But Van Schver Est Long Looked-For Savings In These Great Furniture Values

I For we have centered the energies of months-backed by the experience of a life-time-in making this Sale great beyond comparison.

GFurniture and Home Furnishings are the only things we make, buy and sell. Otherwise this Sale would never reach its present magnitude in the number of Suites and Pieces, in the styles and quality, or in the pre-eminence of its values.

- We have the Goods because we have the facilities, and we have the values because we have the advantages-from the purchase of our own raw materials and their manufacture into Furniture, to our prominent and inexpensive location which alone saves $250,000 a year.
- Come, if you would see the most extensive collection of Furniture ever assembled in a Great Store. Come, if you would understand why most people buy their Furniture in the Van Sciver House. Acres of Furniture that stand out with a charm that is unrivaled, and at savings. we feel certain, there is nothing to match.

Sketched From Our Floors

hich this artistic blending of Furniture and Furnishings, with its classic Eng his setting of panelel oaken walls, so admirably radiates. The Suite is upholstered in antique figured velour, in mulberry and blue, with trimmings of velvet and damask. Piped and fringed edgings add to its quaint charm. One of many splendid Suites on our spacious sales floors.

Uncommon Sense : Harnessing Selfishness By JOHN BLAKE

Spensed with, and since it is very likely that the world would be upset if it were to be dispensed with, the cally thing worth doing is to control it, which means to put it into barness. This has been done by people in all ares, and when done wisely selfshness s, and when done wisely selfishness omes beneficial, instead of hacm-

I selfishness there might be no wars, and no poverty, and no minappiness substitution of the third point like the self-state set of the the three the the three the the three the three set that is of the the three three the three three three the three and no poverty, and no uninproduess in the world—though that is not likely. It is not possible to contrasts which ness, however, so there is no meet in speculating on what might barren if it did not exist. Selfishness is one of the moving forces in the world. It is responsible for the most elemental metact, which is the instinct of self-perservation. It is belind and affection and doing extent behind all affection and doing which are the noblest attributes of the human mind.
