Rogers and Lonquist.

GOING TO MOUNT GRETTA

Special Troops of 28th Division to Entrain Tomorrow
The special troops of the Twenty-eighth Division located in this city will leave the army at 4111 Mantua avenue at 7 A. M. tomorrow and enroute for Mount Gretna at Thirty-first street and Grand avenue at 7:30 A. M. as an additional section to the train carrying the 103d Cavalry.

The Twenty-eighth Signal Company, headquarters at Philadelphia, the Twenty-eighth Military Police Company from York and the Twenty-eighth Division Headquarters Company, the 103d Motorcycle Company, the 103d Aid and Ambulance Company and the Medical Detachment from this city. The Twenty-eighth Tank Company, which is also a part of the special troops stationed at Norristown, will leave its home station on Sunday for Camp Meade and will train with the regular army instead of going to Mount Gretna.

Every officer in the special troops is an overseas veteran. Major David B. Simpson, commanding, served with the Twenty-eighth Division and also in the Army of Occupation. Lieutenant Charles G. Tramm, commanding the Motorcycle Company, served all through the war with the Second Division. Captain William H. Clark, commanding the Headquarters Company, was sent to a training camp at Fort Niagara by the old First Pennsylvania Infantry at the outbreak of the war and received his commission and served in all engagements with the Fourth Division, and First Lieutenant Charles J. Quinn, formerly of the First Pennsylvania Infantry, served from 1914 until the end of the war with the British forces.

The entire Headquarters Company is a "picked" outfit of overseas veterans and all were members of the old First Pennsylvania Infantry serving with the 103d Cavalry.
