Nancy Wynne Talks of Doings Planned for the Week in Newport—She Hears of Broken Betrothals. Various Other Topics of Interest

WE'LL soon have our social innings here, for with this week the exciting doings in Newport, Southampton, East Chelsea, the Upper Jersey coast resorts and Narragansett Pier will end. However, they have managed to crowd in a great lot for this last week in August and first two days of September to make it a memorable time.

There'll be a breathing space of a few days, and on September 8 the international tennis will start at Manhattan. Then won't we have a time trying to make trains and "specials," remembering to calculate standard time and daylight-saving time and always failing in the middle and arriving just too late for the 1:10 to find that it goes at 2:10 or tearing up at 1 to find that it's only 12:15. It's a great thing, this daylight-saving time when you come to trains and time tables. It's marvelous and I for one would hate to tell how many I've missed through it.

WELL, let us go up to Newport to spirit at least, if we cannot be there in person, and see and hear all our townfolk who are there will see and hear this week. In the first place, here's the invitation to the annual horse show and there's the Annual Horse Show and the pageant tonight by the Art Association. Peggy Thayer is in Newport, you know, and so is Anita Sweeney and the Tom Ridgways, the Craig Biddies, Mrs. Howard Spencer Graham, who is head of the pageant; Alex Dolan and her father, Mr. Clarence Dolan (Mrs. Dolan and Rita called for Dolan Saturday). Mr. and Mrs. George D. Wilener, Mr. and Mrs. Pety Roberts, Phyllis Walsh, who is there for the tennis, and ever so many others.

Reggie Vanderbilt has been ill with inflammatory rheumatism, and every one has been afraid he would not be able to go to the Horse Show, but as latest news I have had from Newport and that in a letter written on Sunday, tells me that the doctor has given him permission to judge at the show today and to give his annual dinner at Sandy Point Farm for the Horse Show Committee. Somehow a horse show at Newport without Reggie Vanderbilt and P. Penn Smith, of O. O. C., as judges, would not seem like a horse show, would it?

AND do you realize that our own A. Bryn Maur Horse Show will be airing us out on the Main Line in four weeks' time? It does not seem possible, but it is, and before that there will be teas and garden parties and a dinner home from Newport, east and west. The number of buds for the season is phenomenal, almost as many as there were the year after last, when nearly two hundred were introduced. This season there will be more than a hundred, so you may know how busy we'll be trotting round to the teas and parties.

BESIDES the epidemic of elopements, which seems to have hit Philadelphia's younger set, there's a regular deluge of engagements and just now. In the last week I have heard rumors of no less than three. Because I have not heard of their being from the interested parties themselves I will not give you the names. I never like to start gossip, you know, but you'll probably hear of them all soon. And, incidentally, I think the young people are to be commended for breaking, if they arrive at a certainty that they are not suited to each other. If those who intend to marry sometimes think a little more before the ceremony of their opposite tastes, ideas and traditions there would be less food for divorce courts.

THE other day Jack, who is fire, died, told upon enjoying himself in a novel manner, so taking a magazine he proceeded to light said edges from a nearby box of matches. And further, he understood, this was done in the house, Jack put the fire out, it seems, but not before Mother had discovered the affair and reprimanded strongly. When father came home he was told, for Mother felt a few remarks from him would have a better effect. So father took Jack into the study with him and proceeded to talk about it all. He explained very carefully that the matches might have set the house afire and might have burned every one in it. And Jack listened and then looked smilingly into his father's face and said: "But, Daddy, I'm too young to know the difference between right and wrong." Daddy thought that going a bit far and proceeded to give the needed chastisement.

Some days later when father was sitting out on the porch Jack approached him, holding a box of matches. "Daddy," said he, "I found these lying round in your room. We had a little conversation about matches the other day, didn't we?"
