Washington, Aug. 28.—While committees of the Senate and House were at work today to perfect coal distribution legislation recommended by the Administration, President Harding and his advisers prepared to bring to bear all the powers they now possess for improvement of fuel transportation facili-

As a result of the President's weekend conferences it was indicated that he still believed it would be possible to restore normal conditions without a resort to Government operation of rail and coal properties affected by the strike situation, and that he felt much could be done in that direction even before Congress acts to create a fuel distribution agency and to clothe the Interstate Commerce Commission with additional powers over priority.

At the same time, however, both the Senate and House Interstate Commerce Committees were redoubling their offorts to complete the distribution and priority bills, and steps to authorise the President to take over roads and mines remained in the offing with congressional opinion divided as to the advisability of such a course at the present moment. Would Speed Coal Shipments With the President's return With the President's return to Washington this morning from a weeks end cruise on the yacht Mayflower, where Secretary Hoover, Attorney General Daugherty and Chairman Cummins, of the Senate committee, were among his guests and conferees, it was indicated that for the time being the attention of executive officials would be centered with increased vigor upon be centered with increased vigor upon what is said to be regarded by Mr. Harding as the crux of the whole industrial situation—the movement of

As outlined in an authoritative quarter, the Mayflower conference reached the conclusion that the bituminous coal situation was in a fair way to clear itself up entirely, that the anthracite strike showed indications of settlement in the very near future, and that if facilities could be provided to accelerate shipment of the fuel sup-plies thus promised the general situa-tion would be such as to enable a gradual re-establishment of complete stability.

Just what executive steps are is contemplation to facilitate coal shipments were not revealed, but it was indicated that both the Interstate Commerce Commission and the emergency find distribution machines. merce Commission and the emergency fuel distribution machinery already set up would be relied on to provide ef-fective measures to protect the inter-ests of the public.

May Curtail Passenger Service There were intimations that in order to get the maximum results a curtailment of passenger, express and freight traffic in all commodities except fuel and essential foodstuffs was among the possibilities. Chairman Cummins, who has advocated steps to authorize presidential operation of roads and mines, would not operation of roads and mines, would not discuss the Mayflower conversations or his return to the Capitol today, but hindicated that he might not offer for the present the authorizing legislation he has prepared. It was the clear implication of all the leaders, both in exceptive and legislative circles, however, that possible action in that direction still was a part of the Government strike program if lesser measures do no prove effective.
