years ago that if given the right to vote they would "start something" was fulfilled again today when the County Commissioners approved changing ten

Yesterday a delegation of women appeared before the commissioners and area desired against the insanitary protested against the insanttary con-ditions, poor lighting and inadequate size of many of the polling places. They were backed by many men voters who signed the petitions presented to The commissioners refused to change

The commissioners refused to change the polling place of the fortieth divi-sion of the Forty-third Ward from 619 Rising Sun avenue to 3800 North Sixth street. Joseph E. Hale, 3737 North Seventh street, former division commit-teeman, topped the list of seventy-two signers for the change. A counter pe-tition was signed by 183 voters. Hale said be wanted the change because the odor of "printers' ink" from an adjoining shop was objectionable. George F. Holmes, president of the County Commissioners, a former newspaperman, disagreed.

The fifteenth division of the Thirty-second Ward was changed from a fish store to an ice cream parlor at Nine-teenth and North streets. Mrs. Marie A. O'Connell, Democratic worker, had rigorously protested against the fish
