MINE RESCUE CREW AGAIN LOSES HOPE

Must Still Pierce 333 Feet of Debris and 30 Feet of Solid Rock

IT MAY TAKE TWO WEEKS

Jackson, Calif., Sept. 7 .- Hoperahat the buried miners in the Argonaut shave would be reached by rescue crews which ; have been tunneling feverishly since a week ago Sunday night, in time to bring out alive the entrapped miners, faded after it became known today that rescuers burrowing from the 360%-foot task is accomplished.

Fred L. Lowell, safety engineer for the State Industrial Accident Commission, said that only ten feet were cleared yesterday on the 3900-foot level of the Kennedy mine which would lead to the 4650-foot level of the Argonaut. Rescue shifts working on the two levels continued their work without let-up, and indications are that the workers on the 3600-foot level would be the first to Edmund Norris Hobart.

gineer connected with the Mexican Min-ing Department of the American Smelting and Refining Company, arrived here today to render whatever assistance is possible. Mr. Hobart has had charge of rescue work in several similar Mexican mine disasters.

Every minute since midnight of August 27, when forty-seven men were trapped below the 4200-foot level of the Argonaut mine, hundreds of reseners have been working desperately to find a means of reaching the entombed

The first step was to cut away bulkhead that separates the Argonaut and Kennedy mines. The plan was abandoned when it was found a cave-to had occurred on the 3000-foot level on which the rescuers were working.

Attempts then were made to bres into the Argensut shaft from the 3600 and 3000 foot levels of the Kenneds mine. Both of these also were blocked.

Engineers today were studying maps with a view to cutting a connection be-tween an old waste drift from the 3000 foot level and the green stone cross of recently traversed. Superintendent 8. Garbarini explained that this would facilitate rescue work after the Argonaut is reached by giving workers going in and coming out two paths. It ing in and coming out two paths. It would be in the nature of a switch or siding to avoid confusion when men with stretchers and those hearing food are forced to make great haste between the outside and the chamber where the fre victims are entembed.

No more blasts have been heard from the pit where the men are held prisoner. More nurses arrived today and the hospital is fully equipped to render medical attention to the men, should they be in position to receive it.
