Canaries Die, Warning Rescuers of Mine Peril

Jackson, Calif., Aug. 29.—(By A. P.)—Canaries told the rescue workers the futility of attempting farther descents into the shaft of the Argonaut mine, where flames have raged since midnight Sunday from the 2000-foot level upward. The birds died in warning of the danger of the descent. They were lowered into the shaft by rescue workers from the State Bureau of Mines at Berkeley. The tests showed that descent only to 2700 feet could be made.

Are you ready to help clear the way

HERE is every probability that the necessary amount of coal to keep our homes warm and to keep the wheels of industry going will be mined and will be transported by rail and waterways to the cities and towns where it is needed.

But this fuel will have to be transported in less than half the normal time, which will probably force embargoes on certain classes of freightparticularly short haul freight.

With abnormal fuel shipments, bumper crops to be transported and a bigger volume of general business than last year, we are facing a serious transportation crisis unless adequate provision is made for it now.

Motor trucks must accomplish more than ever in delivering many small split shipments of coal; in hauling coal from local yards by consumers when dealers are too rushed to deliver; in making short hauls that the railroads may refuse; in clearing terminals with record speed; in relieving the strain on available rolling stock whenever and wherever possible.

RELIEF

If your trucks need overhauling, make arrangements immediately for that purpose.

If you need additional equipment, buy it now.

Even if you are contracting for your transportation, you should own one or more trucks to forestall a serious situation, or make sure that your hauling contractor realizes what is facing him during the coming months of September, October, November, December, January, February and March.

Many a business house that would otherwise be tied up will be able to get coal and make short-haul shipments if it owns trucks.
