Committees Meet Today to Take Long-Awaited Step Toward Definite Action

DIRECTORS TO ACT LATER

As a result of the meeting this afternoon in the Bellevue-Stratford of two committees of the Sesqui-Centennial Association it is expected that a definite plan for building up the fair will be ready for the Board of Directors within ten days.

When the Committee on Plan and Scope and that on Buildings and Grounds assemble the members will have before them all the data gathered on the fair project in the past months.

Among the things that the committees will decide are: What is art? and what kinds of art shall the fair include and how shall they be displayed?

The committee, for example, will "boil down," so to speak, the general defense to the charges on which her term industry until it knows what kinds husband has based an action for annulterm industry until it knows what kinds of industry shall be included, what periods are to be r presented and how the display shall be made. The arts and sciences will be put through the line are process.

Mrs. Pollock, who lives in Westport. Conn., with her mother, Mrs. Amelia Gildersleeve, is twenty, tall, slender, with much chestnut hair and but blue ares.

When these definitions have been settled a letter will be read at the meet-ing from Paul Cret, one of the archiects who have taken a leading part in Sesqui-Centennial affairs, in which will e outlined the method of procedure for getting the buildings to house the ex-

With this outline to go by, a map will be made of the exposition grounds. It will show the layout of the fair in its entirety and will give to the directors when they meet September 15 working plan.
