

Yanks Have Big Task on Hands to Keep in Lead in Close American League Race With Browns

BIG ADVANTAGE RESTS WITH GIANTS IN DASH TOWARD PENNANT

With Thirty-four Games Still on Schedule, Twenty-two Will Be Played on Polo Grounds—Yanks Still Have Hard Fight Ahead—A's Bump Mack

Yanks have to head it to the Giants. They showed the fight and might just when their chances seemed poor and came through with enough victories to send them into first by a comfortable margin. A veteran follower of the national pastime was talking about the sensational spurt of the Giants during their tour of the West.

When Douglas wrote his famous note and it was discovered for the world the chances of the Giants to finish that Western trip on the better and seemed slimmer than a well-worn dime, he continued:

Douglas, when he is in shape and pitching in his form, is one of the hardest pitchers in the National League to defeat. McGraw counted on him for the dash down the stretch because of his experience and stamina. When he was dropped in Pittsburgh the black flag could have been draped around the Giants' chances. I know for I had New York's list at that time.

Instead of being draped around the loss of the pennant, however, he seemed to install the team with a fight and a dash down the stretch that season. Every member of the team seemed to be going it was up to him individually to buckle down to work and make good.

There is no doubt that the late McGraw made a few strikes in getting McQuillan and Johnny Scott. It is not that many a manager in the two leagues is kicking himself all over for letting a former Boston hero go to the Giants. They all seemed to forget that the Boston had had a year and a half longer with a star and they figured that if Pat Moran would have none of Scott that he was about through.

Instead of being draped around through he is going to prove one of the biggest factors in the winning of the pennant for New York. With McQuillan, Art Neil, Les Barnes and the youngsters, Neri, Barnes and Ryan, Scott is just about going to make that giant pitching staff worth a million dollars before the season is over.

WHAT I don't think the Giants can be beaten out here. The team is playing the kind of ball that enabled it to win that game from the Pirates last year, while the Reds seem to be making an experiment for the first time that they should not be dangerous, and the others are too far behind.

Made Great Record in West
The Yankees had to get about the Giants a little better in the field. They left Graham with a lead of a game and a half and bounced into the Pirates, losing the opening game and spoiling a game in the field. This team, however, showed and captured the next two games from Bill McKechnie's team just when they were going along with a lead of a game and a half.

Two out of three games were won from them by the Yankees. The game lost going to eleven runs and being won by the manager hand of John Grover Alexander. The pair of games won with the Reds resulted in Giant triumph.

Then came the important series at the Cardinals, anxious to make up lost ground and get in from behind there for a good time during the season. The result of the series is better, with the Giants making a clean sweep and doing so surprisingly, but even more so, they were given their first victory in a series.

Nine out of eleven games played here on the trip of the Giants, seven and against the strongest teams in the National League. St. Louis was in second place, Chicago in third, Pittsburgh fourth and Cincinnati fifth.

The standings this morning show the Giants to be seven full games ahead of the Cubs, who trailed second place from the Cubs at the expense of the Phillies. It is not remembered that at this time last season the Phillies had what seemed to be a comfortable margin, but they were not to pass by a surprising finish.

The series of games in Philadelphia were at the expense of the Gothamites, who in the first game of the series were down to the bottom of the league. The series was a success for the Yankees, who were down to the bottom of the league. The series was a success for the Yankees, who were down to the bottom of the league.

Yanks Face Real Opposition
The situation in the American League is a tough fight. The Yanks are in the morning after the night before, but they are in the lead. Which means that the pennant can be won by either.

Not only must the Yanks contend with that they will be forced to play the majority of their games away from home against the strongest teams in the American League. They will be forced to play the majority of their games away from home against the strongest teams in the American League.

After the series with the Eastern teams, including Boston, the Yanks start their swing toward the Western and the Giants will dole their fate. Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland will be met in the order named and it is a long haul for the Yanks to have any easy time of it.

Detroit, Cleveland and St. Louis will present the strongest form of opposition for Joe Bush, Bob Shawkey and his pals. The White Sox, with Urban Shaver, should win one and possibly a pair of games from the Gotham team.

In the meantime, the Yanks will be taking on Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago and after that the Eastern teams. Playing most of the games, twenty-three, on the home field will help the slugging Browns a lot.

According to Johnny Evers, there is one thing in favor of the Yanks and that is experience. To a man the New Yorkers have a more experienced group of campaigners than the Phils' team.

The Yanks' coaching staff of Brooks, Maza, Shawkey, Hoyt and Jones is more formidable than that of the Browns with Shaver, Wright, Rayna, Davis, Koip and Vangies. The Yanks' manager doesn't do it in the manner in which he has been trying to get things out of them, when the opposition is strong.

Shawkey and Shocker in Brilliant Duel
IN ONE of the lower league games played in New York last season, the Yanks took the shaggy old pitcher from the Browns. It was a matter of struggle filled with some moments that have been remembered. Bob Shawkey, who was a great pitcher, and Urban Shocker, the demon pitcher of the Browns, who has been a great pitcher, had a brilliant duel, pitched ball and hit, and made the story of the night look like a thriller.

Bob, the former Mackay, and the young pitcher, George Stiller, and his pals in four runs to the score, scattered. The only run scored by the Browns came from a sacrifice of Stiller, who had been personally coached by the former Yanks.

Passing coming in on a ball that was hit back to the former Yanks, but he always hit ground the strategy of the Browns up to him. He did it in with a brilliant shot, now the score was 4-1 in favor of the Browns at second and third, which would have been a run for the Browns.

SHOCKER showed eight runs but made the score and showed, when the Yanks made their last, perfect sacrifice, with two on base. It was Shawkey's second out of the series and he showed a lot of stuff.

Homers Help Naylor to Win
OUR Athletics are going to fight the night battle in a pitchless game from the very moment that the first ball is pitched. It is a matter of the night and the day. Shocker will be a great pitcher, but the night and the day. Shocker will be a great pitcher, but the night and the day.

This occurred in the second game of the series last night when the Mackaymen won. The first was the Sox when Bob Hasty got out to the generous. Just because he scored two runs with a double, the tall Routhener thought he should try private and he did by hitting a second home that let in a pair of runs and made the third possible. The three were enough for victory.

In the second game a trio of extra base hits helped Bobbie Naylor, who though hit hard was bunched with men on base. Heine Scherer, banking his start as a third sacker, but his first major league homer, no mean feat for a youngster batting 122. Bug Miller edged in with his seventeenth homer with two on and McGowan hit a double that counted another pair.

IN THE only National League game played the Pirates captured an eleven-inning struggle from Uncle Robbie's Dodgers. Maza Carey was the whole show in the triumph. Wilbur Cooper broke down Vance's streak of game scores, which had reached six, by outpitching the youngster.

DEMPSEY-JOHNSON OFFER PIPE DREAM

Kearns Dissipates Report of $500,000 Purse for Title Bout in Mexico City

NEGRO SPARRING AT SHORE

By LOUISE JAFFE

THAT half million-dollar offer for a bout between Jack Dempsey and Jack Johnson at Mexico City, Mex., some time in October, is somebody's pipe dream.

Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, knocked out the report of the $500,000 purse before leaving for Michigan City from New York, to take charge of Dempsey's affairs for his exhibition on Labor Day, when he will spar with several of his stockholders.

According to the rumor, negotiations were on for the Mexican City contest. Kearns, who has a long and profitable association with Johnson in Atlantic City, Sunday, Johnson is appearing in a starring role with Jack Ward at one of the local theatres.

Kearns, who is now in Atlantic City, and the following to say yesterday over the long-distance telephone.

I am unable to account for the report about the $500,000 offer, although I have received word that an effort would be made to match Dempsey with Johnson in Mexico City.

Wires Confess to Investigate Matter
No financial institution has been made known in a state or other way, he was observed.

As a matter of fact, I know nothing about the Mexican City proposition beyond that it is a pipe dream. I am sure that the offer is a pipe dream, but I have never seen any of the dark kid. I have never seen any of the dark kid.

How Does It Strike You?

"Easy" Victory Johnson's Fines Collegiate Gambling

WHEREIN is the joy of victory when the competition is lacking? Triumph without opposition is as flat, tasteless and unadventurous as prohibition beer.

Down on the Severn the other day, the Arundel oarsmen met the Annapolis Plebes in a sight-ored race.

They jockeyed at the start, each eager for a snappy getaway that would carry their shell into the lead. The gun sounded and they struggled for the advantage.

Bow to bow and stern to stern they pulled down the stretch, each oarsman putting his full strength on his blade in the water.

Suddenly there was a snap and a jerk in the Navy shell. A Plebe had tested his oar beyond its strength. It broke. The Plebes had seven workers and the added weight of the unfortunate oarsman who sat clutching the stub of his blade, a helpless handicap.

The race was over as for the ultimate result was concerned. Arundel would win easily, but the Arundel don't like that kind of victory.

They saw the plight of their rivals and as one man they feathered their oars and they dried in the air before they touched water again, and when they did they pulled the frail shell to the boathouse.

Here is real sportsmanship—the kind that would not stoop to take advantage. The New Yorkers muffed easy grounders, they tossed the ball around the infield and outfield before returning it to the pitcher. They held conferences in the field and they gained their point.

The shower opened with all its fury in the first of the fifth and the players had to seek cover. They waited an hour, the field was still wet and the game was called off.

Huggins, Meusel, Scott and Schang have been fined for what President Johnson calls "a disgraceful exhibition." A repetition of such tactics, he warned, will place Huggins under a ten-day suspension.

The White Sox players howled loud and long at the umpires and they were rewarded they are fined by the league president. Faber, Falk and Schalk will each have to pay $25.

There's quite a contrast between the Arundel and the Yankees. One refused to take victory when it was legally theirs; the other refused to take defeat when beaten fairly.

DUNDEE HAS EASY TIME WITH MARTIN

Johnny Enters Ring Below the Featherweight Limit and Laces Brooklyn Rival

New York, Aug. 29.—Johnny Dundee, holder of the featherweight and 130-pound titles, last night, in the presence of 8,000 in the Velodrome, eliminated another rival in the person of Vincent Peppert Martin of Brooklyn.

The ambitious Mr. Martin planned to dethrone Dundee of his lightweight championship, and while Martin scaled the limit of the class, Dundee got into the ring at 124½ pounds, which was below the featherweight limit.

In spite of the disparity in weight and years, the veteran Dundee gave Martin a most artistic display. In nearly every round of the fifteen Martin's volleys were deflected by wild swings of Dundee, but for the most part his blows hit no uncomplaining atmosphere.

A number of his attacks missed by a foot or more, and not once during the fifteen rounds did he hit Dundee with sufficient force to make the slightest impression on the champion.

The bout was disappointing to the spectators for the reason that Martin, as soon as he realized how helpless he was before the Italian, started a campaign of clinching that slowed the action of the contest.

The spectators wished on several occasions to urge the men to greater activity. Dundee was quite willing to make an interesting battle, but every time they got to clinch quarters Martin clinched with desperation.

A few times during the bout Martin sought to make one of the spectacular rights which have endeared him to the Brooklyn numbers, but his wild swings failed to land, and Dundee beat a tempo on his face and body. It looked several times that Dundee might stop his man, but Martin saved himself by hugging with great enthusiasm.

Dundee brought Martin to his knees with a heavy left jab in the seventh, eighth and tenth rounds; the Italian beat his man all about the ring.
