The Tigers won the first game of today's double header from the A's by the score of 6 to 4.

Blue's fluky home run and a rehe one by Veach made victory possible.

George Dauss, veteran Detroit pitcher, held the A's to eight hits. The Tigers made eleven hits.

Had it not been for the home run by Blue and a wild pitch by Hasty in the eighth, when Cobb scored from third, the game would have gone into extra innings.

The crowd was one of the largest midweek throngs of the year, the A's brilliant spurt and Cobb, with his Tigers, proving the attraction.

The riot was averted in the third inning. Blue, the first baseman on the Tigers, sent a liner out toward left field that bounced toward the bleachers and an over-zealous sunfish reached out and pulled the ball into the four-bit section. Umpire Guthrie, a newcomer, in these parts, waved Blue around the bases.

Immediately the Athletics sent up a howl, Perkins protesting so vigorously that the arbiter told him to leave the premises.

This was the first time Perkins has been chased from a game in his career.

Eddie Rommel also was told to leave the bench and don his civies by the umpire.

It was while Guthrie was banishing Rommel that the riot almost occurred. The umpire stood in front of the Athletic dugout shaking his finger at Rommel. A deluge of cushions, bottles, paper and any other missile in reach came down in the vicinity of the umpire.

The level-headed Doc Johnston, when the ire of the fans seemed to be at its height, managed to stem the near-riot by calling on the fans to stop throwing at the umpire.

Amidst a howl of one of the biggest weekday crowds of the year Rommel and Perkins made their exit.

TWO MATCH RACES

Italy vs. America Sprints at Drome This Week

America vs. Italy will be the feature of the two big races arranged at the Philadelphia Velodrome, Point Breeze Park, next Thursday night. One will be a motor-paced event and the other will be a bike sprint.

In each case the race will be a match event. Clarence Carman, of America, is to compete against Vincenzo Maddona, Italy, behind the motors, while Willie Spencer, newly crowned American sprint champion, will pedal against Orlando Piani, Italy.

The Maddona-Carman and Piani-Spencer events are to be decided in heats in each case, best two out of three. The first heat of the motor-paced race will be ten miles, the second fifteen and the third, if necessary, ten.

In the bike sprint Spencer and Piani will ride one mile.

New Tennis Pair Play Great Game

Holcomb Ward, of New York, doubles champion of more than twenty years ago, in a most outrageous manner.

The veteran champions collected a mere four games in the match. The 1922 Davis Cup players won, 6-0, 6-3, 6-1.

The Pacific Coast champions, Robert and Howard Kinsey, survived the second round only after a five-set struggle with Willis Davis, of San Francisco, and H. C. Johnson, of Boston. After losing the first two sets, 3-6, 4-6, they carried the third along until they won, 12-10, and then ran out the next two sets, 6-2, 6-2.

The power of Davis' service and his terrific overhead smashes frequently shattered the defensive play of the Kinseys, but as the match progressed his delivery lost its fire and his overhead lacked the punch that he had at the outset. Johnson, too, was weary, and his lack of speed in covering his court provided frequent openings.

Hugh Kelleher and Leonard Beekman, of New York, went into the third round when they eliminated W. J. Sweeney and C. M. Charest, of Baltimore, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

W. W. Ingraham and Arnold Jones, noted Harvard-Yale doubles team, knocked off the veteran combination of Howard Voshell and Samuel Hardy, of New York, in four sets. The youthful collegians were too aggressive and speedy for the old-timers. The scores were 6-2, 7-5, 2-6, 10-8.

In last year's tournament Voshell and Hardy gave Dick Williams and Watson Washburn the stiffest battle they had on their troublesome journey to the final round.

Nathaniel W. Niles, of Boston, and Jean Borata, of France, defeated Harry Prescott and A. N. Reggio, of Boston, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

The Spanish Davis Cup team, Manuel Alonzo and Count De Gomar, was eliminated from the competition by R. N. Williams, 2d of Boston, and W. M. Washburn, of New York, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

DECISIVE VICTORIES MARK TITLE TENNIS

Only One Team of Favorites Pressed to Extra Sets in National Doubles—Davis and Ward Meet Tilden and Richards Today

By WILLIAM T. TILDEN, 2D
National Tennis Champion

Boston, Mass., Aug. 22.

FORM ran true in the opening rounds of the National doubles tennis championship at the Longwood Cricket Club's Chestnut Hill course yesterday afternoon.

Decisive victories were the order of the day, with only one team of favorites—Samuel Hardy and Howard Voshell—pressed to extra sets. The "dark horse" combination of R. C. Wertheim, of Australia, and Jose Alonzo, of Spain, carried the veteran American pair to the full five sets before admitting defeat.

Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, Australia's Davis Cup challengers, did not arrive in time to play, and their match was postponed until this afternoon. Manuel Alonzo and Count de Gomar, the Spanish stars, advanced when Fritz Bastian and Ralph Burdick, of Indianapolis, failed to appear and were defaulted.

"Little Bill" Johnston did not play in the tourney, as his partner, Wallace F. Johnson, of Philadelphia, did not arrive until today. However, the little Californian had a fast warm-up with Hugh Kelleher and appeared to be hitting with all his customary speed and accuracy. The remaining "seeded" players—R. N. Williams and Watson Washburn, Vincent Richards and myself—advanced in sequence set victories over their respective opponents.

FRANCE'S lone representative, Jean Borotia, teamed successfully with N. W. Niles, of Boston, playing with a dash and spirit, and he made the scratch combination appear quite formidable against the inter-mountain sectional champions, Hoover and Cordes, of Cincinnati.

Invaders Defeated

THE feature match of the day, although played on an outside court, resulted in the elimination of two of the foreign entrants when the superior teamwork of Voshell and Hardy proved too great a handicap for the pick-up team of Wertheim and Alonzo to overcome. Hardy and Voshell carried the first sets with the loss on only six games by a well-sustained net attack which the foreign combination could not break.

However, Alonzo and Wertheim were steadily improving in their co-operation and, as the Americans tired, managed to take the offensive from them and pulled even by winning the third and fourth sets, 6-3, 6-4.

It seemed that victory would rest with the foreigners, but the American team, forcing the issue at all times, again stormed the net and ran out the match with the loss of only one game in the fifth set.

Williams and Washburn looked very good, as they annihilated the strong team of Lockhorn and Crocker with the loss of only five games in three sets.

Williams, in particular, played with utmost brilliancy and daring, bringing off those sensational shots which only he can make.

Richards and I, in the somewhat precarious role of defending champions, got away to a good start by decisively defeating the strong team of Zenzo Shimidzu and F. T. Hunter, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

SELDOM, if ever, have Vinnie and I played more aggressive and consistently sound tennis than in this match. Shimidzu was at all times dangerous, but a tendency to be erratic in the pinch by Hunter cost the losers several vital games, so that Richards and I were at no time in danger.

Kinsey in Form

THE Kinsey brothers, Howard and Bob, possibly to prove that they might have figured among the "seeded" players, crushed the Northwestern sectional champions, Armstrong and McGee, dropping but four games in three sets in a match that did not last over three-quarters of an hour.

The machine-like perfection of the Californians' teamwork was a lesson to the East in the value of two men playing consistently together over a period of years.

The decisive defeat of the intercollegiate champions, Phil Neer and James Davies, by the John Hennessey and Walter Wesbrook, Western sectional titleholders and runners-up in the National clay court doubles, might be considered somewhat in the nature of an upset, as Neer and Davies have made a remarkably fine record during their Eastern trip.

However, the ability to reach and put back the hardest returns of the California collegians finally broke their attack and Hennessey and Wesbrook romped home, 6-3, 6-3, 8-6.

The feature meeting today brings the Spanish stars, Manuel Alonso and Count de Gomar against the former American Davis Cup team, Williams and Washburn.

While I look to see the Americans win, the splendid fighting qualities and recovering abilities of the Spaniards should produce a close, long match before the victory is decided.

The first American Davis Cup team—Holcombe Ward and Dwight Davis, the donor of the famous trophy—meets what may be the 1922 Davis Cup pair, Richards and myself, in other of today's features.

The other outstanding matches bring the Kinsey brothers against Willis Davis, of California, and H. C. Johnson, of Boston; Johnston and Johnson against Tunis and Ellis; Patterson and O'Hara Wood against Nicholl and Niles, with little chance of upset for any of the favorites.

IN THE junior events there was one startling upset when James L. Farquahar, the 1920 boys' title-holder, defeated Armand Marion, of Seattle, Wash., in a bitter three-set match. The other "seeded" stars, aside from Marion—Arnold W. Jones, the favorite for the 1922 title and runner-up to Richards last year; J. F. Whitbeck and W. W. Ingraham—advanced with ease.

WIENER BEATEN IN BOYS' TENNIS PLAY

Philadelphia Youth Defeated by O'Loughlin in Straight Sets at Boston

FIFTH LOCAL PLAYER OUT

Boston, Aug. 22.—Sandy Wiener, Bill Tilden's protege from the Germantown Academy, Philadelphia, was eliminated in his third-round match in the national boys' singles tennis championship tournament on the courts of the Longwood Cricket Club today.

When D. O'Loughlin, of Pittsburgh, put Wiener out of the running in straight sets, 10-8, 6-3, he forced the fifth Philadelphian trying to bring back the national junior and boys' titles out of the classic tourney.

Wiener tried hard to win the match, but his Smoky City opponent was too fast for him. Still, Sandy fought hard in the first set, and at one time he had the frame in his grasp. O'Loughlin pulled out, however, won the set and then ran out the match.

Milford Meyer, of Central High, holder of the Pennsylvania State doubles diadem along with Milton Hofkin, advanced to the third round of the boys' tourney by defeating S. Orcutt, of Brooklyn, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

Hanson Hodge and Samuel Ewing, also of Philadelphia, were eliminated from the junior doubles in their first-round match with W. W. Ingraham and A. W. Jones, of Providence. The Rhode Island team had an easy time with the Philadelphians, winning 6-1, 6-2.
