Nancy Wynne Talks of the Reopening of Many Suburban Homes—She Hears of Delightful Children's Fete at Southampton, L. I.

LABOR DAY never seems much of a holiday in my mind. Nearly every one who has been away for July and August comes home with a new holiday day (are you know how much holiday you have if you have to pack for the family). However, the men for whom the holiday was invented are usually unable to manage to have a good time, and usually spend the day in the various nearby resorts have been quite while this holiday.

YOU will see the proof of my words about packing tomorrow, however, if you chance into the railroad stations and ferryhouses, for the crowds coming home will be enormous. And in Philadelphia, where the cars in Pullman compartments usually stay away till late in the month, many are coming home early, and are opening up all along the Main Line. The George Brookings have opened their home at Ithan (they have a beautiful place, with gorgeous gardens and pool) at the end of the line. They have opened their house since their return from Europe a couple of weeks ago. The Robble Cassatts, who were in Europe for a month and part of the summer at Dark Harbor, Me., with Mrs. Cassatt's mother, Mrs. Alice Van Dusen, are back at Baupere, their place in Rowan, N. H.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was in Europe for several months, who went back to Bryan Manor, where they have a beautiful place, you know, and the dinner-dance for Hope Montague to be given on September 20 at their place. I understand Harry is back from Maine at their Chestnut Hill home, and Lucille Austin and her father expect to move into town about October 1. They have a beautiful place at the corner of Twenty-second and Locust streets, for the winter, Mr. Austin having sold his house in Chestnut Hill, you know.

THAT party at Southampton on Friday in which the little ones took part, must have been too cute for anything. It was given for the benefit of the Fresh Air Home, which is one of the good works of the Red Cross, and it was rather sweet thing that the children of the well-to-do should have acted and sung and danced to all their less fortunate brothers and sisters. Nothing else so charming as to learn that others suffer and need help.

Some of the little convalescent kiddies of the home were in the front seats in the open air. The children of the Fresh Air Home, which is one of the good works of the Red Cross, and it was rather sweet thing that the children of the well-to-do should have acted and sung and danced to all their less fortunate brothers and sisters. Nothing else so charming as to learn that others suffer and need help.

I WAS glad to hear yesterday that Miss Leahy was no longer badly injured in his car Thursday night. She had a very bad accident, but she is now well and going fast enough to be badly injured. He is in business in the store of a car company up at Berwick, and he will have a house there. They have been away for several weeks during the summer, but have kept their house open at Berwick and spent much time there.

ELISE was riding through the country with Uncle Bob and having a beautiful time, but the hours were spent at the beach. She had a very bad accident, but she is now well and going fast enough to be badly injured. He is in business in the store of a car company up at Berwick, and he will have a house there. They have been away for several weeks during the summer, but have kept their house open at Berwick and spent much time there.

MISS MARY NEVILLE will act as maid of honor at the marriage of her sister, Miss Adelaide S. Neville, to Mr. W. H. Paul, which will take place at the Church of the Holy Trinity, 104th St., Philadelphia, September 16, at noon in the afternoon. The bride is Miss Mary Neville, a cousin of the bridegroom, Mr. W. H. Paul, a sister of the groom, and Mrs. Heister Warden.

MISS CHARLES J. HATFIELD, of Monroeville, Chester Hill, has changed residence to the new home at 11th and Locust streets, which they will occupy on September 12. Miss Hatfield will be followed by her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hatfield, and her sister, Miss Mary Hatfield, on the same day. They will arrive in Philadelphia on the 12th.

MISS ELIZABETH MACLEOD, of Monroeville, Chester Hill, has changed residence to the new home at 11th and Locust streets, which they will occupy on September 12. Miss Hatfield will be followed by her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hatfield, and her sister, Miss Mary Hatfield, on the same day. They will arrive in Philadelphia on the 12th.

JACK O'JUDGMENT :-: By Edgar Wallace

Who's Who in the Story COLONEL DAN BOUNDARY, fat, coarse-grained but unaccountably clever...

STAFFORD KING, of the London Criminal Intelligence Force. FORCE HIMSELF a stroke man about town, forcing his way into a room at night, who found him. She is MAIRIE WHITE, daughter of Rolly White, one of the gang who stayed at the LOLLIE MARSH, delicate but clever girl, who acts as a 'snoop' of the black-bagging...

"JUMPING MOSERS!" said the colonel softly. "Detectaphones!" He took Pinto's knife from his hand and pried one of the discs loose. It was attached to a wire which was embedded in the plaster, and this the colonel severed with a stroke of his knife.

"This is the business end of a microphone," he said, "gasped Pinto; and the colonel nodded. "Of course, I was mad not to guess that," he said; "that's how he heard that and how he spoke. Now, we're going to get the bottom out of this."

me," he added with elaborate politeness; "I have a lot of work to do." He cleared the drawers of his writing table by the simple process of pulling them out and emptying their contents upon the top. He went through these with remarkable rapidity, throwing the papers one by one into the fire; and he was engaged in this occupation when Pinto returned.

"Here's the check book," said the colonel in surprise; and then, after a glance at the other's face, he demanded: "What's wrong?" Pinto was incapable of speech. He just put the check down upon the table.
