WIDENER GETS REMBRANDT'S NOTED 'DESCENT FROM CROSS'

Dutch Master's Greatest Religious Painting Added to Connoisseur's Collection—$500,000 to $1,000,000 Paid

Rembrandt's most famous religious painting, "The Descent From the Cross," which Joseph E. Widener purchased in Europe last July and which now hangs with twelve other Rembrandts in Lynwood Hall, the Widener home in Elkton Park.

Joseph E. Widener has added to his art collection Rembrandt's "The Descent from the Cross," generally regarded by critics as the greatest religious picture ever painted by the Dutch artist. He acquired the painting in Europe last July, and personally brought it to Lynwood Hall, the Widener residence in Elkton Park.

The purchase price was not made public, but values placed upon it by dealers and art critics range from $500,000 to $1,000,000, according to the present-day prices for world masterpieces.

The Widener collection is probably now the greatest in the United States and is especially rich in Rembrandts. It is believed Mr. Widener has more of this artist's fine paintings than are to be found in any other collection outside of Holland.

He has "The Mill," regarded by many art critics as the world's greatest landscape; "St. Paul," which he acquired from the Lord Wimborne collection, and Rembrandt's self-portrait, besides many others.

In the whole collection there are now thirteen Rembrandts. "The Descent From the Cross" was put on sale at Christie's in London early last July, and was bought by F. Kleinberger, of New York. It was then bought for the Von Gans collection at Frankfurt and later acquired by an agent for Mr. Widener.

According to the signature, Rembrandt painted the picture in 1631. Mr. Widener is said to have paid $500,000 for "The Mill," which he acquired several years ago. Also he is said to have paid about $500,000 for the two Youssouff portraits of a man and a woman by Rembrandt, acquired last year.

TWO MOTORTRUCKS BURN

Fire horses were burned to death, one man was severely burned and two motortrucks were destroyed in a $10,000 fire in the stable and garage of Louis Kallitz at 2908 North Croskey street.

The injured man is Wilson Kallitz, son of the owner, who was kicked by a horse and badly burned about the face and arms in a vain attempt to save the horses. He was taken to the Samaritan Hospital.

The fire started at 4 o'clock this morning. The origin is unknown, but the flames spread with great rapidity. Wilson Kallitz, who lives at 2910 Croskey street, was awakened by the smoke and the shouts of a passerby. He hurried to the street to find the upper floor of the row of stables along Croskey street a mass of flames.

Three horses were saved, and fire was burned as they dashed about the interior of the burning building.
