Second Battalion, 103d Engineers, Begins Week on Rifle Range Today

ONE BAYONET ACCIDENT

By a Staff Correspondent
Camp Duffy, Mt. Gretna, Pa., Aug. 11.—Several interesting experiments have been made here by Pennsylvania's National Guard, especially along communication lines, and last night another was added to the list when the concert given by the 110th Infantry band was broadcasted by radio.

The concert was held in front of the headquarters tent of Brigadier General Shannon, temporarily commanding the Fifty-fifth Infantry Brigade. It was under the direction of Lieutenant John Connors, of Altoona, the regiment's bandmaster. The radio crew which effected the broadcasting operation was in charge of Master Sergeant Howard M. Zimmerman.

Radio will be used again today in the extensive signal and communication problem which will be worked out at the thickly wooded hills surrounding the camp. The problem is to establish perfect communication among all units. Signal companies of the 103d Engineers, of Philadelphia, commanded by Colonel Jackson W. Study, and the Twenty-eighth Division signal troops, commanded by Major David B. Stimpson, also of Philadelphia, will be employed.

The Second Battalion of the 103d Engineers, under command of Major H. W. Watkins, will begin preliminary firing on the rifle pits this afternoon. Company A, of the 103d Engineers, Alton, and the 110th Infantry, under Colonel Edward Martin, will accompany the battalion. The engineers will work in the rifle pits while the 110th is on the firing line for two hours, then the engineers will practice with the rifles while the infantrymen work the pits.

Yesterday the First Battalion of the engineers, under Major Horace Heman, and the 110th Infantry, under Colonel Robert M. Vail, were on the range. The engineers went into the rifle pits first.

Although thousands of soldiers men have been on the bayonet range during the efficient use of this weapon of attack, only one bayonet accident has occurred. Private Clair Houck, Company F, 110th Infantry, from Indiana, was stabbed in the neck yesterday while charging the enemy—a handle of fog.

The accident occurred when another private in the company jumped over a three-foot high fence and landed on the handle of Houck's rifle. Houck lost his balance, Houck, bleeding from the wound, was taken to the regimental hospital, where physicians said the wound was not serious.

The 103d Engineers expect to work on the new machine-gun range in a few days. They will engage in demolition work on the site of the old range, blowing away obstructions and building new target pits, which will be for considerable work. The engineers have already built large pontoon bridges and other classes of bridges on water and in the hills on the reservations, carrying out the program of actual work laid before them by their regular army instructor, Major P. F. Fowler.

DOUBLING AS PEARL WHITE.
MOVIE ACTOR BADLY HURT

Misses Hold When He Leaps From Bus to Elevated

New York, Aug. 11.—Major (as Pearl White, for whom he was doubling to perform a risky "stunt" in a scene for her feature picture "Mystery" at the Strand, a motion picture actor, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he missed his aim as he leaped from the top of a bus to catch a "prop" string of pearls hanging from the elevated structure at Seventy-second street and Columbus avenue.

Scores of persons assembled to watch the screen actors at work, gazed with horror when the actor fell eight or ten feet. Dr. Edwin Insin, passing by, took the injured man in a taxi cab to Roosevelt Hospital. There it was discovered that Stevenson suffered a fractured skull, internal injuries and lacerations.

The bus, chartered by George B. Reitz, Inc., producers of the picture, was moving on East Seventy-second street and carried several other players. As it approached the elevated structure Stevenson ran to the top of the upper deck of the bus and as it passed under the elevated rail he made a flying leap for the necklace, which hung from the girders overhead, missed his aim and fell.

W. A. WHITE, EDITOR, QUILTS
JUDGE ON LIQUOR ISSUE

Resigns When Weekly Seeks to Restore Beer

Emporia, Kan., Aug. 11.—Light wines and beer caused Judge William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, to resign his position as editor of the paper yesterday. Mr. White's resignation was given early in July and was printed in the paper. "I'm afraid I'm getting old and cranky," Mr. White said yesterday. "I don't seem to be able to get along with folks. I resigned as editor of the paper because the owners of the paper desired to start a campaign for light wines and beer. I am a convinced and confirmed prohibitionist; the owners are fair people and honestly believe their life, liberty and pursuit of happiness require light wines and beer. Now these things are no more important to my happiness than stowed primers and Winchester."

"But I felt I should not remain as editor of a paper advocating things I did not believe in and I quit. As a man gets on in years a lot of things seem to him to be fundamental principles which probably are only his excuse for being cranky, but a man is what he is and not what he could be."

ARGENTINE MINISTER QUILTS
CABINET IN ORDER TO DUEL

Resents Bitter Verbal Attack on Himself by Conservative Deputy

Buenos Aires, Aug. 11.—Francisco Beiro, Minister of the Interior, resigned yesterday so as to engage in a duel with the Conservative Deputy Sanchez Sorondo, who indulged in bitter attacks in the chamber against the minister. Senor Beiro took offense at remarks made by the Deputy against his authorizing the issue of stamps bearing the rights of President Yrigoyen and President-elect de Alvear. The stamps were without value and issued solely for commemorative purposes. Senor Beiro has named his seconds and says the duel is irrevocable.
