OCEAN CITY'S CANDY WAR ENDS IN FIASCO

"No Jurisdiction," Says Justice of Peace, Asked to Enforce Law Impartially. CROWD JAMS COURTROOM. Ocean City, N. J., Aug. 15.—Ocean City's candy war has ended for the moment in an ignominious truce with the forces still in the trenches and nothing to fight about. "What are you gonna do about it?" is the demand of leaders on each side, and so far as can be learned, candy will still be quietly sold on Sundays as heretofore, motorists will continue to buy gasoline to run their machines and "hot dogs" in rolls will as usual be munched Sunday mornings on the beach at this resort. "The many offenders of the strict spirit of the Sunday closing ordinance of 1918 were present last night at 7 o'clock when J. Frank Shellenberger and William F. Shriver, Boardwalk candy merchants, went to lay down a barrage of justice. Accompanying them was George Burgess, Atlantic City attorney for Mr. Shriver. The courtroom at City Hall was filled to overflowing with spectators and accused; all were expectant, all were excited—just as if they might have been waiting for the testimony of the star witness in a sensational murder trial. John J. Devine, Justice of the Peace, appeared on time. He laid his hat on the bar, and spoke for a few minutes in his office with those responsible for the attempt to close the city up right on Sunday. Then he walked into the courtroom, murmured a few words and the front bench of spectators emptied immediately. In two minutes all had walked from the room. That's all there was; there wasn't any more. "No jurisdiction" had been the Judge's own declaration, in which he was sustained by Lawyer Burgess. Justice Devine is an elected officer and not an appointee of the Mayor's. As such, he is not able to conduct a hearing under an ordinance of the City's Assembly. No indication of what would follow was given. It is known that Mr. Shellenberger, upon deciding to secure equal justice for all and to see that nobody in any section of the city could get away with the Boardwalk stores could not wait last Tuesday to follow Judge H. W. Moore to secure warrants. The Judge refused to issue them and referred Mr. Shellenberger to Justice Devine. Both Shellenberger and Shriver have been fined this summer under the ordinance. They secured evidence that others, not on the Boardwalk, also sold candy on Sunday, and they proceeded to try to abstract an absolute justice. "No, it was not an attempt at burlesque," said Shellenberger, after tonight's fiasco. "We wanted all the merchants in the town treated in the same manner. We know that the attack was on the Boardwalk people, and we knew, too, that candy was sold all over town. We doubted if we could not sell, then the ordinance should be enforced everywhere without discrimination. "It was merely a defensive measure," he said. City Solicitor Boswell said after the meeting there had been no desire on the part of the city to show favoritism, or to attack a few for political reasons, but that there had been flagrant commercialism in the two cases in question, and that it must stop. Having come to a deadlock on enforcing the city ordinance in both spirit and letter, the next action may be to make use of the State law which allows of a fine of $2 for many minor offenses. If that is the recourse of Shriver and Shellenberger, Justice of Peace Devine can take his part in the next line-up. But a quiet ending of the fracas is looked for, with neither an open or closed Sunday in view. Both sides deny that they seek the former, or want the latter, if it is to be hermetically sealed.

INSIST WOMAN WAS KIDNAPPED IN PLANE

Seized and Tied in Machine by Three Fliers, Mother Says. Travers City, Mich., Aug. 15.—(By A. P.)—Relatives of Mrs. Myrtle Fortney, eighteen, who disappeared from her home here Sunday, continued today to insist she was kidnapped by three men who seized her, tied her into the seat of an airplane and flew away. Mrs. Fortney's mother declared one of the men lassoed and bound her daughter near her home, before forcing her into the machine. The police discredited the story, but admitted the wife of an airplane motor had been heard at about the time Mrs. Fortney disappeared. Oscar P. Fortney, husband of the missing woman, declared today he knew of no reason for his wife's disappearance and believed she had been abducted. The police generally terms Lord Northcliffe the greatest British journalist of all times. His spirited Fleet street competitors, but intimate personal friends, Lord Burnham and Lord Beaverbrook, the proprietors of the Daily Telegraph and the Daily Express, are unstinted in their praise of Northcliffe's service to journalism and to the empire. Even the Daily Herald says his death causes one to think of other towering figures suddenly abased within the present century. "Of the premature death of Cecil Rhodes, of the abrupt crushing and disablement by disease of Joseph Chamberlain and President Wilson just as each seemed to bestride the earth like a colossus. The sensitivity and mobility of the limbs are unaffected. Thus far no surgical operation has been deemed necessary. In order to ascertain the exact extent of the skull fracture the use of X-ray apparatus would be necessary, but the doctors do not wish to move their patient. They have prohibited any one from entering the room. D'Annunzio is verging on unconsciousness.

WOMAN FOR WET CANDIDATE

Mrs. H. N. Simmons to Lead Tuttle Forces in New Jersey. Trenton, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Harriman N. Simmons, of Elizabeth, formerly chairman of the Women's Democratic State Committee, will be the leader of the Tuttle wet forces in the ranks of the Democratic women in the primary campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Mrs. Simmons today explained her position in the fight for the Democratic party nomination for Governor, and announced that her influence and insight into State affairs and politics would be thrown toward State Banking Commissioner William E. Tuttle, to whom she pays a high tribute for independence and ability. Blame Hooh for Suicides. Allentown, Pa., Aug. 15.—A mind upset by hooh is thought to have been the cause of the suicide in the police station here of Richard Neary, sixty years old, a veteran iron worker. He was a brother-in-law of Barney McNulty, the noted bugler of the old Fourth Pennsylvania infantry. On various occasions Neary threatened suicide while intoxicated. He hanged himself with his belt.

After-Dinner Tricks. No. 240—String Pulled Through Coat. A loop of string, passed through a buttonhole, with thumb and finger in each end of the loop, is apparently drawn right through the cloth without the hands losing their hold from either end of the string. The trick is done thus: Use a loop more than a foot in length. Pass it through a buttonhole of the coat and slip a thumb in each end. The left thumb which retains their holds, are drawn apart and the string comes right out of the buttonhole. The right thumb releases its loop and the left little finger does likewise. The right little finger and the left thumb which retain their holds, are drawn apart and the string comes right out of the buttonhole.

PRESS EULOGIZES LORD NORTHCLIFFE

Sketches and Messages of Regret From All Parts of the World Printed in London. FUNERAL TO BE THURSDAY. London, Aug. 15.—A remarkable tribute is paid by the British press to the late Viscount Northcliffe this morning, columns, and in some instances even pages, being devoted to editorials, photographs and special articles on the achievements and personality of the master journalist whose career ended at the height of his power. Naturally, the Northcliffe publications make the greatest effort to eulogize "the chief," and the Times devotes four pages, with upturned column rules as a mark of mourning, to biographical sketches and messages of regret from journalists, politicians and the diplomats in all parts of the world. Tributes from America, including President Harding's message of condolence to Lady Northcliffe, are displayed prominently. George Harvey, the American Ambassador, sent a message from Scotland, but King George, who is in the United States, has not yet sent the published telegrams and cablegrams from the empire's prominent personages. Praised by Competitors. The press generally terms Lord Northcliffe the greatest British journalist of all times. His spirited Fleet street competitors, but intimate personal friends, Lord Burnham and Lord Beaverbrook, the proprietors of the Daily Telegraph and the Daily Express, are unstinted in their praise of Northcliffe's service to journalism and to the empire. Even the Daily Herald says his death causes one to think of other towering figures suddenly abased within the present century. D'ANNUNZIO IMPROVING

Poet is Still in Serious Condition as Result of Fall on Sunday. Gardone Riviera, Italy, Aug. 15.—(By A. P.)—Improvement in the condition of Gabriele d'Annunzio, famous Italian soldier-poet, who was seriously injured in a fall at his villa here Sunday, is indicated in a bulletin issued late last night by Dr. Donati, professor of surgery of Padua University. While the fracture at the bottom of the skull affects the right arm, says the bulletin, the cerebral commotion previously noted is decreasing, there are no signs of cerebral compression. The sensitivity and mobility of the limbs are unaffected. Thus far no surgical operation has been deemed necessary. In order to ascertain the exact extent of the skull fracture the use of X-ray apparatus would be necessary, but the doctors do not wish to move their patient. They have prohibited any one from entering the room. D'Annunzio is verging on unconsciousness.

1 A. M. LID FOR NEW YORK

Police Suddenly Enforce Order Following Gang Shooting. New York, Aug. 15.—(By A. P.)—Broadway's glittering lights and its midnight dance clubs both went out together at 1 o'clock this morning when the police quietly but firmly stopped all dancing and cabarets. The recent gangster battle outside one of the resorts, in which a man was killed and a cabaret proprietor held, was given as the cause for the order. The police edict spread consternation among the night moths who formerly fluttered to the tune of jazz orchestras until daybreak. The police announced that the 1 o'clock closing law henceforth would be strictly enforced.
